Regulations under the Tramways Act, 1908.

WHEREAS by section 7 of the Tramways Act, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), the Governor in Council, acting as the Board of Control constituted under the said section, is authorized from time to time to make such rules and regulations as he thinks expedient for securing the safety of the public from personal injury, or from fire or otherwise, in connection with the use of electricity as a motive power under the said Act: And whereas by the said section, as amended by section 5 of the Tramways Amendment Act, 1911, the Board of Control is empowered to delegate all or any of the powers vested in it by the said Act to the Minister of Public Works: And whereas by Order in Council dated the 11th December, 1911, and published in the Gazette of the 14th December, 1911, all the powers vested in the Board of Control as aforesaid were duly delegated to the Minister of Public Works: And whereas it is expedient to make rules and regulations for securing the safety of the public as hereinbefore recited:

Now, therefore, I, William Fraser, the Minister of Public Works for the Dominion of New Zealand, in pursuance of the powers delegated to me by the Board of Control as aforesaid, do hereby make the following rules and regulations; and do hereby declare that the said rules and regulations shall, except in so far as may be otherwise specially provided in any authorizing order, be deemed to be incorporated with and to form part of every order hereafter issued under section 3 of the said Act authorizing the construction of a tramway.

RULES AND REGULATIONS TO BE INCORPORATED IN TRAMWAY ORDERS.

IN these regulations the following words and phrases shall have the meanings hereby attached to them respectively:—

- "Conductor" means any wire or cable for the transmission of electric energy placed either underground or overhead, and includes any casing, cover, conduit, or support for the same.
- "Earthed" means connected to the general mass of earth in such a manner as to ensure at all times an immediate and safe discharge to earth of electric energy.
- "Electric line" means any wire, wires, conductor, or other means used for conveying, transmitting, or distributing electricity for power, lighting, or heating; and includes any instrument, insulator, casing, tubing, pipe-covering, or post enclosing or supporting an electric line or anything connected therewith.
- "Extra-high pressure" means pressures over 3,300 volts.
- "High pressure" means pressures over 650 volts and up to 3,300 volts.
- "Low pressure" means pressures up to 650 volts.
- "Minister" means Minister of Public Works.
- "Pressure" means the difference of electric potential between any two conductors through which a supply of energy is given, or between any part of either conductor and the earth.
- "Public Works Engineer" means the Engineer in charge of the Public Works district in which the tramway is situated.
- "Street" includes road.
- "Substation" means any building or enclosure, either above or below ground, which shall be accessible only to authorized persons and containing transforming or converting apparatus for the supply of energy.
- "Telegraph" includes telephone.
- "Telegraph line" has the same meaning as "electric line" in the Post and Telegraph Act, 1908, and also includes all telegraph, telephone, and electric-signalling wires belonging to the Government Railways Department.

Generating Station and Substation.

1. Where high or extra-high pressure overhead or underground cables to substations form part of a tramway system, such high or extra-high pressure cables shall be subject, in so far as applicable, to the regulations for the time being in force under section 2 of the Public Works Amendment Act, 1911. All power-house and substation switchboards controlling high-pressure or extra-high-pressure circuits shall be provided with two efficient and independent earth connections connected in parallel, to which all frames, instrument-cases, and other metal parts thereof shall be connected; provided that where a permanent connection can be made with the tramway-track rails at the station the earth-plates may be dispensed with. Means shall be provided for testing the resistance between the two connections through the earth. The connection between the general mass of earth and the earth-plates, together with the spacing between plates, must be such that the resistance between them shall not exceed 2 ohms. Such tests shall be made at least once a month and recorded.

2. All switchboards shall be made of and mounted on material that is not inflammable, and the maximum permissible current and temperature in any conductor mounted thereon or leading thereto shall not exceed the values permitted under the rules of the Institution of Electrical Engineers of Great Britain. No conductor at a pressure above 650 volts shall be exposed on the front of any switchboard, and the back of any switchboard carrying exposed conductors at a pressure over 650 volts shall be screened off and accessible only to authorized persons.

3. Every switch intended to be used for breaking a circuit and every circuit-breaker shall be so constructed or arranged that it cannot with proper care be left in partial contact, or accidentally fall or move into contact when left out of contact.

4. All switchboard circuits shall be so arranged that the course of any main conductor can be readily identified.

5. Adequate means of access, free from danger, shall be provided for every switchboard passage-way, and the following provisions shall apply to all switchboard working-platforms and passage-ways, unless the bare conductors, whether overhead or at the sides of the passage-ways, are otherwise adequately protected against danger by divisions or screens or other suitable means:—

(a.) Passage-ways constructed for low-pressure switchboards shall have an overhead clearance of 7 ft. between the conductors and the floor, and a clear width measured from bare conductor of not less than 3 ft.

(b.) Passage-ways constructed for high-pressure and extra-high-pressure switchboards, other than operating desks or panels working solely at low pressure, shall have an overhead clearance of not less than 8 ft., and a clear width measured from bare conductor of not less than 3 ft. 6 in.

