(c.) High-pressure three-phase circuits may be either delta-connected or star-connected. If star-connected the neutral point may be earthed at the point of supply and at the neutral point of each star-connected transformer in the circuit, and the insulation of the circuit shall be effectively maintained at all other points. In delta-connected systems or star-connected systems with insulated neutral an approved automatic apparatus must be provided and maintained for effectively earthing any phase-wire in case of accidental contact.

(d.) Extra-high-pressure circuits may be either delta-connected or star-connected. In the latter case the neutral conductor may or may not be earthed. In the case of delta-connected systems or star-connected systems in which the neutral conductor is not earthed, approved means shall be provided in each circuit for indicating faulty insulation in any part of the circuit, and if the insulation of any circuit is faulty immediate steps shall be taken to make good the insulation.

(e.) In the case of a star-connected system of any voltage the neutral conductor of which is connected to earth, the resistance between that conductor and earth shall be sufficiently low to ensure that the fuse or automatic circuit-breaker in any main shall disconnect the circuit from the source of supply in the event of an accidental earth occurring on that main.

(f.) Where any part of a circuit is normally connected with earth, no switch, fuse, or circuit-breaker shall be inserted in the earthed conductor or in any conductor connected thereto, and the connection with earth shall be efficiently maintained, except when it is interrupted by means of a link for the purpose of periodical tests.

(g.) Within a radius of not less than six miles from a telephone exchange the earth may, with the previous consent of the Minister of Telegraphs, be used as the neutral return for transformers not exceeding 20 kilowatts.

7. EARTH CONNECTIONS.

A test shall be made by the licensee every twelve months to ensure that the earth-wires are intact and the earth connections are effective. Such tests shall be made oftener than once in every twelve months if so required by the Minister. Between the electric line or electrical apparatus to be earthed and the general mass of earth the electrical resistance of each separate earth connection shall not exceed 10 ohms, and shall be as much less than 10 ohms as is required to ensure at all times an immediate and safe discharge to earth of electric energy. Records shall be kept of all tests made.

8. SWITCHBOARDS.

(a.) All power-house and substation switchboards, including the frames to which they are attached, shall be made of fireproof material; and the maximum permissible current and temperature in any conductor mounted thereon or leading thereto shall not exceed the values permitted under the rules made from time to time by the Institution of Electrical Engineers of Great Britain. No conductor at a pressure above 650 volts shall be exposed on the front of any switchboard; and the back of any switchboard shall be screened and made inaccessible except to authorized persons.

(b.) All power-house and substation switchboards controlling high-pressure or extra-high-pressure circuits shall be provided with two efficient and independent earth connections, connected in parallel, to which all frames, instrument-cases, and other metal parts thereof shall be connected. Means shall be provided for testing the resistance between these two connections through the earth. Such tests shall be made at least once a month, and shall be recorded.

(c.) Every switch intended to be used for breaking a circuit, and every circuit-breaker, shall be so constructed or arranged that it cannot with proper care be left in partial contact or accidentally fall or move into contact when left out of contact.

(d.) All switchboard circuits shall be so arranged that the course of any main conductor may be readily identified.

(e.) Every power-house or substation switchboard shall be erected in such a position as to provide, in front and behind the switchboard, the clear and unobstructed spaces hereinafter mentioned, namely:—

(1.) Low-pressure switchboards—a vertical clearance of at least 7 ft. from the floor to any bare conductor, and a horizontal space or width of at least 3 ft. from each side of the switchboard or any bare conductor affixed thereto.

(2.) High-pressure and extra-high-pressure switchboards other than operating desks or panels working solely at low pressure—a vertical clearance of not less than

8 ft. from the floor to any bare conductor, and a horizontal width or space of not less than 3 ft. 6 in. on each side of the switchboard or any bare conductor or other apparatus affixed thereto.

9. RUBBER GLOVES, MATS, ETC.

Every fuse shall be either of such construction or so protected by a switch that the fusible metal may be readily renewed without danger.

12. REGULATION OF PRESSURE AND FREQUENCY.

The pressure shall be maintained within 5 per cent. above or below the nominal pressure at the consumers' terminals; and on complaint by any consumer that the variation in voltage exceeds the limits specified, or on the instructions of the Inspecting Engineer, the licensee shall connect a recording voltmeter, to be provided and maintained by the licensee, to record the pressure between the service-lines. If the variations thus recorded exceed the above limits the licensee shall take immediate steps to comply with this regulation. The frequency shall be maintained within 2½ per cent. above or below the standard of 50 cycles per second.

13. OVERHEAD LINES SUBJECT TO DISCONTINUANCE.

The supply of electrical energy may be effected either by underground or overhead electric lines: Provided that if at any time it is deemed by the Minister to be detrimental to the public safety for overhead conductors or any particular class of conductors to remain, the licensee shall at his own expense, upon receipt of a notification to that effect from the Minister, within such time as the Minister thinks fit, replace the overhead conductors by underground conductors, and thereupon the use of the overhead conductors shall be discontinued.

14. STRANDING OF CONDUCTORS, AND MINIMUM SIZE.

(a.) Copper conductors may be either single or stranded. Aluminium conductors must in all cases be stranded.

