The Council met pursuant to adjournment. The minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

Mr. Hickson presented a petition from S. E. Grimstone praying for compensation for services, set forth, as rendered.

Memorial read.

His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor laid on the table a "Bill to appropriate the revenue for the year 1849-50.

His Excellency then read the following finance minute upon laying the estimates on the table :

GENTLEMEN OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUN-CIL,---

In laying before you the Estimates for the year, it is my duty to make such explanatory remarks in reference to particular departments or services as may seem likely to be useful in elucidating any points of importance connected with them. I proceed therefore to comment upon such as appear to me more particularly to require notice but should further information be wished for, I shall be happy to supply it as far as I can do so, in each particular case when the estimates are brought forward for consideration in Committee.

WELLINGTON.

Lieutenant-Governor's Establishment.

Under this heading is included the salary of an officer designated as Native Secretary and Interpreter, who although especially attached to the Lieutenant-Governor's establishment and by the conditions under which he holds office bound to reside near the Government House so as always to be within reach when required as an Interpreter, is yet liable at all times to be called upon to undertake any duties connected with the natives in which his services can be made available for the public good.

During the past year the gentleman at present filling the office has twice been so detached from his ordinary duties to negotiate the acquisition of lands from the natives. When not fully occupied in matters connected with the natives, it is the duty of the Native Secretary to assist in the Private Secretary's office, by which the necessity of employing an additional clerk is obviated and that expense saved to the public.

Colonial Secretary's Department.

I have continued to this department the same establishment as it was originally constituted with, though I am aware that the increasing business of the Colonial Secretary's office has made the duties much more onerous, and that occasionally there is some difficulty in getting through the current business. I anticipate therefore that another year it will be found necessary to increase the establishment by an additional clerk.

Survey Department.

In the estimate for this department I have only included the salary of one surveyor, although in reality two have constantly been employed during the past year. The necessity for a second surveyor arose from Mr. Fitzgerald's being exclusively engaged in superintending the construction of the Wairarapa Road, and his salary therefore ought to have been provided for out of the road funds and to have appeared as a part of the expense of constructing the Wairarapa line. Should Mr. Fitzgerald be again exclusively engaged during the ensuing year in the same service, I propose that this course should be adopted and his salary and allowances form a charge upon the road fund, in which case the amount now estimated for, would be available for the payment of an additional surveyor and other expenses legitimately connected with the Survey department.

Customs Department.

Some increase has been found necessary to this establishment to secure efficiency and protect the Revenue. A Searcher's office has been established, and additional Tide Waiters have been employed. An arrangement has also been made by which the Harbor Master, who is also an officer of Customs, shall devote all his spare time to the service of the Customs. The good effect of these changes is already apparent in the increase of revenue obtained for the quarter during which they have been in operation.

Harbor Department.

In this department considerable changes have been made during the past year. Formerly it was the practice to pay the Pilot £100 a year and allow him the whole pilotage on condition of his providing his own residence, boat and boat's crew; but after the wreck of the Subraon whilst in charge of the Pilot, it was considered desirable that the Government should take all these matters into their own hands, and that arrangements, upon which the efficiency of the pilot service so materially depended, should no longer be left to the Pilot himself. A residence is now therefore provided for him as well as a boat and boat's crew, and a salary of one hundred pounds per annum is allotted to him in addition to one-third of all pilotage received, the other two-thirds forming a part of the Revenue. The Harbor Master himself is also, as Ihave before remarked, is an officer of Customs and is now required to devote his spare time to that department. The whole establishment estimated for is as moderate as is compatible with efficiency, and a reduction of £95 16s. has recently been effected by substituting seven native boatmen for Europeans as rowers in the Harbor and Pilot boats; it is still, however, considered desirable to retain one European in each boat in addition to the natives,

Medical Department.

In the Medical department an increased expenditure has unavoidably arisen from the necessity of renting a building as a Colonial Hospital, the former one having been destroyed by the earthquakes. Even with this addition however, the sum of £819:10s. cannot I think but be regarded as a very moderate expenditure, to keep up efficiently so useful an institution and one which has hitherto been very successful, and productive of much good to both races of her Majesty's subjects.

Attorney-General.

This department has necessarily been called into existence by the Charter, but the office of Crown Solicitor has been abolished. The only unusual item of expenditure connected with the department is that of clerk to the Attorney-General, an appointment which was sanctioned in consideration of the Attorney-General having to draw out all grants of land, and his being unable, as at Auckland and other places, to obtain assistance in preparing such documents from officers of the Land Department. Here the Demesne Lands being vested in the New Zealand Company no Government Land Office is required or exists.

