LIVERPOOL, Governor-General.

ORDER IN COUNCIL.

At the Government Buildings at Wellington, this twenty-eighth day of January, 1919.

Present :

THE HONOURABLE SIR JAMES ALLEN, K.C.B., PRESIDING

IN pursuance and exercise of the powers in that behalf conferred upon him by section seventy of the Factories Act, 1908, His Excellency the Governor-General of the Dominion of New Zealand, acting by and with the advice and consent of the Executive Council of the said Dominion, doth hereby make the following additional regulations under that Act.

REGULATIONS.

1. THE following requirements shall be complied with in every factory; provided that in any case where the factory has been registered and occupied as a factory prior to the coming into force of these additional regulations the Inspector may authorize such modification as he thinks fit, if he is satisfied that the requirements as modified will be such as to ensure the safety and health of the workers accommodated therein.

FIRE-ESCAPES.

2. Subject to clause 9 hereof, a fire-escape stairway, not being a stairway ordinarily used for ingress and egress, shall be provided for every floor of a factory above the ground floor, and shall reach from the topmost story to not more than 7 ft. from the ground-level, and shall be in such a position that escape can be easily made from the building and adjoining buildings. A platform shall be provided at the foot of each escape stairway, such platform to be at least 2 ft. long and the full width of the stairway. The escape shall be situate as far as practicable from lift elevators or other stairs or windows. The exit from every place where workers are employed shall lead directly to and be near to the escape.

The said escape stairway shall, where practicable, be constructed on the outside of the building. Wherever it is found impracticable to place the escape outside the building the stairway may be constructed inside the building, but shall otherwise be as required by these regulations, and shall be completely enclosed within and constructed of fire-resisting materials, and have direct communication with the outer air.

3. There shall also be provided for every floor of the factory above the ground floor a satisfactory alternative means of escape, which may be either a stairway ordinarily used for ingress and egress, or some other means of escape approved by the Inspector. The constructive arrangements shall be such as to allow of each means of escape being readily and safely accessible to and usable by all of the workers who may be accommodated on the different parts of every floor, so that should exit by one of the means of escape become obstructed exit by the other means of escape shall be instantly available and safely accessible and usable.

4. Wherever it is practicable the Inspector may require the factory occupier to provide, in lieu of or in addition to the fire-escapes otherwise required by these regulations, a horizontal means of escape from any part of the building when such horizontal escape will lead to such other place as affords a safe means of exit to the street.

5. The words "Fire Escape" shall be printed legibly in a well-lit place over or alongside the doorway leading to the fire-escape, in letters not less than 4 in. deep.

6. One or more notices, as required by the Inspector, in the form prescribed below, shall be posted in a conspicuous place on all floors above the ground floor where they can be easily read by the workers employed thereon, showing the position of the fire-escapes, the approaches thereto, and explaining the necessity for workers to keep themselves from time to time acquainted with the mode of exit in case of fire.

Form 11A.

Under the Factories Act, 1908.

FIRE-ESCAPES.

(To be read by all workers employed in the factory.)

It shall be the duty of the occupier to arrange for the workers employed above the ground floor to select at least one representative from among such workers, and such representative shall, together with the occupier, test all fire-escapes and approaches thereto within the factory at least once every three months. A record of each test shall be kept by the occupier, signed by him and by the workers' representative, and shall be open at all times to the Inspector.

8. Every stairway, landing, or platform to be used as a fire-escape shall be so constructed as to bear three times the maximum weight which would be brought to bear upon it in case of fire.

9. Notwithstanding the provisions of these regulations, it shall not be compulsory to provide a fire-escape stairway as provided for in clause 2 hereof if the staircase ordinarily used for ingress and egress consists of fire-resisting material throughout and enclosed in fire-resisting materials, and if in the opinion of the Inspector the head of the staircase on each floor is sufficiently near to the place where workers are employed, and also leads to or is sufficiently near to an exit from the building, affording a readily available and safe means of egress from every part of the said building, and if, in addition,—

The Inspector may require doors to be hung in pairs and to be fitted with approved panic bolts.

All doors or gates leading from the factory to the exits from the building shall, during the whole time the factory is occupied by workers (other than the caretaker or watchman), be secured with such fastenings as will allow such doors or gates to be readily opened from the inside without a key. All stairways and passages provided for by these regulations shall be kept clear at all times when the workers are accommodated in the factory.