(b.) The diameter of any conductor in any electric line laid or erected for the supply of electrical energy shall not be less than 0.104 in. (No. 12 S.W.G. or 7/20 S.W.G.): Provided that No. 14 S.W.G. may be used for service connections in spans not exceeding 66 ft.

15. STRESSES IN OVERHEAD LINES.

(a.) All metal-work, including insulator-pins, forming part of supports carrying extra-high-pressure lines in excess of 35,000 volts shall be effectively earthed.

(b.) Every support for overhead electric lines shall be so located as to avoid unduly obstructing pedestrian or vehicular traffic.

(c.) Every support for overhead electric lines shall be of durable material, and of sufficient strength to withstand forces due to wind-pressure, change of direction of line, and unequal length of span. The factor of safety of such supports, if carrying transmission-lines only, shall be such that the moment resulting from a wind-pressure of 30 lb. per square foot of plane surface and 18 lb. per square foot of diametral plane of a cylindrical surface upon the lines and supports shall not exceed one-half the applied moment which is sufficient to cripple the support if of iron, steel, or ferro-concrete, and shall not exceed one-fourth of the breaking-stress in the case of wood. The factor of safety of supports carrying electric distribution-lines shall be 4 in the case of steel, iron, or ferro-concrete, and 5 in the case of wood, calculated upon the ultimate strength of the material, assuming the wind-pressure to be 20 lb. per square foot upon a plane surface and 12 lb. per square foot upon a diametral plane of a cylindrical surface.

(d.) All overhead electric lines shall be attached to suitable insulators carried on cross-arms or brackets of suitable material and cross-section, and they shall be so attached to the insulators or guarded that they cannot fall away from the supports in case they become detached from the insulator. Where such lines are covered with insulating-material they shall be so attached to the insulators that their insulation shall not be impaired thereby.

(e.) Electric distribution-lines at low pressure may be carried on brackets attached to buildings, provided they are inaccessible from any portion of the building without the use of a ladder or other special appliance, and provided also that they are secured in such a manner that they cannot fall or make contact with the building.

18. MAXIMUM LENGTH OF SPAN.

(a.) The distance between supports carrying electric distribution-lines shall, notwithstanding the provisions of clause 15 hereof, not exceed 2½ chains.

(b.) The distance between supports carrying electric lines other than distribution-lines shall be determined by the provisions of clauses 15 and 16.

19. ANGLE OF CROSSING THOROUGHFARES.

Where an overhead electric line crosses from one side of a street to the other the angle formed by the original alignment and the portion of the line crossing the street shall approximate as closely as practicable to a right angle, and shall not exceed 135°. The crossing-span shall be as short as possible.

20. COVERING OF OVERHEAD LINES.

Electric lines at low pressure shall be covered throughout with triple braiding, thoroughly impregnated with weather-proof compound: Provided that where circumstances permit and subject to the undermentioned conditions the lines may, with the written consent of the Minister obtained before the work is commenced, be bare.

Electric lines at high pressure shall be insulated with vulcanized rubber of at least 600-megohm grade: Provided that where circumstances permit and subject to the undermentioned conditions the lines may, with the written consent of the Minister obtained before the work is commenced, be bare.

Electric lines at extra-high pressure shall be bare.

Earthed neutral or intermediate conductors may be bare.

Every pole or support carrying extra-high-pressure lines or high-pressure lines the conductors of which are bare shall have attached to it a plate marked "Danger—Live Wires."

Bare low-pressure and bare high-pressure electric lines erected with the consent of the Minister as above mentioned shall be subject to the following conditions:—

(a.) The electric lines upon which workmen are engaged shall be disconnected from the source of supply, but if a suitable raised insulated platform is used the electric lines need not be so disconnected.

(b.) When in the opinion of the Minister it is necessary in the interests of the public safety that the use of bare electric lines shall be discontinued, the licensee shall, upon receiving notice from the Minister, and within such time as he may fix, substitute therefor electric lines covered in the manner prescribed in this clause.

(c.) Where telegraph-lines are affected the bare electric lines shall also be subject to the conditions prescribed in clause 25, "Protection of Telegraph-wires, &c."

(d.) Such further conditions as the Minister may see fit to prescribe.

21. LOW-PRESSURE, HIGH-PRESSURE, AND EXTRA-HIGH-PRESSURE LINES ON SAME POLES.

(a.) Where high-pressure and extra-high-pressure electric lines are supported on the same poles or supports both lines shall be bare, and means shall be provided for automatically and effectively earthing the high-pressure line in the event of the extra-high-pressure line making contact with the high-pressure line.

(b.) Low-pressure and extra-high-pressure electric lines shall not be carried on the same poles or supports.

(c.) Where low-pressure and high-pressure electric lines are supported on the same poles or supports the high-pressure electric line shall be insulated with vulcanized rubber of at least 600-megohm grade. Where, however, circumstances permit, and subject to clauses 20 and 25 hereof, such high-pressure electric lines may be bare, provided that—

(i.) The written consent of the Minister is first obtained:

(ii.) A clearance of at least 4 ft. shall be maintained between the high-pressure and low-pressure lines:

(iii.) The low-pressure electric lines, whether bare or braided, shall be provided with effective earthing-devices:

22. TELEPHONE-LINE ON POLES CARRYING EXTRA-HIGH-PRESSURE WIRES.

(a.) Telephone wire or wires supported on electric-line poles shall be of hard-drawn copper or other suitable material, and shall not be less than No. 12 S.W.G. The minimum clearance between the lowest point of the span and the ground shall be 18 ft.

