2. The third section of the said Act shall be and the same is hereby repealed, and the following provision shall take effect in lieu thereof as if it formed the third section of the said Act, that is to say,—No stock shall be imported into the colony unless accompanied by a certificate from a duly-qualified veterinary surgeon, who shall be approved of by some person authorized in that behalf by the Governor, that the stock when placed on board the vessel conveying them were in a sound and healthy condition, entirely free from any contagious or infectious disease, or any indications of it, or, in the absence of such certificate, until such stock shall have performed quarantine as hereinafter provided, and shall be certified by some person in the colony duly appointed in that behalf by the Governor to be entirely free from any contagious or infectious disease, or any indication thereof.

3. The provisions of "The Imported Stock Act, 1876," shall not be taken or deemed to apply to stock imported from the Australasian Colonies or New Zealand, nor to fodder or fittings imported therefrom.

Declaration between Great Britain and Italy, relative to the Disposal of the Estates of Deceased Seamen of the two Nations.

Signed at London, 17th April, 1877.

THE Government of Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the Government of His Majesty the King of Italy, being desirous to make arrangements as to the disposal of the property of deceased seamen of the two nations in certain cases, the undersigned, duly authorized to that effect, have agreed as follows:—

ARTICLE I.

If any British seaman dies on board an Italian ship, or whilst serving on board an Italian ship within Italian territory; or if, on the other hand, any Italian seaman dies on board a British vessel, or whilst serving on board a British vessel within British territory, the Governments of Italy and of Great Britain respectively shall provide, as far as possible, for the protection, without loss or injury, of any money or effects belonging to such deceased seaman.

In the case of a British seaman dying as aforesaid the Italian Government shall cause the property, if not exceeding £50 in value, to be delivered, as soon as possible after the decease, to the British Consul at the Italian port where the decease occurs; or if the decease does not occur at an Italian port, but on Italian territory, to the British Consul nearest to the place where such decease occurs, or where the property may be; or if such decease occurs at sea on board an Italian vessel, to the British Consul at the first Italian port at which the vessel arrives after such decease.

In the case of an Italian seaman dying as aforesaid, his property, if not exceeding £50 in value, shall, subject to the provision contained in Article II., be delivered as soon as possible after the decease to the Italian Consul at the British port where the decease occurs; or if the decease does not occur at a British port but on British territory, to the Italian Consul nearest to the place where such decease occurs, or where the property may be; or if such decease occurs at sea on board a British vessel, to the Italian Consul at the first British port at which the vessel arrives after such decease.

When the property exceeds £50 in value it shall, subject to the provision contained in Article II., be paid to the legal representative of the deceased according to the law of the nation of the ship or territory where the property is at the time of the decease.

In cases where a deceased seaman has signed articles either as an Italian or as a British subject, as the case may be, but the Government into whose possession his effects come is not satisfied of his nationality, that Government shall equally protect his property, and shall send an account of it, and its value, and of all information in the possession of that Government relating to the deceased, to the other Government as soon as possible, and shall deliver the property to the other Government immediately on receiving its assurance that there is no doubt that the deceased was a subject of it.

ARTICLE II.

If the deceased shall have served in the Royal Navy of Great Britain, any assets which may be payable by the British Admiralty shall be dealt with according to the law of Great Britain.

ARTICLE III.

The term "seaman" in this Declaration includes every person (except masters and pilots) employed or engaged in any capacity on board any merchant-ship, or who has been so employed or engaged within six months before his death, and every person (not being a commissioned, warrant, or subordinate officer, or assistant engineer), borne on the books of, or forming part of the complement of any public ship of war.

The term "Consul" includes Consul-General, Consul, Vice-Consul, and Consular Agent, and every person for the time being discharging the duties of Consul-General, Consul, Vice-Consul, or Consular Agent.

In witness whereof the undersigned have signed the present Declaration, which shall come immediately into operation, and have affixed thereto the seal of their arms.

Declaration between Great Britain and Denmark, relative to the Disposal of the Estates of Deceased Seamen of the two Nations.

