Sale of Pastoral Leases of Crown Lands.—Preliminary Notice.

General Crown Lands Office,
Wellington, 20th September, 1882.

ONE million seven hundred and fifty thousand acres of Crown lands will shortly be open for pastoral lease in the Provincial District of Otago, New Zealand.

This country is at present held under lease in forty-six runs until the 1st March, 1884, and will again be offered in runs suitable to the nature of the country; but no lessee will be allowed to take up more than will carry twenty thousand sheep or four thousand head of cattle.

The leases will be for a term of years to be hereafter determined; but in no case will any lease be for a period exceeding twenty-one years.

Compensation for improvement up to three years' rental will be allowed at the end of the lease.

In order to give new pastoral lessees time to make arrangements, the licenses will, in terms of the Land Acts, be sold by public auction, at the Land Office,

Dunedin, in the latter end of February, 1883, twelve months before possession is to be given. One year's rent will be payable in advance on the license at the time of sale.

The country has been occupied for upwards of twenty years. It is well grassed, well watered, sound, and healthy.

Distance from port by good roads and railways part of the way, from thirty to one hundred and fifty miles.

Maps and further particulars will be obtainable shortly at the Land Offices of New Zealand, and at places in the Australian Colonies, to be named in future advertisements.

The following remarks apply only to the above four principal boroughs:—
 The births were 247 in October, against 238 in September, an increase of 9.
 The deaths in October were 117, against 100 in September, an increase of 17.
 There were 6 deaths of persons of 65 years and upwards: three males of 88, 70, and 69 died at Wellington; a male of 77 at Christchurch; and a male of 67 and female of 67 at Dunedin.
 The mortality in Wellington of children under 5 years of age was exceptionally great in October, there having been 29 deaths of children under 5 years of age to 24 deaths of persons at 5 years and over, caused by the prevalence of measles, whooping-cough, and diseases of the respiratory organs.
 Zymotic Diseases.—These diseases caused a greater mortality in October than September, the deaths having increased from 18 to 29. Measles caused 7 deaths, of which 6 occurred in Wellington, 3 being of children under 5 years of age; one death from measles occurred in Auckland. Whooping-cough caused 2 deaths—both in Wellington—both of children under 5 years. Diphtheria caused 3 deaths in Christchurch and 1 in Wellington. 2 deaths were directly attributable to intemperance.

Constitutional Diseases.—The deaths from these diseases amounted to 16 in October, against 25 in the previous month, the smaller number of deaths from phthisis (8 in October, 16 in September) nearly accounting for the decrease.

Local Diseases.—These diseases, on the other hand, were much more fatal than in September, the deaths having been 44 in September and 54 in October. The increase was chiefly owing to a larger number of deaths from diseases of the respiratory organs. Bronchitis and pneumonia were especially fatal in Wellington, the deaths from these causes in that city having been 13, against 2 in the previous month. Of these, 12 were of children under 5 years of age.

The subjoined table shows the mortality for the last two months at each of these four boroughs from six principal zymotic diseases of the miasmatic order, and also the deaths from certain inflammatory diseases of the lungs. These causes of death have been distinguished from the others of the classes to which they belong, as being the most important special diseases which give rise to sudden increases in the death-rates of towns, and the prevalence of which is closely connected with sanitary condition and climatic influence of the season on health.