(b.) The wires shall be suitably guarded against lightning, and shall be fused. Such arrangements shall be made where the telephone is placed as will prevent the possibility of injury resulting to any person using the telephone as the result of a conductor coming into contact with the telephone-wires, or as the result of leakage or of induction.

One side of every street shall be left free by the licensee for telegraph-lines.

Except by permission of the Minister of Telegraphs, or subject to an agreement between the Post and Telegraph Department and the licensee, all overhead electric lines shall be placed on the opposite side of the street to that on which any telegraph-lines exist; and where the erection of the overhead electric lines necessitates an alteration of any existing telegraph-lines, and such alteration is approved by the Minister of Telegraphs, the expense of the alteration shall be borne by the licensee.

In running the electric lines along a street where no telegraph-line exists the licensee shall keep to one side of the street, and in running electric service-lines to the opposite side of the street such lines shall be erected at such a height and in such a manner as not to obstruct any future telegraph-lines.

24. FACILITY FOR SERVICE CONNECTIONS, ETC.

Where electric distribution-lines are on one side of the street and telegraph-lines on the other, and service is required to be given from either to the other side, the licensee and the Minister of Telegraphs shall give to each other reasonable facilities as far as possible to effect supply.

25. PROTECTION OF TELEGRAPH-WIRES, ETC.

The licensee shall take all reasonable precautions in constructing, laying down, placing, and using the electric lines so as not injuriously to affect, whether by induction or otherwise, any telegraph-line, whether such telegraph-line is or is not in existence at the time of the construction, laying-down, or placing of the electric lines.

Where electric lines intersect or menace telegraph-lines the following conditions shall apply:—

(a.) High-pressure electric lines shall be insulated with vulcanized rubber of not less than 600-megohm grade, unless the electric lines are permitted by the Minister to be bare as provided in clause 20, in which case the special conditions of paragraphs (o), (p), (q), (r), and (s) of this clause shall apply.

(b.) Low-pressure electric lines shall be covered with triple braiding thoroughly impregnated with weatherproof compound, unless the electric lines are permitted by the Minister to be bare as provided in clause 20, in which case the special conditions of paragraphs (o), (p), (q), (r), and (s) of this clause shall apply.

(c.) Where lead-covered telegraph-cables and high- or low-pressure electric lines intersect, the electric lines shall be insulated with vulcanized rubber of not less than 600-megohm grade.

(e.) Where high- or low-pressure electric lines and telegraph-lines intersect, the electric lines shall cross above or below the telegraph-lines as may be decided by the Minister of Telegraphs.

(f.) Where high- or low-pressure electric lines and telegraph-lines intersect, the electric lines shall, wherever practicable, cross at a telegraph-pole; but where crossing at a pole is not practicable the crossing may, subject to the approval of the Minister of Telegraphs, be made in the span.

(g.) Where high- or low-pressure electric lines and telegraph-lines intersect, whether at a pole or in the span, such electric lines shall be erected and maintained in such a manner and subject to such conditions as may from time to time be prescribed by the Minister of Telegraphs.

(h.) Where electric lines at extra-high pressure intersect or menace telegraph-lines the electric lines shall be subject to such special conditions as may be required by the Minister of Telegraphs in each case.

(i.) Wherever in the opinion of the Minister of Telegraphs efficient guard-wires effectively earthed, or other approved methods or devices, are necessary for the protection of telegraph-lines they shall be provided by the licensee to the satisfaction of the Minister of Telegraphs.

(j.) Where electric lines and telegraph-lines intersect, the maximum tension in any conductor in every crossing-span shall not exceed one-half the elastic limit of the conductor under the conditions of minimum temperature and wind-pressure specified in clause 15.

(k.) In cases where electric lines are erected before the telegraph-lines, the licensee, on receipt of notice from the Minister of Telegraphs that it is proposed to run a telegraph-line along or across the route, shall forthwith make all alterations to the electric lines which may be considered necessary by the Minister of Telegraphs for the protection of telegraph-lines.

(l.) Where electric lines, braided or rubber-covered as provided by the first part of clause 20, are erected along a route in accordance with the provisions of these regulations, and it is proposed to intersect such electric lines by telegraph-lines erected subsequent to the electric lines, the cost of any guard-wires or other special insulation or protection, or of any alterations to the electric lines required by the Minister of Telegraphs, will be borne by the Post and Telegraph Department.

(m.) Where electric lines, braided or rubber-covered as provided by the first part of clause 20, are erected subsequent to the telegraph-lines, and intersect or menace such telegraph-lines, the cost of all insulation or protection or of any alterations considered necessary by the Minister of Telegraphs shall be borne by the licensee.

(n.) In the event of any dispute as to whether or not the telegraph-lines are menaced by the electric lines the decision of the Minister of Telegraphs shall be final.

