Prevention of the Spread of Contagious or Infectious Diseases.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Wellington, 18th September, 1882.

THE following instructions concerning the measures to be adopted in preventing the spread of scarlet fever, diphtheria, small-pox, &c., issued by the Provincial Board of Health of Ontario, Canada, and published in the National Board of Health Bulletin, at Washington, United States of America, on 17th June, 1882, (No. 51, Vol. iii.), are republished for general information.

THOMAS DICK.

PREVENTION OF THE SPREAD OF CONTAGIOUS OR INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

THE Provincial Board of Health of Ontario, Canada, has issued the following instructions concerning the measures to be adopted in preventing the spread of scarlet fever, diphtheria, small-pox, &c. :—

These diseases are spread by means of infectious particles going from person to person, and can be stopped if care and systematic means are taken to destroy the disease-germs, and to prevent their being carried from one person to another.

Those parts of the body which are the breeding places of the contagious particles give off the poison in the greatest amount; for example:

In scarlet fever, the mouth, throat, nasal passages, and skin;

In diphtheria, the mouth, throat, and nasal passages;

In small-pox, the pustules, chiefly of the skin;

In measles, the skin and air-passages;

In whooping-cough, the air-passages;

In typhoid fever and cholera, the discharges from the bowels.

The portions of the body thrown off, and containing the contagion, may pass into the air, or find their way into the water or food, and in this way be introduced by breathing, drinking, or eating, or through broken surfaces of the body.

It will be seen that the first five diseases in the above enumeration are very readily communicable through the atmosphere. The contagion of the first three remains virulent for a great length of time and at great distances, and they are also very serious in their effects. Our consideration will at present be chiefly directed to them in the following rules for checking their spread:—

WHAT THE GENERAL PUBLIC MAY REASONABLY EXPECT FROM THOSE AFFLICTED WITH CONTAGIOUS DISEASES, THEIR FRIENDS, AND THE MUNICIPAL AUTHORITIES.

1. When anybody, especially a child or young person, has sore throat, bad breath, or fever, he should be kept separated from all other persons except necessary attendants, until it be ascertained whether he has scarlet fever, diphtheria, or some other communicable disease.

2. Every case of diphtheria, scarlet fever, or small-pox should be at once reported to the Health Officer appointed by Local Board of Health.

3. On receipt of such notices, the Local Health Officers should immediately verify the reports of cases. If medical attendant reports the case this will be sufficient verification.

The Board should secure isolation of those sick with or exposed to these diseases;

Give notice of infected places;

Regulate funerals of persons dead from infectious diseases;

Disinfect rooms, clothing, and premises;

Give certificates of recovery, and of freedom from liability to communicate the disease.

4. Every person known to be sick with scarlet fever, diphtheria, or small-pox should be promptly and effectually isolated from the public; no more persons than are necessary should have charge of patient, and they should be restricted in their intercourse with other persons.

5. Notices should be placed on the house in which a case of scarlet fever, diphtheria, or small-pox exists, and no unnecessary persons allowed to enter.

CONDUCT OF SICK ROOM AND ATTENDANTS.

6. The bedroom of a person sick with scarlet fever, diphtheria, small-pox, or any other infectious disease, should be cleared of all needless clothing, carpets, drapery, or any material liable to harbour the poison of the disease. The room should have a liberal supply of fresh air, at least 2,000 cubic feet per head per hour. In summer the supply should be unlimited; windows thrown open, and drafts on patient prevented by a fine gauze or wire netting, slanting from open point of sash to within two inches of ceiling.

7. Discharges from throat, nose, and mouth should be received or immediately placed in vessels containing some of the disinfectants named for that purpose in section 8; if on rags or handkerchiefs, they should be immediately burned.

Likewise, the discharges from kidneys and bowels should be passed into vessels containing a pint of disinfectant, and immediately buried at least a hundred feet from any well or other drinking-water supply. If these precautions are impracticable, let the excreta be passed on old clothes, which should immediately be buried.

8. For convenience a few disinfectants are here grouped together:

(1.) Solution of chlorinated soda (or lime);

(2.) Solution of chloride of zinc: Water, 1 gallon; sulphate of zinc, 4 ounces; common salt, 2 ounces;

(3.) Solution of chloride of lead: Dissolve two drachms of nitrate of lead in a quart of water; then, in a larger vessel containing a gallon of water, dissolve two tablespoonfuls of common salt (chloride of sodium); mix the two solutions together and store for daily use:

The above will answer for all purposes of disinfection; discharges, linen, cups, &c.

(4.) Carbolic-acid solution, say 1 part in 20 to 40 of water, for discharges and clothes, scrubbing floors, &c., and washing hands;

(5.) Copperas solution; 1½ pounds commercial sulphate of iron to 1 gallon of water;

(6.) Carbolate of lime.

The two last for discharges: the copperas very good for privies; the carbolate of lime for sprinkling dry in rooms, sheds, &c.

