NOTICE TO MARINERS.

No. 36 of 1878.

Marine Department,
Wellington, 24th December, 1878.

THE following hydrographical memorandum, received from the Commodore Commanding the Australian Station, is published for general information.

J. BALLANCE.

INDISPENSABLE REEF, RENNELL ISLAND, NEPTUNE
AND WELLS REEF, SANTA MARIA (BANKS GROUP), KILLERTON ISLANDS, SHOAL MARK P.D.
ON CHART.

"Wolverene," at Sydney,
2nd December, 1878.

Hydrographic Memorandum No. 26.

THE accompanying hydrographic information, relative to parts of the Australian Station, is promulgated for general information and guidance.

A. H. HOSKINS,
Commodore.

The respective Captains and Officers
Commanding Her Majesty's Ships
on the Australian Station.

INFORMATION received from Lieut. G. E. Richards,
H.M. schooner "Renard."

Indispensable Reefs.—These dangers consist of three separate reefs running in a north-westerly and south-easterly direction, the middle reef being the largest; the north and south reefs being lagoon reefs, with apparently very deep water inside.

The middle reef is of irregular form, having a wide opening in the west side.

The north point of the north reef lies in latitude $12^{\circ} 15' 5''$ S., long. $159^{\circ} 59' 45''$ E., and has two conspicuous rocks on it.

From this point it runs in an E.S.E. direction for 10 miles, terminating in a sharp point. From thence W.S.W. 7 miles, thence N.W. to the Two Rock point. There are two breaks in the reef: one on the west side, one mile south of the Two Rocks; and the other on the north side, five miles from the least point. Both appear to be very narrow, and consequently difficult of entrance, especially the northern one, as the current runs strongly to the westward, along the north side of the reef. The interior of this reef is very deep water.

Separated from this last-described reef by a passage from $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 2 miles wide is the middle reef, running S.E. for 22 miles to a bluff point (off which is a very heavy tide rip, which might easily be mistaken for a continuation of the breakers). From thence it curves away gradually to the westward and round to the southward, thus forming a deep bight 15 miles round, the south point is in lat. $12^{\circ} 49'$ S., long. $160^{\circ} 25'$ E. From the south end the reef tends away gradually to the westward and northward for 15 miles, where the reef terminates. No soundings with 150 fathoms line could be obtained between the ends of this reef, and the interior appeared very deep. No anchorage of any sort could be observed, the reef being steep to all round. The passage between Middle and South Reef is $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles across, and no bottom was obtained with 25 fathoms line.

The north point of South Reef is in lat. $12^{\circ} 50' 15''$ S., and long. $160^{\circ} 26'$ E. The reef is 15 miles long and 8 miles across, and of an oblong form, having an horse-shoe curve in the south side. The extreme south point of the South Reef is in lat. $13^{\circ} 2' 45''$ S., long. $160^{\circ} 36' 15''$ E.

Winds and Weather: In the vicinity of the reefs the wind prevailed from S.E. to E., with fine weather. Force of wind, 3.

Occasionally it veered to the northward as far as N.E., accompanied on these occasions with thick weather and rain, and sometimes much lightning, the barometer generally rising, and the force of the wind decreasing. This weather was usually experienced at night, and was generally succeeded by the south-easterly and easterly winds, with clear weather in the day time.

Currents: To the eastward of the reef the current sets to the westward, and, on striking the reef, appears to divide, part running along the reef to the N.W., and the remainder taking a south-westerly direction. It varies greatly in strength, and is probably much influenced by the wind.

Between Rennell Island and the reef the current sets strong to the westward. To the northward of the assigned position of the Neptune Reef the drift was due north.

In the vicinity of the chart position of Wells Reef the current set strongly to the westward and N.W., and is probably much influenced by the winds.

Rennell Island.—Marked P.D. on the chart. The S.E. end of this island is in lat. $11^{\circ} 52' 15''$ S., long. $160^{\circ} 40'$ E. The west end is in lat. $11^{\circ} 33' 45''$ S., long. $159^{\circ} 55'$ E. The island is about 45 miles long and not more than 6 or 7 miles across at the widest part; is of uniform height, about 400 feet. There appears to be no anchorage of any sort, and, from the appearance of the cliffs, has probably deep water close to. There is a slight fringe reef off the S.E. end.

Island appears densely wooded, and no signs of cultivation.

The natives appear more to resemble the Tanna islanders than the inhabitants of San Christoval Island, Solomon Islands.

Neptune Reef.—The ground in the vicinity of this reported danger was carefully searched, five days being devoted to it, but no indications of shoal water were observed. No soundings at 150 fathoms close to the chart position. Several masters of merchant ships inform me that they have never seen it, although they have been close to the assigned position.

Wells Reef.—H.M.S. "Renard" passed over the assigned position of this danger without finding any shoal water. Eight days' search in the vicinity gave no results, no bottom being on any occasion obtained with 150 fathoms line.

GEORGE EDWARD RICHARDS,
Assistant Surveyor and Lieutenant Commanding H.M.S. "Renard."

INFORMATION received from Lieutenant Musters,
H.M. schooner "Conflict."

Santa Maria, Banks Group.—My anchorage here was on the west coast: at present has no name on the chart. It is a place worth knowing, being a safe anchorage in all winds from south through east to north, with good sandy bottom, and soundings from 18 fathoms decreasing gradually. After rounding the S.W. point of the island a large bay opens out. The anchorage is unmistakable, being immediately to the westward of a black sandy beach; and the S.W. point of the island bearing about S.W. distant about $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

Killerton Islands.—These islands are difficult to make out. The anchorage, which is in 13 fathoms, mud, is unsafe except in fine weather in S.E. monsoon. A bright green conical hill is a good mark for the approach.

INFORMATION furnished by H.M.S. "Nympe."

The "Nympe" passed over the assigned position upon the chart to a shoal marked as having only 2 fathoms upon it in lat. $31^{\circ} 9' S.$, long. $178^{\circ} 10' W.$, without observing any indication of shoal water, nor could bottom be obtained at 55 fathoms.

Tenders Invited.

TO IRONMASTERS.—WANTED 100,000 TONS OF STEEL RAILS.

Public Works Office,
Wellington, New Zealand,
6th November, 1878.

WRITTEN TENDERS will be received at Wellington by the Hon. the Minister for Public Works up to 30th September, 1879, for the supply of the whole or any portion of 100,000 tons of steel rails, to be manufactured within the colony from New Zealand ores. Payment will be made in cash on delivery at the works—the Government of New Zealand agreeing to pay, in addition, one-half of the cost of the conveyance to the colony by sea of the workmen to be engaged in the manufacture.

Information as to the mineral resources of New Zealand, and maps indicating the various localities in which mineral deposits are situated in relation to means of transport, may be had on application to the Agent-General of New Zealand, 7, Westminster Chambers, Victoria Street, London; or to W. Walton Evans, Esq., 66½, Pine Street, New York.

As it is unlikely that intending contractors will enter into an engagement of the above nature without first satisfying themselves by personal inspection as to the position and extent of the raw material in New Zealand required for the manufacture of iron, every facility and information on this subject will be afforded on application to Dr. Hector, C.M.G., F.R.S., Director of the Geological Department, Wellington.

For the information of parties desiring to tender, it may be stated that the official returns show that there were imported into New Zealand, within the last eight years, 15,500 tons of cast-iron, and 93,000 tons of wrought-iron, exclusive of iron for Government and other railways, during which period 1,068 miles have been constructed and opened for traffic.