(o.) Where bare electric lines, erected with the written consent of the Minister as provided in clause 20, intersect or menace telegraph-lines the special additional conditions in the following paragraphs of this clause shall also apply:—

(p.) Where telegraph-lines intersect or are menaced by the licensee's bare electric lines at low or high pressure the licensee shall bear the cost of insulating, protecting, and maintaining the insulation and protection of all telegraph-lines, whether erected before or after the bare electric lines, and also the cost of all special work, and the maintenance thereof, which the Minister of Telegraphs deems it necessary to carry out in consequence of the licensee's electric lines being bare.

(q.) When in the opinion of the Minister of Telegraphs it is considered necessary that the bare electric lines at any intersection should be replaced by braided or rubber-covered electric lines, the licensee shall, at his own expense, replace such bare electric lines when requested to do so by the Minister of Telegraphs.

(r.) Low-pressure electric lines, whether braided or bare, which at any portion of their length are carried on the same poles or supports as bare high-pressure electric lines shall be deemed by the Minister of Telegraphs to be "infected" by such high-pressure electric lines, and shall, in so far as telegraph-lines and intersections therewith are concerned, be treated by the Minister of Telegraphs as high-pressure electric lines, and shall be insulated as required by paragraph (a) of this clause.

(s.) When work on telegraph-lines is being done by the Minister of Telegraphs in the proximity of bare electric lines, such electric lines shall be temporarily disconnected from the source of supply during the progress of such work if considered necessary by the District Engineer of the Post and Telegraph Department.

26. LINES NOT IN OPERATION TO BE REMOVED.

An overhead electric line shall not be permitted to remain erected after it has ceased to be used for the supply of energy unless the licensee intends within a reasonable time again to use such line.

27. RAILWAY-CROSSINGS.

No work of any nature shall be erected or constructed upon, over, or under any part of New Zealand Government railways until the licensee has obtained the consent of the Minister of Railways thereto, as required by section 4 of the Government Railways Amendment Act, 1910 (No. 2).

Where overhead lines cross the railway the span between the supports shall not exceed 100 ft. in length where practicable. The pole on each side of the railway shall be embedded in concrete.

The lines over the railway, and for a span each side of the railway, shall be erected with a factor of safety on the basis that a maximum tension in the conductor shall not exceed half the elastic limit of the conductor under the conditions of minimum temperature and wind-pressure as specified in clause 15.

The minimum clearance above rail-level shall be 24 ft. for all lines working at low or high pressure, and 30 ft. for all lines working at extra-high pressure. The dip or sag shall be calculated on the assumption of a maximum temperature of 122° F. The supports of the lines shall have a factor of safety of 4 under conditions of wind-pressure hereinbefore specified.

The conductors shall be hard-drawn stranded aluminium or copper cable.

For any pressure not exceeding 3,300 volts the conductors in the crossing-span may be bare or may be insulated. For extra-high pressure the conductors shall be bare.

Where bare conductors are carried through the crossing-span provision shall be made for the erection of approved earthing-devices, which shall be so fixed under each conductor that, in the event of a conductor breaking, contact with the earthing-device shall be made by such conductor before coming into contact with a passing train.

Telephone-wires may be run with a minimum clearance above the rails of 24 ft., and shall be of galvanized iron or hard-drawn copper of not less than No. 12 S.W.G. where they cross the railway, and for a clear span on either side.

Guard-wires shall be erected by the Railway Department over the railway-wires at the expense of the licensee wherever they may be deemed to be necessary by the Minister of Railways.

Wherever the words "Minister of Telegraphs" or "Minister" appear in clauses 23, 24, and 25, the same shall be read as "Minister of Railways" in all cases where the Railway Department's interests are affected.

28. EARTH-WIRES ON POLES.

Earth-wires, where led down poles, shall be protected by a wooden casing for a distance of 8 ft. from the ground.

29. LIGHTNING-ARRESTERS.

Where any portion of any electric line, or support for an electric line, is exposed in such a position as to be liable to injury from lightning it shall be effectively protected against injury by suitable lightning-arresters.

30. TRANSFORMERS.

Where transformers are placed on poles they shall be fitted with watertight cases, and either thoroughly protected against interference or attached to the poles at such a height as to make them inaccessible except by means of a ladder or other special appliance. Where transformers are placed within a building or enclosure the same shall be inaccessible except to authorized persons; all high-pressure or extra-high-pressure conductors therein shall be screened and protected against accidental contact. The cases of all transformers, whether within or without a substation, shall be earthed by a copper conductor in accordance with the rules of the Institution of Electrical Engineers of Great Britain for earthing.

31. MOTOR AND GENERATOR INSTALLATIONS.

The frames of fixed motors and generators shall be earthed in accordance with the rules of the Institution of Electrical Engineers of Great Britain for earthing. All metal casings of switches, resistances, fuses, cables, and wires shall be earthed also in accordance with such rules.

Every motor must be controlled by a quick-break protected switch conveniently placed so that the person in charge of the motor can cut off the supply from the motor and from all auxiliary devices connected therewith.

Fuses or other automatic cut-out must be provided to protect effectively the conductors in each circuit from excess of current.

Every precaution shall be taken in choosing positions for and in wiring and setting-up of motors and generators and the necessary devices in connection therewith, so as to eliminate all risk of fire or shock.

