Published by Authority.

WELLINGTON, MONDAY, APRIL 27, 1868.

G. F. BOWEN, Governor.

WHEREAS His Excellency Sir George Grey did by warrant under his hand bearing date the twenty-ninth day of October, 1867, order that no sitting of the Native Lands Court should be held within the district whose boundaries are described in the Schedule hereunto annexed, for the purpose of hearing claims to land within the same, until notice of such sitting shall have been published in the Kahiti for a period of one month. And whereas it is expedient to revoke the said warrant:

Now therefore I, Sir George Ferguson Bowen, in exercise of all powers vested in me in that behalf, do hereby revoke the said warrant, and do declare it to be cancelled from the date hereof.

SCHEDULE.

The district bounded by the sea from the eastern extremity of the northern boundary of the Province of Hawke's Bay to Lottin Point, thence by the range of mountains forming the watershed between the East Coast and the Bay of Plenty, to the extremity of the said range north-east of Waikare Moana; thence by a straight line to the junction of the River Waiau, with the River Waikare-takeke; thence by a straight line running south-west true bearing to the said northern boundary of the Province of Hawke's Bay, thence by the said boundary to the commencing point on the East Coast.

Given under the hand of His Excellency Sir George Ferguson Bowen, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Governor and Commander-in-Chief in and over Her Majesty's Colony of New Zealand and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same, at the Government House, at Auckland, this seventh day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight.

THE following Despatch from Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies, is published for general information.

E. W. STAFFORD.

Downing Street,
 21st December, 1867.

SIR,—I transmit to you herewith an extract of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Baltimore, reporting that the shipping masters at that port refuse to ship a white crew on board any vessel in which a colored seaman is serving, together with a copy of the answer which has been returned to that Despatch.

It will be desirable that you should take such steps as may be necessary for giving publicity to the state of things disclosed in this correspondence, and for warning ship owners in the Colony under your Government of the course pursued by the Baltimore shipping masters.

I have, &c.,
 BUCKINGHAM AND CHANDOS.

Extracts of a Letter from Mr. Consul Rainalds to Lord Stanley, dated British Consulate, Baltimore, 11th November, 1867, No. 25.

Hitherto white and colored seamen have been shipped indiscriminately on board the same vessel, whereas now the shipping masters and the boarding house keepers have at a period when trade is extremely dull and seamen consequently plentiful, determined not to ship a white man on board the same vessel with a colored man, and their combined power in the matter cannot be counteracted by any means at my command, as through their medium alone can seamen be obtained.

In order to illustrate the practical result of such combination, I have the honor to submit for your

ERRATUM.—On page 136 of the New Zealand Gazette of this year, for "John Goodall," read "Joseph Goodall."

Lordship's consideration a case of recent date.

The British ship "R. B. Mulhall," arrived here a short time ago with a mixed crew of white and colored seamen shipped at Liverpool, Nova Scotia, for a term of twelve months. Soon after her arrival, several of the men deserted (as is invariably the case here), but one colored man and two white men remained by her. When she was nearly ready for sea, the Captain told me that the shipping masters positively refused to ship a white crew on board the vessel so long as the colored man remained there.

This colored man the Captain informed me was an excellent seaman, whose services he was as anxious to retain as the man was desirous to remain by the vessel until the expiration of his term of service.

* * * *

My instructions give me no authority to compel a seaman to leave a ship without just cause, and yet I felt that, the case being without a precedent as far as I am concerned, I should not be justified in delaying the departure of the vessel for an indefinite period. I therefore determined, if necessary, to take some responsibility on myself by discharging the colored seaman and sending him home at the ship's expense.

Fortunately, however, I was later able to persuade him to take his discharge on payment of additional wages. And the matter was so settled.

* * * *

Under these circumstances I would solicit your Lordship's instructions as to the means I may be permitted to adopt if cases of a similar nature present themselves again, but when the colored seamen insist on remaining on board the vessel until their time of service shall have expired.

Mr. Hammond to Mr. Consul Rainals.

Foreign Office,
30th November, 1867.

SIR,—I am directed by Lord Stanley to acknowledge the receipt of your Despatch, No. 25, of the 11th instant, reporting a difficulty which had arisen in consequence of the refusal of the shipping masters at Baltimore, to ship a white crew on board the British vessel "R. B. Mulhall," as long as a colored seaman remained on board that vessel.

As it appears from your Despatch that the negro in question subsequently accepted his discharge, it is unnecessary for Lord Stanley to make any observations on this particular case; but in reply to your request for instructions as to the course you should adopt in any similar case in future, I am to state to you, that this is not a matter in which Her Majesty's Government can interfere. Your powers as Consul are clearly defined by the Merchant Shipping Act, and you can only remove a seaman from a British ship as ordered by that Act.

Colored seamen, being British subjects, are in all respects to be treated as other seamen.

It must therefore be left to the masters and owners of ships to adopt such measures as they may think best calculated to obviate the difficulties caused by the course pursued by the Baltimore shipping masters; and in order that British and Colonial ship owners may be warned of the necessity of taking such measures, Lord Stanley has caused a copy of your Despatch to be communicated to the Colonial Office and to the Board of Trade.

I am, &c.,

E. HAMMOND.