The carbolic-acid solution may be made to permeate the air by spray from an atomizer, and destroy germs in breathable air by actual contact.

9. Purification of Clothes and Bedding.—The best plan is by the agency of heat. Dr. Henry, of Manchester, disinfected scarlet-fever clothing by exposure to 212° Fahr. for one hour. An oven will answer the purpose, carefully removing the embers, and hanging on wires the clothes to be disinfected. Boiling clothes not so good as baking, but still useful. To every ten gallons of boiling water add half or three-quarters of a gallon of commercial solution of chloride of lime; or the clothes may be laid for twenty-four hours in a solution of sulphate of zinc in the proportion of 1 to 120, or of chloride of zinc in the proportion of 1 to 240, or in the chloride of lead solution (section 8), and then be washed with soap and water if they cannot be baked.

10. Nurses and attendants should be required to keep themselves and their patients as clean as possible, disinfecting their hands frequently by chlorinated soda or other disinfectant.

Attendants should also wear cotton or linen (not woollen) clothes or overalls, to which particles will not so readily adhere, and which may be more easily disinfected.

11. Every person recovering from diphtheria should be considered dangerous, and should not be permitted to associate with others, or attend any public assembly until the throat and sores on lips or nose are healed for some days; nor before, in the judgment of the physician, he can do so without endangering others, nor until all his clothing has been thoroughly disinfected. These restrictions, of course, extend to churches, schools, &c. Every apartment of the house must also be thoroughly disinfected before patient is permitted to go at large.

After recovery from scarlet fever and small-pox a still longer time must elapse, to allow all particles of disease-bearing skin to be thrown off.

12. The body of a person who has died of diphtheria, scarlet fever, or small-pox should be washed with a strong chloride of lead or zinc solution, double the strength of those in section 8, wrapped in a sheet wet with the same, and at once buried. In no case should the body be exposed to view; no public funeral held, and as few attend as possible.

DISINFECTATION OF DWELLINGS AND PREMISES AFTER RECOVERY OR DEATH.

13. In addition to thorough cleansing of all wood-work with soft soap, and water to which carbolic acid has been added (one pint of the common liquid to four gallons of water), and to removing and washing all fabrics which can be removed in the manner described in section 9, and brushing the walls, the rooms should be fumigated for a period varying from three to twenty-four hours with sulphurous acid. All doors and windows and the chimney being tightly closed, and all fabrics to be washed taken away, sulphur is put into a metallic dish, a little saltpetre put on the top or mixed with it, and then lighted. The proportions should be two pounds of sulphur for every 1,000 cubic feet of space. In a very long room it is best to have the sulphur in two or more places. After the fumigation is completed, the doors and windows should be opened and kept open for several hours. In disinfecting in this manner with sulphurous acid the person setting light to the saltpetre and sulphur must make a precipitate escape from the room the instant the sulphur is burning. Carpets may be fumigated on the floor by this method, afterwards removed to the open air and thoroughly beaten. Pillows, feather beds, mattresses, and upholstered furniture, after being disinfected on the outside, should be cut open and their contents exposed to the fumes of burning sulphur. In no case should the disinfection of clothing and bedding be omitted. Where articles of clothing, towels, or anything used by sick persons are considered too valuable to be kept, they must not be burned in the house or open air before they have been completely disinfected. Bad epidemic at Philadelphia resulted from neglect of this precaution.

PRECAUTIONS FOR WELL PEOPLE TO AVOID SCARLET FEVER, DIPHThERIA, AND SMALL-POX.

14. Avoid exposure to special contagion of the disease: more danger for children than for adults. Do not, therefore, let a child go near a case. Do not permit any person or thing, dog, cat, or other animal, plaything, letters, &c., to come direct from a case of these diseases to a child, unless previously disinfected under competent supervision. If you do visit a case, bathe yourself, especially hands, face, and hair, in a disinfectant solution, and change and disinfect your clothing before you go where there is a child. See that your residence, premises, &c., are kept clean and dry; that the sewer-connections are well trapped and drains well ventilated. Never allow passages from persons sick with the disease to be placed in water-closets or privies, but have them attended to as in sections 7 and 8. Give special attention to purity of milk-supply. Do not allow a child to ride in any vehicle where there is suspicion of infected persons having travelled. Avoid exposure to wind, and cold dry air. Do not wear or handle clothing worn by a person during sickness or convalescence from these diseases. Beware of any person who has a sore throat or running at nose. Do not kiss or take the breath of such a person. Do not drink from the same cup or put pen in your mouth.

15. In the case of all these diseases remember that the contagion may be stored up from one season to another, if not destroyed. Do not let it be so stored, and see that your children do not visit a house where one of these diseases has been, even though some months have since elapsed, unless you know the house, clothes, &c., have been thoroughly disinfected.

16. In the case of small-pox too much care cannot be taken to see that every person who has not been vaccinated within seven years be vaccinated or re-vaccinated.

