There were 13 deaths of persons of 65 years and upwards: a male of 76, and two females of 81 and 65, died at Auckland; three males of 84, 74, and 65, and two females of 67, at Wellington; two males of 77 and 73, at Christchurch; and a male of 81, and two females of 90 and 78, at Dunedin.

Zymotic Diseases.—The diseases in this class caused 20 deaths or 20.62 per cent. of the total deaths in July, against 23 deaths or 24.47 per cent. in June. There was 1 death from measles in July, against 11 in June; this death occurred at Christchurch. Two deaths from scarlet fever occurred at Auckland; also 3 deaths from typhoid fever at Christchurch, and 1 at Auckland.

Constitutional Diseases.—There were 17 deaths from these causes in July. Of these, 9 were from phthisis and 2 from cancer.

Local Diseases.—These diseases caused 44 deaths in July, against 40 in June. Of these, diseases of the nervous system caused 18 deaths in July, against 7 in June; and diseases of the respiratory organs, 14 deaths in July, against 18 in June.

The subjoined table shows the mortality for the last two months at each of these four boroughs from six principal zymotic diseases of the miasmatic order, and also the deaths from certain inflammatory diseases of the lungs. These causes of death have been distinguished from the others of the classes to which they belong, as being the most important special diseases which give rise to sudden increases in the death-rates of towns, and the prevalence of which is closely connected with sanitary condition and climatic influence of the season on health.