Post-Office.

The Post-office having been placed under the colonial authorities some additional arrangements in connection with the department may hereafter be required, but I have been informed by the Governor-in-Chief that his Excellency is expecting some communication from England on the subject, and I have therefore for the present made no alteration in the existing establishment.

Police Department.

The altered circumstances of the colony and the prospect of continued tranquillity, added to a remarkably small amount of crime in proportion to the population, have enabled me to make very great reductions in the strength of the Police establishments.

In 1847 the force for the Wellington district alone amounted, including officers, to 57. Under the changes which have been made it now numbers only 20 men exclusive of officers, and 27 including officers, but to increase the efficiency of this small body, and more especially as regards their services in the country districts, where lines of road have been opened or where the country is naturally traversable by horses, I propose to mount seven of the men during the present year, and from year to year afterwards to mount such an additional number as the occupation of the country districts, the formation of roads, or other circumstances may render necessary. The Council will perceive that the character of the Police Force will thus become gradually altered with the changing circumstances of the colony, but at all times it will be confined to the smallest number of men compatible with an efficient discharge of the duties expected from them. In making these changes, I also look forward to the time when the progress of the colony may make it necessary that the Police Force should be divided into two distinct classes, one of which would be a foot or Metropolitan Police, and the other would be exclusively a mounted force. To this division the arrangements I propose will gradually prepare the way.

NELSON.

Department of His Honor the Superintendent. A slight increase has been made to this establishment by the addition of an extra clerk, whose services have become necessary from the increase in the public business, and in justice to the gentleman who has hitherto discharged all the duties connected with the Superintendent's Office and the Resident Magistrate's Court, besides affording his services to the public in various other departments. The salary of the latter officer has also been slightly raised, viz., from £135 to £155.

Sub-Treasury Department.

At Nelson the Sub-Collector of Customs is also the Sub-Treasurer, and formerly received the sum of $\pounds 20$ per annum on account of this service, in addition to his salary as Sub-Treasurer. For the last two years, however, no additional remuneration has been given to him, and I have, therefore, at the earnest solicitation of his Honor the Superintendent and in consideration of the extra duty and responsibility entailed by two such important offices being in the hands of one individual, placed a sum of $\pounds 50$ upon the estimates as a salary to the Sub-Treasurer.

Customs Department.

In this department a slight increase has also been made by raising the salary of the acting Landing Waiter from $\pounds 130$ to $\pounds 150$.

Otago Estimates,

I have forborne making any alterations in, or (with a single exception) additions to, the existing establishment in the estimates for Otago, because there seems a probability of a separate Government being shortly established there. The exception to which I allude is the making provision for a Clerk to the Bench, an officer whose services are required in every district where petty sessions are held and cannot longer be dispensed with in the principal settlement of so extensive and important a district as that of Otago.

General Charges.

The items under this heading are, for the most part, of a similar character to those classed under the denomination of "Miscellaneous" in the estimates of 1847 for the whole of New Zealand, and are corresponding in amount to about one half, or a little less, of the sums so appropriated.

There are, however, some new items introduced which require more particular explanation, viz.

Education.

The Education Ordinance No 10, Session 8, gives power to the Lientenant-Governor and the Executive Council to appropriate any sum for educational purposes not exceeding one-twentieth of the whole revenue of the Province. This I have been unable to flo in consequence of my Executive Council having declined to recommend any such appropriation, and I have, therefore, placed on the estimates a sum of £800, which I would ask you to vote for the purposes, and with a view to its being applied in the manner, provided for by the Ordinance. I need hardly point out to you the importance of securing to the Province at as early a date as may be practicable the means of instructing the children now growing up; and I would hope that however great differences of opinion may exist as to what religion should be taught in schools aided by the state few will be found to advocate the doctrine that it is unnecessary to teach any. If then, the necessity of establishing schools and the importance of providing that in those receiving aid from the state, religious instruction of some kind be given, be admitted, I think this Council will find no fairer or more satisfactory principle than that laid down in the Education Ordinance under which an amount of assistance is given by the state towards promoting edu-cation amongst every class of the community belonging to any Christian denomination, in the exact proportion which the number of persons belonging to that denomination bears to the whole number of Christians in the Province.

Public Offices—Court House—Council.