17. If vaccination has "taken well" a few years before, this is, if anything, an extra reason for revaccination. Persons who have had small-pox may take it again.

18. With regard to all these diseases remember that a mild form in one person may originate a severe form in another.

19. In connection with this subject it should be remembered that too much attention cannot be paid to surroundings in general, such as drainage, ventilation, food, warmth, &c. Temperature and rainfall have much to do with the spread of some of these diseases—diphtheria for example, which is generally least prevalent in August, increasing until January, and with the same regularity declining again until August; most fatal in lowest and worst drained parts of cities. Examine relative positions of wells and privies. Where city water is used, investigate source of water-supply, and place of debouchure of sewers (outbreak of diphtheria in Naples, 1872, clearly traced to contaminated water). In country districts, isolated outbreaks, traceable to cesspool effluvia, are not at all uncommon. Frequently will be found the water-closet drain discharging into a cesspool cleaned out only at rare intervals, gases generated in cesspool having no outlet except through water-closet and into the house; hence diphtheria and other diseases. In cities, where proper attention to the trapping of all waste-pipes leading to sewers is too frequently taken for granted, examine carefully into arrangement and ventilation of drains; ascertain whether, in consequence of attention not having been duly paid to the trapping of overflow, lavatory, and every other waste pipe, gases are not being conveyed in sundry ingenious ways into the various apartments they were presumed to be excluded from; that the plumbers have not, in other words, succeeded in ventilating the house drains, and therefore, of course, the sewers, into the bedrooms.

Education Department,
Wellington, 16th September, 1882.

THE following report of the person appointed by the Governor, under the provisions of "The Native Schools Sites Act, 1880," to ascertain the title of certain Natives to land at Waitetuna, in the County of Raglan, appropriated by them for the site of a school, having been adopted by the Administrator of the Government, is published in accordance with the said Act.

THOMAS DICK.

REPORT UNDER "THE NATIVE SCHOOL SITES ACT, 1880."

HIS Excellency the Governor having been pleased, in pursuance of the above-recited Act, to appoint me to ascertain the title of certain Natives to land at Waitetuna, in the District of Raglan, appropriated by them as a school site, I beg leave respectfully to report :—

1. I gave notice in the Auckland Weekly News newspaper that I would hold an inquiry in the building used as a Native school at Waitetuna, on Wednesday, the 23rd day of August, 1882. I also had circulars to the same effect printed in English and Maori, which I caused to be circulated in the Raglan District. The inquiry was subsequently postponed till Wednesday, the 30th day of August, at the urgent request of the Natives interested, who were absent at an important land meeting, and could not have been present on the day first appointed.

2. On Wednesday, the 30th day of August, I held an inquiry at Waitetuna, when there were present the chiefs and a number of the members of the Ngatimahanga Tribe, when the plan of the proposed site was produced, and I explained to them the provisions of the above-recited Act.

3. The meeting was unanimous in agreeing that the land, the boundaries of which are set forth hereunder, was the property of the Ngatimahanga Tribe, and that it should be set apart for a school site; and I certify that I am satisfied as to the ownership of the land, and that the owners assent to set it apart for a school site in accordance with the above-recited Act.

Description of Land.

All that parcel of land containing 3 acres, more or less, situated in the Alexandra Survey District, County of Raglan, and numbered 5518 (in red) on the plan deposited in the Survey Office, Auckland. Bounded towards the North-east by a line, 515 links; towards the South-east by the Koere Stream; towards the South-west by a line, 260 links; and towards the North-west by a line, 700 links: be all the aforesaid linkages more or less.

Given under my hand, at Auckland, this 2nd day of September, 1882.

WALTER H. PEARSON,
Commissioner of Crown Lands.

Sale of Pastoral Leases of Crown Lands.—Preliminary Notice.

General Crown Lands Office,
Wellington, 20th September, 1882.

ONE million seven hundred and fifty thousand acres of Crown lands will shortly be open for pastoral lease in the Provincial District of Otago, New Zealand.

This country is at present held under lease in forty-six runs until the 1st March, 1884, and will again be offered in runs suitable to the nature of the country; but no lessee will be allowed to take up more than will carry twenty thousand sheep or four thousand head of cattle.

The leases will be for a term of years to be hereafter determined; but in no case will any lease be for a period exceeding twenty-one years.

Compensation for improvement up to three years' rental will be allowed at the end of the lease.

In order to give new pastoral lessees time to make arrangements, the licenses will, in terms of the Land Acts, be sold by public auction, at the Land Office, Dunedin, in the latter end of February, 1883, twelve months before possession is to be given. One year's rent will be payable in advance on the license at the time of sale.

The country has been occupied for upwards of twenty years. It is well grassed, well watered, sound, and healthy.

Distance from port by good roads and railways part of the way, from thirty to one hundred and fifty miles.

Maps and further particulars will be obtainable shortly at the Land Offices of New Zealand, and at places in the Australian Colonies, to be named in future advertisements.

WM. ROLLESTON,
Minister of Lands.