Signed at London, 11th April, 1877.

THE Government of Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the Government of His Majesty the King of Denmark, being desirous to make arrangements as to the disposal of the estates of deceased seamen of the two nations in certain cases, the undersigned, duly authorized to that effect, have agreed as follows:—

ARTICLE I.

If any British seaman dies on board a Danish ship, or whilst serving on board a Danish ship within Danish territory; or if, on the other hand, any Danish seaman dies on board a British vessel, or whilst serving on board a British vessel within British territory, the Governments of Denmark and of Great Britain respectively shall provide, as far as possible, for the protection, without loss or injury, of any estate belonging to such deceased seaman.

In the case of a British seaman dying as aforesaid, the Danish Government shall cause the estate, if not exceeding £50 in value, to be delivered as soon as possible after the decease, to the British Consul at the Danish port where the decease occurs; or if the decease does not occur at a Danish port, but on Danish territory, to the British Consul nearest to the place where such decease occurs, or where the estate may be; or if such decease occurs at sea on board a Danish vessel, to the British Consul at the first Danish port at which the vessel arrives after such decease.

In the case of a Danish seaman dying as aforesaid, his estate, if not exceeding £50 in value, shall, subject to the provision contained in Article II., be delivered by the British Government, as soon as possible, to the Danish Consul of the district to which the vessel may belong.

When the estate exceeds £50 in value, in the event of there being no person at hand who, within the period of six months, proves to be rightfully entitled to administer to the estate of the deceased seaman, the Consuls-General or Consuls of either State in whose jurisdiction such decease shall take place, shall, subject to the provision contained in Article II., have the power to take possession of and administer to the estate of such deceased seaman.

If any British seaman, whilst serving on board a Danish ship, dies within British territory, or if, on the other hand, any Danish seaman, whilst serving on board a British ship, dies within Danish territory, then the estate (if any) belonging to such deceased seaman shall, after deducting the expenses incurred, be paid over to the nearest Consul of the nation to which the ship belongs, in order that he may cause it to be, under observation of the aforesaid regulations, delivered to the competent authority in the country of the deceased seaman.

In the event of a seaman of one nation serving on board a ship of the other nation, and dying in the territory of a third nation, any estate of such deceased seaman (which may have been received by the Consul at the port where such death may have taken place of the nation to which the ship belongs) shall, after deducting the expenses incurred, be paid over to the Consul of the other nation at the same port.

In cases where a deceased seaman has signed articles either as a Danish or as a British subject, as the case may be, but the Government into whose possession his estate comes is not satisfied of his nationality, that Government shall equally protect his estate, and shall send an account of it, and its value, and of all information in the possession of that Government relating to the deceased, to the other Government as soon as possible, and shall deliver the estate to the other Government immediately on receiving its assurance that there is no doubt that the deceased was a subject of it.

ARTICLE II.

If the deceased shall have served in the Royal Navy of Great Britain, any assets which may be payable by the British Admiralty shall be dealt with according to the law of Great Britain.

ARTICLE III.

The term "seaman" in this Declaration includes every person (except masters and pilots) employed or engaged in any capacity on board any merchant-ship, or who has been so employed or engaged within six months before his death, and every person (not being a Commissioned, Warrant, or Subordinate Officer, or Assistant-Engineer) borne on the books of, or forming part of the complement of any public ship of war.

The term "estate" includes all "property, wages due, money, and other effects" left by a deceased seaman on board a ship.

The term "Consul" includes Consul-General, Consul, and Vice-Consul, and every person for the time being discharging the duties of Consul-General, Consul, or Vice-Consul.

In witness whereof the undersigned have signed the present Declaration, which shall come immediately into operation, and have affixed thereto the seal of their arms.

Report on Wreck of the "Robina Dunlop."

Customs Department (Marine Branch),
Wellington, 24th September, 1877.