In laying before the Council an estimate under this heading it may be necessary to state that the Local Government have no public buildings of their own whatever, that at present various scattered and inconvenient buildings are rented at exorbitant rates, and that some of them-as the Court House and Registry office are in an untenable condition -whilst no other or more suitable buildings can be obtained. In the present state of the revenue, however, the colony is not in a position to undertake the construction of the various and expensive public buildings, which are so much required, and among which may be enumerated a Court House, a Council Chamber, a Resident Magistrate's Court, and offices for the various public departments. I propose, therefore, to meet the difficulty and put off the necessity of building for two or three years by leasing at a fair rental from the Board of Management of Native Reserves the premises known as Barrett's Hotel, of which the lease falls in next July, but as the present lessees, or their sub-tenants, have incurred very considerable outlay in building, in expectation, as they allege, of a renewal of lease, the Executive Council of the Province has recommended that a sum of £300 should be awarded to them in satisfaction of all claims to compensation. These premises are at present, I believe, very much out of repair, and will also require some alterations to adapt them to the purposes of the Government, but the expenses of doing this will not, it is estimated, after a careful calculation, exceed £500, provided that such repairs and alterations only be undertaken as are absolutely essential.

These two sums would, therefore, amount to $\pounds 800$, to which must be added another £100 for rent of the present offices from the 1st April until such time as the new ones can be got ready, making in the whole £900.

Wanganui Boat.

The estimate under this heading is to provide for the expenses connected with a boat now building for Wanganui. Great difficulty has hitherto been experienced, and considerable expense incurred, from the Government having no boat suitable for crossing the bar, a disadvantage of no inconsiderable magnitude, during the disturbances at Wanganui, and one which it is very important should not continue, whilst that settlement is occupied as a military post. The boat now building will be of about 25 tons burthen, and though rather flat in the bottom, and more especially suited for the particular purpose for which it is intended, may occasionally be useful in keeping open the communication between the various settlements in the vicinity of Cook's Straits.

The total estimated expenditure of the whole Province for the service of the year ending 31st March, 1850, may be taken at $\pounds 21,704:9:4$, viz.:

Wellington£	13,809	6	3
Nelson	2,934	3	11
Otago	1,203	12	11
Wanganui	328	5	0
A karoa	341	- 1	3
Legislative Council	450	0	0
General Charges

£21,704 9 4

The Ways and Means to meet these charges are as follows, viz. —

Estimated	Revenue,	Wellington	£15,000	0	0
,,	,,	Nelson	2,500	0	0
37	,,	Otago	1,500	0	0

In all.....£19,000 0 0

Leaving, therefore, a deficiency to be provided for from the Parliamentary Grant to the amount of $\pounds 2,704:9:4$.

In estimating, however, the probable revenue of the several settlements of the Province, I have carefully confined myself within such moderate limits as may leave little doubt of the calculations being fully realized, and I hope even that they may be exceeded, and the actual deficiency be found at the close of the year less than is now anticipated. In Wellington the revenue has progressively and steadily increased during the last two years. For the financial year ending 31st March, 1848, the amount of nett revenue was £13,432:17:3, whilst for the corresponding period terminating 31st March, 1849, it was £14,400:17:8, being an increase during the year of £968:0:5. I think, therefore, that I cannot be regarded as forming too favourable an estimate in assuming that the revenue for Wellington will amount to £15,000 for the year ending 31st March, 1850.

For Nelson I have taken the estimate of his Honor the Superintendent, which essumes that an increase of about $\pounds 400$ will take place in the receipts of the current year over those of the past year.

For Otago, as I have not yet received the returns relating to the past year, I have no data to enable me to calculate with any degree of accuracy the probable revenue for the current year. I believe, however, that during the year ending 31st March, 1849, the revenue cannot have been less than £1500, and I anticipate that for that terminating 31st March, 1850, it will fully amount to £2000. I consider, therefore, that I may safely assume it at £1500.

Having now given such explanatory remarks relative to to the estimates for the year, and the ways and means of providing for them, as have appeared to me to be necessary, I would only state further-that in addition to the services enumerated in the estimates, I hope to have it in my power when the winter is over to renew the operations connected with the two main lines of road in this Province, already so far advanced, and to commence a new line in the Middle Island for the purpose of connecting the Waitohi Port with the Wairau plains; as, however, the amount of aid which may be granted to New Zealand for the year 1849-50 by the Imperial Parliament, or the proportion which the Governor-in-Chief may be able to assign to this Province is not yet known, it is not at present in my power to do more than state generally that the operations I refer to are contemplated.
