By His Excellency's Command,

ANDREW SINCLAIR, Colonial Secretary.

VOL. VII. AUCKLAND, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31, 1847. No. 6.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Auckland, 30th March, 1847.

HIS Excellency the Governor has been pleased to direct the publication of the following Letters, for general information.

By His Excellency's command,
ANDREW SINCLAIR,
Colonial Secretary.

Her Majesty's Ship "Castor,"
Auckland, N. Z., 27th March, 1847.

SIR,—In accordance with the wish conveyed in your Excellency's letter of the 24th inst., I directed Commander Hoseason to report on the nature and quality of the New Zealand Coal, put on board Her Majesty's Steam Sloop Inflexible, for trial, on that vessel's recent visit to Nelson, and I have the honor to enclose a Copy of that Officer's letter to me on the subject.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

C. GRAHAM,

Captain, and Senior Naval Officer at
New Zealand.

His Excellency Governor Grey.

H. M. Steam Sloop "Inflexible,"

Auckland, N. Z., 27th March, 1847.

SIR,—In compliance with your request, contained in your letter of the 24th inst., that I should report on the nature and quality of the Coal put on board Her Majesty's Steam Sloop under my command, (at the Colonial expense by His Excellency Governor Grey,) at Port Nelson, with a view to try its fitness for the use of steam vessels, I have the honor to inform you, that I have taken the opinion of Mr. Tucker, the First Engineer, on the subject, and have received a most favorable report on the same.

I am enabled, moreover, to prove this by the duty done by the Coal; for we find by a comparison with the best Newcastle (Australia) Coal, obtained at Sydney, the following to be the result:—

Newcastle (Australia) Coal.

14½ revolutions on 3rd step of expansion,
24 cwt. per hour.

Nelson Coal.

15½ revolutions on 3rd step of expansion,
25 cwt. per hour.

Thus it will be seen that from about equal quantities of fuel, equal work has been obtained; but there is one peculiarity in the Nelson Coal, which is being much slower in combustion than the Newcastle Coal, and, therefore, would not furnish steam for the cylinders with equal rapidity to enable the vessel to go at her greatest speed in smooth water, but it is far more economical when all weathers are considered: this would make it highly advantageous when mixed with the Newcastle (Australia) Coal, as the bad qualities of both would then be counteracted.

In justice, however, to the Nelson Coal, I ought to observe, that it is mere surface coal, and not obtained from a pit, like the coal of Newcastle, and has been for more than six months lying on the open beach, where it was placed for the use of the Driver, had she touched at Nelson.

As only 35 tons were received for trial, (that being all on the spot), I am not able to make as full a report as I could wish; should you, therefore, be pleased to order a larger quantity to be placed at the depot at Wellington, (I would advise not less than 100 tons), obtained, if possible, from a little below the surface, and subject to rejection if, on inspection, it be deemed not equal to that already received on board, I do not doubt but that I shall then be able to make a full and satisfactory report.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,
J. C. HOBSON,
Commander.

To Captain Graham, C. B.,
Her Majesty's ship Castor, and Senior Naval Officer at
New Zealand.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Auckland, 29th March, 1847.

His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to appoint, provisionally,

PRUDYAL BERRY, Esq., J. R.,
to be a Resident Magistrate.

By His Excellency's command,

ANDREW SINCLAIR,

Colonial Secretary.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Auckland, 30th March, 1847.

His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to give directions for the publication of the following Statements and Returns, for general information.

By His Excellency's command,

ANDREW SINCLAIR,

Colonial Secretary.