(c.) Bare conductors shall not be exposed on both sides of the switchboard passage-way unless either (1) the clear width of the passage is, in the case of low pressure, not less than 4 ft. 6 in., and, in the case of high pressure, not less than 8 ft., in each case measured between bare conductors; or (2) the conductors on one side are so guarded that they cannot accidentally be touched.

6. Suitable means, such as rubber mats and gloves, shall be provided and used when necessary adequately to prevent danger.

7. The frames of all electrical machinery, metal casings, and all apparatus connected therewith shall be efficiently earthed.

Overhead Line and Feeders.

8. The maximum difference of potential between trolley-wire and the ground or between trolley-wire feeders and the ground shall not exceed 650 volts.

9. The overhead trolley-wires shall not in any part thereof be at a less height than 18 ft. above the track; provided that where sufficient clearance is not obtainable in tunnels or under bridges the consent of the Minister, in writing, shall be first had and obtained. The trolley-wires shall be suspended in such a way as to provide a double insulation between them and earth. The spacing of the points of support shall not exceed 2 chains.

10. A service telephone system for emergency purposes shall be provided, having connecting-boxes placed every half mile; provided that if the public telephone service is available the Minister may grant exemption, in writing, from the provisions of this clause.

11. Trolley-wire feeder cables, if carried overhead, shall be covered with weatherproofed triple braiding; provided that, where circumstances permit, the Minister may approve of bare conductors being used; and provided that where electric lines intersect the Post and Telegraph Department's lead-covered cables, vulcanized-indiarubber insulation of not less than 600-megohm grade shall be substituted for weatherproofed triple braiding.

12. Guard-wires, guard-hooks, and other similar protective devices shall be erected wherever required by the Minister of Telegraphs, and at the cost of the tramway authority. Any special provisions deemed to be necessary by the Minister of Telegraphs at intersections or as a protection to telegraph lines generally shall be borne by the tramway authority when the telegraph lines are erected before the electric lines, and in cases where the electric lines are erected before the telegraph lines the tramway authority, on receipt of notice from the District Telegraph Engineer of the Post and Telegraph Department, or his deputy, that it is proposed to run a telegraph line along the route, shall forthwith make the necessary changes required to comply with this clause, the cost of such changes being borne by the Post and Telegraph Department.

13. All feeder-cables, test-wires, and service telephone lines shall be carried as far as possible on one side of the street, and on the opposite side to that occupied by the Post and Telegraph Department's lines; provided that in special circumstances this condition may be varied with the approval of the Minister. In all cases the tramway authority and the Minister of Telegraphs shall give to each other reasonable facilities for the joint use of poles.

14. All supports shall be designed with a factor of safety of 4 if of steel, and 5 if of wood, against all forces to which they are subject, including wind-pressure on supports and conductors of 20 lb. per square foot of plane surface and 12 lb. per square foot diametral plane on a cylindrical surface.

15. The stresses in overhead conductors shall not exceed the following limits: 25,000 lb. per square inch for hard-drawn copper, 12,500 lb. per square inch for hard-drawn aluminium, 34,000 lb. per square inch for steel, and 22,500 lb. per square inch for iron, in the event of a minimum temperature of 32 degrees Fahrenheit and a wind-pressure of 12 lb. per square foot of diametral plane occurring simultaneously.

16. Overhead feeder cables shall not in any part thereof be at a less height than 18 ft. above the ground. Test wires and service telephone wires, where employed, shall similarly have a minimum clearance of 18 ft. The minimum height above the ground for any conductor shall be computed on the assumption that the conductor is subject to a temperature of 122 degrees Fahrenheit.

17. The best means available shall be adopted for preventing the occurrence of undue sparking at the rubbing or rolling contacts in any place.

Track and Return Circuit.

18. The rails forming the track shall be efficiently bonded or welded at the joints so that the resistance at the joint shall not exceed the resistance of 30 inches of the rail, and the rails and tracks shall be bonded across with the equivalent of 0.125 square inches copper every 240 ft. No metal pipe or conduit conveying gas or water, or which encloses electric lines or conductors, shall be laid within 2 ft. 6 in. of a track-rail, whether such pipe or conduit is laid before or after the track is laid. Where this precaution cannot be observed, notice shall be given to the Minister, who shall, after investigation, prescribe the conditions under which the work shall be carried out. It shall be incumbent upon the tramway authority to advise the Minister of any infringement of this regulation on the part of any local authority, company, person, or persons.

19. The track rails shall be connected to the negative bus-bar by means of an insulated conductor or conductors.

20. Conductors forming part of a return circuit may, if carried overhead, be bare, but shall be supported on suitable insulators, the insulation of which shall be efficiently maintained.

21. The difference of potential between any two points of a track shall not exceed seven volts, and a continuous record shall be taken of difference of potential between the supply end of a tramway track and the far end of each tramway route; provided that if the conditions are such that no injury is likely to occur, one or more records may be omitted by the consent of the Minister.

22. If at any time and at any place a test is made by connecting a galvanometer or other current-indicator to the uninsulated return and to any pipe in the vicinity, it shall always be possible to reverse the direction of any current indicated by interposing a battery of three Leclanché cells connected in series if the direction of the current is from the return to the pipe, or by interposing one Leclanché cell if the direction of the current is from the pipe to the return.