Terminals of motors and generators must be so guarded that they cannot be accidentally touched or short-circuited.

The insulation resistance to earth of each motor and generator circuit, including all auxiliary devices, shall not be less than 1 megohm.

32. ARC LAMPS.

All arc lamps shall be so guarded as to prevent pieces of ignited carbon or broken glass falling from them, and shall not be used where there is any danger arising out of the presence of explosive dust or gas.

Arc lamps or any part thereof used in any street for public lighting shall be at least 10 ft. from the ground.

Arc lamps used in any street for private lighting shall be at least 8 ft. from the ground, and shall be so screened as to prevent risk of contact with persons.

Arc lamps must be insulated from earth, and be fixed so that they cannot swing into contact with any substance, metallic or otherwise, that might connect them with earth.

Every precaution must be taken against the danger of shock during trimming of arc lamps.

Resistances for the regulation of arc lamps, if exterior to the lamp, shall be mounted on incombustible bases, shall be so placed that they cannot by conduction or radiation set fire to any contiguous material, and shall be of ample size to carry with safety the maximum current that normally flows through them.

Each arc-lamp circuit, if wholly insulated, shall be provided with a fuse on each pole, but if one terminal is connected to an earthed neutral or intermediate conductor a fuse shall not be inserted in the connection to the neutral or intermediate conductor.

33. UNDERGROUND CONDUCTORS.

Underground conductors shall be thoroughly insulated, and shall be protected from mechanical damage by steel armouring, wooden boxing, or earthenware, stoneware, concrete, iron, or fibre conduits or pipes. They shall be laid, wherever possible, under the footpaths, and with a cover of at least 9 in. from the surface of the pavement. Where laid under the roadway this cover shall be not less than 2 ft.

All conduits, pipes, casings, and street-boxes used as receptacles for electric lines shall be constructed of durable material, and shall be of ample strength to prevent damage from heavy traffic; and reasonable means shall be taken to prevent the accumulation of gas in such receptacles.

Where any underground electric line crosses or is in proximity to any metallic substance, special precaution shall be taken by the licensee against the possibility of any electrical charging of the metallic substance from the electric line, or from any metallic conduit, pipe, or casing enclosing such line.

Where any underground electric line is brought through the surface of the ground to connect with overhead electric lines it shall be completely enclosed in an effectively earthed metal pipe for a height of at least 12 ft. above the ground.

Electric lines placed in a tunnel or subway not in the sole occupation of the licensee must be insulated and protected by a metallic sheath or enclosed in a metal pipe, both being effectively earthed.

When any high or extra-high pressure electric line is laid beneath the surface of the ground efficient means shall be taken to render it impossible that the surface of the ground, or any other electric line or conductor, shall become charged by leakage from the high or extra-high pressure electric line.

A high or extra-high pressure electric line shall not be used for the supply of energy before it has been completely laid, properly jointed, examined, and tested.

34. STREET-BOXES.

The covers of street-boxes shall be so secured that they cannot be opened except by means of a special appliance; and such boxes shall be inspected from time to time for the presence of gas, and suitable action shall be taken to check the influx and accumulation of gas.

35. EARTHING CONDUITS.

All metal conduits, pipes, or casings containing high or extra-high pressure electric lines shall be effectively earthed, and shall be so jointed and connected across all street-boxes and other openings as to make good electrical contact throughout their whole length.

36. INSULATION OF ELECTRIC LINES.

Every low-pressure electric line, after having been placed in position and before it is used for the purpose of supply, shall be tested for insulation at a pressure of at least 500 volts, and the licensee shall keep a record of the results of such tests.

A high or extra-high pressure electric line shall not be brought into use until it has withstood the continuous application for half an hour of the maximum pressure for which the electric line is to be used. A record of such test shall be kept by the licensee.

The insulation of every complete circuit used for the supply of energy, including all machinery, apparatus, and devices forming part of or in connection with such circuit, shall be so maintained that the leakage-current shall not under any condition exceed one-thousandth part of the maximum supply-current. Suitable steps shall be taken to promptly locate such leakage, and every such leakage shall be remedied without delay.

37. ELECTRIC SERVICE-LINES.

Service connections from aerial lines shall be taken direct from insulators, and shall not be tapped off the aerial lines between supports. They shall be led as directly as possible to insulators firmly attached to some portion of the consumer's premises which is not accessible to any person without the use of a ladder or other special appliance. The portion of any low-tension electric-service line passing over a street shall be not less than 18 ft. above the crown of the road. Within the boundary of the consumer's property the height of the low-tension electric-service lines shall be not less than 14 ft. above the ground-level; provided that if the conductors other than earthed conductors are bare such height shall be not less than 16 ft. High-pressure or extra-high-pressure service lines shall be of a height not less than those specified in clause 16.

Every portion of any electric service, except an earthed neutral or intermediate conductor, which is outside a building, but is accessible therefrom, shall be effectively protected by rubber insulation of 600-megohm grade.

38. SERVICE CONNECTIONS.

The licensee shall be responsible for all electric lines, wires, fittings, and apparatus, belonging to it or under its control which may be upon a consumer's premises, being erected and maintained in a safe condition and in all respects fit for supplying energy.

