6. This security shall be deemed to be a running and continuing security irrespective of any sums which may from time to time be paid to the credit of the account current of the grantor with the grantee, and notwithstanding that such account may appear at any time to be in credit, and notwithstanding any settlement of account or any other matter or thing whatsoever, this security shall remain in full force and effect, and shall not be deemed to have been released or discharged or in any way vacated until a memorandum of satisfaction thereof shall have been executed by the grantee.

The words "will brand" herein used shall have the meaning assigned to them by statute, with such extension as is hereby given to them.

9. The grantor will not (whether in the ordinary course of business or not) sell or dispose of or mortgage, charge, or otherwise encumber the stock and chattels for the time being comprised in this security or any of them, or remove any of the same from the lands mentioned in the First Schedule hereto, without the consent in writing of the grantee first had and obtained.

10. If any of the sheep, cattle, or horses hereby assigned or for the time being subject to this security shall during the continuance of this security die or be lost the grantor shall and will forthwith replace the sheep, horses, or cattle so dying or lost with other stock of the like nature and of equal value.

11. The grantor will during the continuance of this security render and deliver to the grantee whenever required returns in writing setting forth the numbers, ages, sexes, and other particulars of the stock, and the particulars and descriptions of all other chattels for the time being bound by these presents. And it is hereby declared that the covenant implied hereon on the part of the grantor to give and afford all reasonable assistance to enable the grantee, his agents or servants, to view the state and condition of the said stock shall be deemed to include a covenant to muster the said stock whenever required so to do in the notice to be given under the said implied covenant.

12. The grantee shall have the full and absolute power of determining the mode and time and place of the sale and disposition of all stock, wool, produce, or other chattels subject to the provisions of these presents.

13. The grantor will not without the consent in writing of the grantee give any lien or any other security over the wool growing or to grow upon the sheep hereby assigned or for the time being subject to this security, or over any of the crops, produce, or chattels grown and raised upon or on the lands mentioned in the First Schedule hereto, or any other lands now or hereafter owned or occupied or used by the grantor, whether worked in conjunction with the scheduled lands or otherwise.

15. The powers conferred by statute upon grantees of entering and taking possession of chattels assigned by instruments by way of security, and of shearing the wool assigned by instruments by way of security over wool, shall be exercisable by the grantee in respect of the stock, wool, and other chattels for the time being subject to this security at any time whether or not default shall have been made by the grantor in the payment of any of the moneys intended to be hereby secured, and whether or not any of the other events shall have happened upon which any of the said powers are made exercisable by statute, and the provision implied herein by statute for the retention and use by the grantor of the chattels assigned by these presents is hereby modified accordingly.

16. If and whenever the grantee shall become entitled to exercise the power of sale herein implied the grantee may at any time and from time to time at the expense in all things of the grantor remove the stock and chattels hereby assigned or any of them to such place or places as the grantee may deem most convenient for the purpose of any sale or resale in exercise of the said power of sale.

17. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to oblige the grantee to make any further advances.

18. No delay or omission on the part of the grantee to enforce any covenant or exercise any of the powers hereby conferred shall be taken to imply a waiver thereof, nor shall the grantee be answerable or responsible for any loss which may happen in or about the exercise by the grantee or his agent of the powers hereby conferred or any of them in the event or on the occasion or at any time hereinbefore contemplated, or at any time or on any occasion when he may reasonably be induced to believe that he is entitled to exercise the powers aforesaid.

19. This security and the security or securities mentioned in the Second Schedule hereto are held by the grantee as collateral securities for the moneys or some part of the moneys expressed or intended to be hereby secured.

20. All the covenants, provisoes, agreements, and powers directed by statute to be implied either in instruments generally or in instruments by way of security or in instruments by way of security over stock shall be implied herein, modified only so far as the same or any of them are modified by these presents either expressly or by necessary implication.

22. The grantee shall be entitled in effecting such sales as aforesaid to employ such firms, persons, or agents as he may in his discretion think fit, and to pay all commissions, charges, and expenses incurred in connection with such sales, and to deduct the same out of the proceeds of such sales.

EXAMINATION OF MASTERS AND MATES.—INSTRUCTION TO EXAMINERS AND NOTICE TO INTENDING CANDIDATES re BOOKS, ETC.

Marine Department.
Wellington, N.Z., 12th October, 1917.

IN connection with the forthcoming changes in the examinations of masters and mates the Board of Trade state that they are advised that the following are the most suitable books for Examiners to study in connection with the new subjects to be introduced:—

For Meteorology.—"The Barometer Manual" and "The Seaman's Handbook of Meteorology," both published by the Meteorological Office, price 1s. and 2s. respectively, and obtainable through the usual sale agents of British Government publications.

For Stability.—"The Stability of Ships," by Sir E. J. Reed, published by C. Griffin and Company, price 25s.; also "Ships' Stability and Trim," by Percy Hillhouse, which is being written specially for use in connection with the examinations, and will, it is hoped, be published shortly by J. Hogg, 13 Paternoster Row, London, price about 5s. or 7s. 6d.

For Ship-construction.—"Practical Shipbuilding," by Campbell Holmes, published by Longman and Co., price 52s. 6d.

For Elementary Science.—"General Elementary Science," by Briggs, published by the University Tutorial Press, price 3s. 6d.

The Board regret that they are unable to recommend any one comprehensive work on the subject of general knowledge. The examination paper on this subject, as stated in circular 1574, will include questions on shipping business, imports and exports, astronomy, and general elementary science, and will be set with the object of ascertaining whether candidates for the Extra Master's Certificate have been advancing themselves generally in matters relating to their profession. It is not proposed to set any stereotyped questions.

The questions on ship-construction for candidates for certificates as first or second mate will be entirely oral. Candidates for certificates as master will be set a paper.

The essay for candidates for second-mate's certificate may be on any subject of general scientific, philosophic, or topical interest. It is set solely in order to enable the Examiner to judge the candidate's spelling, composition, and knowledge of the English language; and the candidate's view upon the subject set should not be taken into account as a basis for marking. In the case, however, of candidates for masters' certificates the essay will be on some general subject relating to the candidate's profession, and will be set not only to test his knowledge of the English language, but also to test his knowledge of the subject. A fresh subject should be given at every examination in order to prevent candidates from attempting to prepare stereotyped answers beforehand. In the Board's opinion the choice of subjects for essays for the examinations, both for second-mates' and for masters' certificates may be left to the Examiner.

GEORGE ALLPORT,
Secretary.