23. A suitable low-resistance indicating ammeter which can be connected in circuit between the negative bus-bar and the nearest main forming part of the reticulating system of the public water-supply shall be provided at the generating station. A switch or link, to be kept open except when in use for periodical tests, shall be inserted in the circuit and placed near the ammeter. The maximum current indicated shall not at any time exceed either two amperes per mile of single tramway-line or five per cent. of the total current-output of the station, and the resistance of the connected circuit between the water-main and the negative bus-bar shall be such that the maximum current laid down in this regulation shall produce a difference of potential not exceeding one volt across such circuit. The ammeter shall be so constructed as to indicate correctly the current passing from the water-main to the negative bus-bar.

Insulation Tests.

24. The insulation of the line, and of the return when insulated, and of all feeders and other conductors, shall be so maintained that the leakage current shall not exceed one-hundredth of an ampere per mile of tramway. The leakage current shall be ascertained and recorded once in every week before or after the hours of running when the line is fully charged. If at any time it should be found that the leakage current exceeds one-half of an ampere per mile of tramway, the leak shall be localized and removed as soon as practicable, and the running of the cars shall be stopped unless the leak is localized and removed within twenty-four hours.

Insulation Resistance.

25. The insulation resistance of all continuously insulated cables used for lines, for insulated returns, for feeders, or for other purposes, and laid below the surface of the ground, shall not be permitted to fall below the equivalent of 1 megohm for a length of one mile. A test of the insulation resistance of all such cables shall be made at least once in each month and recorded.

Records to be kept.

26. Daily: Maximum current supplied to the tramway; maximum working pressure; fall of potential in return (clause 21). Weekly: Leakage current (clause 24) Monthly: Minimum insulation resistance on insulated cables in megohms per mile (clause 25).

Notice regarding Alterations.

27. Before commencing the extension or alteration of any underground or overhead electric line already laid or erected, the tramway authority shall give at least seven days' notice in writing to the Public Works Engineer, and also to the District Telegraph Engineer of the Post and Telegraph Department, or his deputy, of its intention to carry out the works, and, in the case of an extension, shall forward to the Minister a locality plan showing the route of any such extension.

Maintenance.

28. Every portion of an electric tramway supply system, whether aerial or underground, also all structural parts and electric appliances and devices belonging to or connected therewith, shall be duly and efficiently supervised and maintained by the tramway authority as regards both electrical and mechanical conditions.

Compliance with Regulations.

29. For the purpose of ascertaining whether the regulations are being faithfully complied with by the tramway authority, the Minister, or any person appointed by him in that behalf, may at all reasonable times enter on the lands and works and inspect the said works.

Given under my hand, at Wellington, this 24th day of March, 1915.

NOTE.—A bright sunny month, with moderate northerly winds prevailing. Total bright sunshine, 232 hours 44 minutes, and four sunless days. The mean earth-temperature at 1 ft. was 66.8°, and 65.7° at 3 ft. Mean dew-point, 54.7°; mean elastic force of vapour, 0.428 in.; relative humidity, 74 per cent. of saturation.

SUMMARY FOR THE MONTH OF JANUARY, 1915.

The general character of the weather was, on the whole, seasonable, warm and fair conditions predominating. Rain-fall was excessive on the west coast and in the southern half of the South Island, but, except at a few isolated stations in the northernmost districts where the average was also exceeded owing to heavy falls on the 28th and 29th, elsewhere the total was below normal.

The atmospheric depressions, which were more numerous in the latter half of the month, were chiefly centred in higher latitudes, and were therefore responsible for a prevalence of westerly winds. Between the 28th and 30th, however, a subtropical "low" passed in the north, and, as before mentioned, this principally affected the northern districts of the North Island.

SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF, NEAR SUMNER, CHRISTCHURCH.

UNDER THE CONTROL AND SUPERVISION OF THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

Director: Mr. J. E. STEVENS.

FOR Deaf Children of sound intellect. The pupils are taught to understand and use ordinary speech. The full charge for board and education is £40 a year, but less is accepted from parents who cannot afford to pay this amount. In case of necessity admission is free.

By the Education Act it is compulsory for deaf children to come under instruction at the age of six, and to continue until the age of twenty-one unless the Education Department previously grants exemption. Though a child is, as a rule, best fitted to begin the school course at the age of six, advice should be obtained as soon as any sign of deafness is observed.

The following classes of deaf children are admitted to the School for the Deaf (sound intellect being always a necessity) :—

1. Children born deaf, or who have lost their hearing before learning to speak.
2. Children who can hear a little, but are too deaf to be taught in a public school.
3. Children who have lost their hearing after having learned to speak.

The Act imposes upon every parent, teacher of a school (either public or private), constable, or officer of a charitable or kindred institution who is aware of the place of residence (either temporary or permanent) of a deaf child, and the householder in whose house any such child resides, an obligation to send notification of the fact to the Minister of Education, giving the name, age, and address of the child; and any neglect or failure to comply with this provision involves liability to a fine.

Information and advice may be obtained from the Director, or from

THE SECRETARY FOR EDUCATION,
Wellington.