In delivering the energy to a consumer's terminals the licensee shall exercise all due precautions so as to avoid risk of causing fire on the premises.

A suitable safety-fuse or other automatic circuit-breaker shall be inserted in each electric service-wire, except as provided in clause 6 (f), within or without a consumer's premises, and if within it shall be placed as close as possible to the point of entry, and contained within a suitably locked or sealed receptacle of fireproof construction. In case of 400-volts or 460-volts supply the phase or outer wire fuses shall be separated by an insulating partition, and shall be so arranged that both conductors cannot be touched simultaneously. In ovens and other apparatus taking 3 kw. or more a switch shall be located in each phase or outer wire adjacent to and within easy reach of such apparatus. Such switch shall be enclosed in a metal casing.

All electric wires, fittings, and apparatus on a consumer's premises, except such parts as require to be earthed, shall be highly insulated and suitable for the voltage at which the supply is given. They shall be thoroughly protected against injury to the insulation or access of moisture, and such wires and apparatus shall conform to the "General Rules for Wiring" issued by the Council of the Fire Underwriters' Associations of New Zealand. All electric wires shall be so fixed and protected as to prevent the possibility of electrical discharge to any adjacent metallic substance. The onus of compliance with the "General Rules for Wiring" issued by the Council of the Fire Underwriters' Associations of New Zealand shall be on the licensee.

39. INSTALLATION ON CONSUMERS' PREMISES.

The licensee shall not connect the wires, fittings, and apparatus on a consumer's premises with its electric lines, or, in the case of premises already connected, continue to supply from its electric lines, unless the requirements of these regulations are complied with and the wiring, fittings, and apparatus are suitable for the voltage of supply and in accordance with the "General Rules for Wiring" issued by the Council of the Fire Underwriters' Associations of New Zealand.

For the purpose of satisfying itself that the requirements of these regulations are being complied with the licensee shall require that notice shall be served upon him of the consumer's intention to install wires, fittings, and other apparatus on any such premises, and the consumer shall render the licensee every reasonable facility for inspecting and testing such wires, fittings, and apparatus during the progress of the work and after its completion.

If any consumer is dissatisfied with the action of the licensee in refusing to give, or in discontinuing, or in not recommencing the supply of energy to his premises the wires and fittings of that consumer may, on his application to the Minister and on payment of the cost, be inspected and tested by the Inspecting Engineer. If the Inspecting Engineer is satisfied that such wires, fittings, and apparatus may be safely used the licensee shall, upon receipt of notice to that effect from the Inspecting Engineer, forthwith supply the consumer with electrical energy.

40. MAINTENANCE.

The licensee shall keep the whole of the work authorized by the license in good order and condition so as to at all times ensure continuity of service and immunity from danger.

41. INSPECTION OF WORKS.

The Minister may, at the expense of the licensee and at any time and from time to time, order an inspection to be made of the whole or any part of the works carried out or erected by the licensee under the license. If any defect is found to exist it must be remedied forthwith; and if in the opinion of the Inspecting Engineer such default is serious the Minister may, on receipt of the report, direct the licensee to at once cease using such defective electric line, apparatus, fittings, or machines until such defect is repaired or remedied to the satisfaction of the Electrical Engineer. In default of the licensee remedying the defect or ceasing to transmit energy the licensee shall be liable to a penalty of £20, such penalty to be recoverable by or on behalf of the Minister as a debt due to the Crown. The cost of such inspection shall be borne by the licensee.

42. COMPLIANCE WITH REGULATIONS.

For the purpose of ascertaining whether these regulations are being faithfully complied with by the licensee, the Minister, or any person appointed by him in that behalf, may at all reasonable times enter on the lands and works used by or in the occupation of the licensee.

43. NOTICE BEFORE COMMENCEMENT.

Before commencing any part of the work connected with the initial installation authorized the licensee shall give fourteen days' notice in writing to the Public Works Engineer, and to the District Engineer of the Post and Telegraph Department, of the intention so to do. Such notice shall be accompanied with a plan of such installation showing the location, size and number, and pressure of bare wires and cables proposed to be erected, and also showing the number and sizes of covered wires and cables, the nature of covering, and also the height of the poles to be erected.

44. TIME OF CONSTRUCTION.

The licensee shall, within twelve months from the date of the license, make a substantial commencement of the work to which the license refers, and shall proceed continuously and energetically with the construction of all such works.

45. NOTICE OF COMPLETION.

The licensee shall, prior to the completion of the initial installation or any separate portion thereof, give to the Under-Secretary of Public Works and to the District Engineer of the Post and Telegraph Department at least one month's notice in writing of the estimated date of each completion.

46. COMMENCEMENT OF SUPPLY.

The licensee shall not use the initial installation or any portion thereof until the Minister has given notice in writing that he has received from the Inspecting Engineer a certificate that such works or any portion thereof has been satisfactorily carried out.

47. CONTINUITY OF SUPPLY.

From and after the time when the licensee commences to supply energy in pursuance of the license, the licensee shall maintain continuously, during the period of the day for which the licensee has agreed with any consumer to supply energy, sufficient power for the use of all such consumers for the time being entitled to be supplied: Provided also that for any purposes connected with the efficient working of the undertaking the Minister may give permission to the licensee to discontinue the supply at such intervals of time and for such periods as he may think expedient. When the supply is so discontinued public notice shall be given, when practicable, of such discontinuance and of the probable duration thereof.

