LOCALITY AND DESCRIPTION.

Te Karae Block.

This block is bounded by the Mangamuka River, which is navigable by vessels drawing up to, say, 7 ft., giving an extensive frontage (apart from several tidal creeks which intersect the block) for easy delivery and receipt of settlers' products or exports.

The communication from Auckland is by steamer from Onehunga direct to Kohukohu, or by steamer from Auckland to Russell, thence overland from Opuia to Horeke, where a steamer meets the coach. The settlers get their supplies via Onehunga.

There is a fairly good road from Kohukohu (the steamer terminus) to Broadwood, which road bounds the upper portion of the block and gives a main-road access.

The land is generally of good quality, having a north-eastern aspect and undulating from the Kohukohu-Broadwood Road to the Mangamuka River (practically the main river of Hokianga).

A butter-factory has been established at Wairupe (Motukaraka), distant about seven miles by the Broadwood-Kohukohu Road, a complete service with the Broadwood and outlying and over-river districts having been established by launches and by horse-carriage from Kohukohu to Broadwood.

There is a good service by ferry from Kohukohu to Rawene.

The butter-factory is opposite, direct from Rawene, where the police-station and chief post-office are situate.

The sections up the Karae Valley are extremely good, being river-flats with good soil, while the land at the northern end is particularly adapted for sheep-grazing, and the bulk of the land is favourable for carrying on the dairy industry.

For the growing of fruit, the Karae Block has one of the best positions on the Hokianga River. Grapes ("Isabella"), peaches, quinces, lemons, and figs grow in wild luxuriance. At Te Mataa (which is about the middle of the block), at Hauai (the south-eastern end), and at Mangataipa (the northern end), there are ideal places for the cultivation of any fruit (as a specialty grapes, peaches, and apples).

Some years ago a viticulturist, speaking at a meeting of the Settlers' Association at Hokianga, said that "the land was equal to if not better than the land in Italy for fruit-cultivation, and all that was required was to plant the seed—the soil and climate would do the rest."

The sum of £6,000 is now being expended in forming the internal roads of the block.
