Marine Department,
Wellington, 17th April, 1882.

THE following Notices to Mariners, received from the Portmaster, Brisbane, are published for general information.

H. A. ATKINSON.

MIDDLE CHANNEL, MORETON BAY.

By attending to the following directions, a depth of not less than 17 feet at low-water springs can now be carried through the Middle Channel.

From seaward cross the East Banks with the leading lights in line, and when about half-way through the channel haul up gradually and open them to the northward, rounding the spit of the Venus Bank with them open a distance of about three-quarters of the difference between their heights.

SOUTH PASSAGE, MORETON BAY.

The North Break having extended further to the south-east, vessels, when the state of the bar will admit of their hauling up with the sea abeam, can carry through this entrance a depth of 14½ feet at low water, as follows:—

After crossing the outer edge of the bar with the leading beacons open to the northward from three to four times their own width, haul up S. ½ W. and steer for the hill shown on the coast chart as 490 feet high. This, in line with the lowest part of ridge at the back of the beach, will lead clear of the spit off the North Break. When the spit is rounded, the beacons being open to the southward some ten times their own width, a course can be steered between the North and South Breaks.

A knoll, having only 7½ feet upon it at low water, has now formed on the outer edge of the bar, with the leading beacons in line.

With the beacons open to the southward from five to eight times their own width, and with Amity Point touching, and just open of the south-east end of Mount Petrie, a depth of from 11½ to 12 feet will be found at low water.

There were 7 deaths of persons of 65 years and upwards: a male of 65 died at Auckland; 2 females of 69 and 71 at Wellington; 2 males of 65 and 77 at Christchurch; and a male of 78 and a female of 90 at Dunedin.

Zymotic Diseases.—The deaths from these diseases were 26 in March, or 30·95 per cent. of the total deaths, against 28, or 32·19 per cent., in February. There were 6 deaths from scarlet fever in each month, of which 5 occurred each month in Auckland. Typhoid fever caused 1 death in Wellington, and 1 in Dunedin.

Constitutional Diseases.—These diseases caused 11 deaths in March, against 15 in February; the deaths from phthisis having been 6 in March, against 9 in February.

Local Diseases.—There was a slight increase in the number of deaths from these diseases in March (27) as compared with the previous month (24). Diseases of the heart caused 5 deaths in March, against 2 in February.

The subjoined table shows the mortality for the last two months at each of these four boroughs from six principal zymotic diseases of the miasmatic order, and also the deaths from certain inflammatory diseases of the lungs. These causes of death have been distinguished from the others of the classes to which they belong, as being the most important special diseases which give rise to sudden increases in the death-rates of towns, and the prevalence of which is closely connected with sanitary condition and climatic influence of the season on health.

2. All that parcel of land containing by admeasurement 3.3 perches, more or less, occupied by Thomas Wallis, sen., having a frontage of 40 feet 1 inch to Colombo Street and 39 feet 3 inches to Addison Street, the northern boundary being on an average 688.9 links from the northern boundary of Rural Section 239.