48. EXTENSIONS.

Before commencing the extension or alteration of any line already erected the licensee shall give at least seven days' notice in writing to the Public Works Engineer, and also to the District Engineer of the Post and Telegraph Department, or his Deputy, of the intention to carry out the work; and in the case of an extension such notices shall be accompanied by a plan showing information prescribed by clause 43. Notwithstanding the provisions of clause 46 the licensee may use such extensions, provided that the work has been carried out in strict conformity with the requirements of these regulations; and for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the extensions comply with such conditions the Inspecting Engineer may from time to time inspect the work, and if he finds that any portion of the same does not comply with the requirements of these regulations the Minister reserves to himself the right to call upon the licensee to discontinue the use of such part of the work until he is satisfied that the regulations are complied with. The licensee shall prepare and maintain a large scale plan showing the location of all works, lines, substations, and transformers erected from time to time. Such plan shall be completed within seven days of the carrying-out of any extension, shall show the date of erection of each electric line, and shall be available at any time for examination by the Inspecting Engineer.

49. ASSIGNMENT.

A license and the benefits and obligations thereunder shall not be assigned or delegated by the licensee without the express consent in writing of the Governor-General in Council first had and obtained, upon such terms and conditions as he shall approve; but such consent shall not be withheld if it is proved to the satisfaction of the Minister that the transferee is financially and otherwise able to carry out the obligations specified under the license.

50. REVOCATION, ETC.

The powers of revocation or infliction of fines by a license invested in the Governor-General shall not be exercised unless and until the Governor-General has caused to be given to the licensee, or placed upon some principal or conspicuous part of the works, a notice in writing of the intention to exercise the same, and of the specified breach or breaches in respect of which the aforesaid powers are intended to be exercised, and default has been made by the licensee (after the giving or leaving of such notice) in repairing or remedying the breach complained of for the following space of time:—

- (a.) For any breach of the conditions of the license which in the opinion of the Governor-General can be met by a fine, thirty days after the giving or leaving of such notice;
- (b.) For any breach of the conditions of the license which in the opinion of the Governor-General is of such a nature as to require the revocation of the license, ninety days after the giving or leaving of such notice.

51. DEFAULT AND PENALTY.

- (a.) If the licensee fails or neglects to use and maintain the works after completion thereof so as to secure to the area of supply the full benefit of the undertaking; or
- (b.) If the licensee fails to observe, perform, fulfil, or keep any of the requirements, conditions, and provisions of the Public Works Amendment Act, 1911, or its amendments, to the full intent of the same or of any part thereof; or
- (c.) If the licensee shall fail to observe any of the conditions or obligations herein imposed upon the licensee, then in any such case it shall be lawful for the Governor-General, by Order in Council, either to revoke the license or to impose upon the licensee a fine not exceeding £20 for the breach of any such condition or obligation, such fine to be recovered in any Court of competent jurisdiction by any person appointed by the Governor-General to recover same.

52. PUBLIC WORKS COMPENSATION, ETC.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed in any way to interfere with, affect, or abridge any rights or powers vested in His Majesty the King, or in the Governor-General on his behalf, or the Minister, or any other person under any Act of the General Assembly authorizing the construction, management, or working of any public works. Nor shall His Majesty or the Governor-General, or the Minister, or any other person be liable to pay to the licensee any compensation for injury done to the works authorized by the license by the construction, management, or working of any such public work as aforesaid, or for the loss occasioned thereby, or for the exercise of any such right or power as aforesaid.

Nothing in the license or otherwise shall be deemed to give to the licensee a monopoly or the exclusive right to supply electricity within the area of supply.

54. WIRING CONSUMERS' PREMISES: MONOPOLY FORBIDDEN.

The licensee shall not grant or agree to grant any company, firm, or person the sole right to supply or erect the electric wiring on any consumer's premises, nor shall any consumer be required to purchase from the licensee or his assigns any material or apparatus for installing the electric wiring on such premises, or to have the work carried out by the licensee or his assigns, as a condition precedent to a supply of electrical energy being given by the licensee to the consumer.

55. GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S DECISION FINAL.

The Governor-General shall be the sole judge of the fact whether the requirements of these regulations have been complied with; and he may from time to time cause inquiry to be made into any matter connected therewith or arising hereunder, in such manner as he thinks fit, and his decision shall be final, and the licensee shall comply with such decision: Provided always that this clause shall not affect the right of any person, corporate body, or local authority in cases of damage or injury for which an action by such person, corporate body, or local authority may lie against the licensee.

SUMMARY FOR THE MONTH OF JULY, 1919.

July, meteorologically the mid-winter month in New Zealand, was this year favoured with milder conditions than usual, though some severe frosts were experienced in parts.

The total rainfall was generally much lower than the normal over the North Island, and slightly so at most places in the northern and east coast districts of the South Island, but in Westland and Otago it was in excess.