IT is hereby notified that His Excellency the Governor has been pleased to confirm the following report of a Court of Inquiry held at Wellington on the 25th, 27th, and 28th days of August last, before the Hon. John Johnston and Joseph Godfrey Holdsworth, Esq., Justices of the Peace, assisted by Captain Robert Johnson, Nautical Assessor, into the wreck of the barque "Robina Dunlop," of Glasgow, registered tonnage 493, official number 63101, John Graham, master, holding a Board of Trade certificate of competency No. 94129; George Friedrich August Carl Von Schoen, first mate, holding a New Zealand certificate of competency as master No. 125; and Hugh Hood Lawrie, second mate, holding a Board of Trade certificate of competency No. 03115.

GEO. McLEAN.

"THE 'Robina Dunlop,' a British ship of 493 tons, left Wellington on the 11th instant, bound to Batavia with 300 tons of ballast on board, but no cargo, commanded by Captain John Graham, assisted by certificated first and second officers, and a crew of fourteen hands all told. The vessel is stated to have been in good repair, and well found in stores. After clearing the harbour experienced head winds, and the vessel was kept beating to the westward until about 11 a.m. on Monday, the 13th instant, when Jackson's Head bore N.W. by W., distant about 2½ miles; the vessel was then put on the port tack for the last time, all sails were set except royals, wind freshened from N.W. with hazy weather, so that the land could not be seen across the Straits, and was altogether lost sight of about 2 p.m. In the afternoon the wind freshened, and at between 5 or 6 o'clock the topgallant-sails and main-sail were taken in, and topsails reefed, the weather getting more hazy and thick, so that land could not have been seen at a greater distance than half a mile. About ten minutes to 8 o'clock p.m. the chief officer on watch saw breakers ahead, and immediately roused the master, who was dozing on the gratings abaft the steering wheel, but too late to save the ship, as she soon after struck, then shifted a little further, and finally settled amongst the breakers, the sea making clean over her at 9 o'clock, carrying away boats, bulwarks, &c., and by next morning had become a total wreck. The weather at the time of stranding was so thick that land was not seen until the vessel struck. From noon till stranding there is a discrepancy as to the course the ship made, the steersmen, excepting one, asserting that the vessel only made a N. by W. course, while the master and mates affirm that it was N.N.W. The patent log appears to have been over, and the master states that he hauled it in and looked at it two or three times after leaving Jackson's Head, and that it had registered up to 6 o'clock forty miles, and would at the time of stranding have registered about fifty miles; but as the distance from Jackson's Head to the place of stranding (one mile north of Turakina River) is sixty-six miles, and the vessel must have had a strong tide for the most time against her, for which eight or nine miles must be allowed, a grave error in computing the distance run must have occurred, which appears remarkable when it is considered that a seaman who paid the slightest attention to the navigation of his ship must have known whether his ship was going 5½ or 8½ knots. It is also remarkable that the men who steered the ship from noon did not see the log hauled in, or the master looking at it, although from their position they should have seen it had it been done. The hand lead was occasionally hove by one of the officers from leaving Jackson's Head, the last time about ten minutes before stranding, but no bottom was found. Taking into consideration the speed of the ship and the depth of water in the Straits, no reasonable person could have expected to get bottom until the vessel got so near shore as to be in danger. Had proper soundings been taken with the deep-sea lead about 6 o'clock it would have shown the ship to be in a different position to that assigned to her, and to be too near in shore.

"Reviewing the whole case, we are of opinion that the vessel was lost through the culpable negligence of the master in not paying greater attention to the navigation of his ship, particularly with reference to the course and distance run, and not taking proper soundings. We are also of opinion that the chief officer is highly blameable for not having paid proper attention to the course made and the distance run.

"Having decided that the ship was lost in consequence of the culpable negligence of the master, John Graham, the Court decide to suspend his certificate for two years, and to express its opinion that the chief officer, George Friedrich August Carl Von Schoen, merits severe censure.

of New Zealand."

"I, Robert Johnson, Nautical Assessor on the Inquiry into the loss of the "Robina Dunlop," do fully concur in the above report concerning the loss of the said vessel.

"Nautical Assessor."