Several intense atmospheric disturbances were in evidence, and may be briefly described: A westerly storm ruled during the first few days, and a secondary centre which developed remained off the east coast of the South Island on the 2nd and 3rd, finally passing south-east of the Chatham Islands on the night of the 4th. During this period the weather was unsettled and at times stormy, and some heavy rain fell in various parts of the Dominion. A rapid increase in pressure took place after the 4th, and between the 7th and 10th an anticyclone held sway, fair weather prevailing generally, with cold, frosty nights.

Between the 12th and the 24th comparatively high pressure prevailed in the North, but several westerly "lows" passed in the southern districts. These were chiefly effective between the 12th and 15th, on the 17th, and between the 20th and 24th. The latter accounted for strong southerly winds on the 22nd, heavy rain in parts, and snow on some of the high country in the South Island.

From the 24th to the close of the month high atmospheric pressure persisted south of New Zealand, and strong easterly winds and cold, showery conditions were experienced in the East Coast districts, while fine, clear weather prevailed in the West Coast. On the last two days a cyclone passing in the North was responsible for very stormy weather and heavy rain along the east coast of the North Island, floods occurring in many of the rivers in Hawke's Bay.

Marine Department,
Wellington, N.Z., 19th September, 1919.

THE following extract from the Board of Trade Journal No. 1168, of the 17th April, 1919, relative to the wearing of war service chevrons by members of the mercantile marine, &c., is published for general information.

GEORGE ALLPORT,
Secretary.

WAR SERVICE CHEVRONS.
Mercantile Marine, &c.

THE Board of Trade have authorized chevrons to be worn by masters, officers, and members of the crews of merchant vessels, and vessels of pilotage and lighthouse authorities, and by licensed pilots, and fishermen who have served at sea or have been captured or interned during the war, in accordance with the following provisions:—

1. One chevron may be worn in respect of sea-going service, or captivity or internment in an enemy country, during the period from 4th August, 1914, to 31st December, 1914.

2. One chevron may be worn in respect of each or any of the three calendar years 1915, 1916, and 1917, provided that at least three months of the year have been spent afloat in sea-going service, or in captivity in an enemy country, or both.

3. One chevron may be worn in respect of the remainder of the war, when twelve months have been spent since the 1st January, 1918, in sea-going service (with or without a period of captivity in an enemy country), provided that the period of twelve months has commenced before 11th November, 1918, when the Armistice was signed.

4. For certificated masters and officers, skippers of fishing vessels, licensed pilots, uncertificated junior officers qualifying for their first certificate, surgeons, pursers, wireless operators, cadets and apprentices in the mercantile marine, and masters, officers, and apprentices of vessels of pilotage and lighthouse authorities, the chevron for 1914 shall be silver, the others gold. For all other officers, second hands, petty officers, and ranks and ratings in the mercantile marine, in the fishing service, and in vessels of pilotage and lighthouse authorities, the chevron for 1914 shall be of red worsted, the others of blue worsted.

5. The chevrons shall be similar to those worn in the Royal Navy, and shall be worn on the forearm of the right sleeve of uniform, sea rig or shore rig; the silver and red worsted chevrons respectively shall be worn below the others. Chevrons earned for naval or military service in accordance with Admiralty or War Office regulations may be worn in addition to the mercantile marine chevrons; and, even when earned in respect of military service, they must be worn as prescribed in paragraph 4 of this authorization.

6. No permission to wear the chevrons, other than this general authorization, will be required. Chevrons will not be provided by the Board of Trade, but they should be purchased by those authorized to wear them.

7. Under the Defence of the Realm Regulations it is an offence for any unauthorized person to wear a chevron.

Note.—Chevrons earned for service in the mercantile marine in accordance with this authorization may be worn on naval and military uniform; when worn on military uniform the chevron should be of the army pattern.

Wilford Settlement is situated at the eastern end of the Borough of Petone, and is about one mile distant from Petone Railway-station, which is reached in eighteen minutes by train from the City of Wellington. Steps are being taken by the Petone Borough Council to establish a motor-bus service, which will serve the lots under offer. These lots are all in grass and are generally of a dry nature, somewhat sandy, on gravel formation, between Heretaunga and High Streets, and with a heavy loam between High and Manchester Streets. The streets on which they abut are formed and metalled, with concrete kerbing and channelling. An opportunity is here afforded of securing very desirable residential sites close to school and sea-shore.

TERMS OF SALE.

SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF, NEAR SUMNER, CHRISTCHURCH.

UNDER THE CONTROL AND SUPERVISION OF THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

Director: Mr. J. E. STEVENS.

FOR Deaf Children of sound intellect. The pupils are taught to understand and use ordinary speech. The full charge for board and education is £40 a year, but less is accepted from parents who cannot afford to pay this amount. In case of necessity admission is free.

By the Education Act it is compulsory for deaf children to come under instruction at the age of six, and to continue until the age of twenty-one unless the Education Department previously grants exemption. Though a child is, as a rule, best fitted to begin the school course at the age of six, advice should be obtained as soon as any sign of deafness is observed.

The following classes of deaf children are admitted to the School for the Deaf (sound intellect being always a necessity):—

1. Children born deaf, or who have lost their hearing before learning to speak.
2. Children who can hear a little, but are too deaf to be taught in a public school.
3. Children who have lost their hearing after having learned to speak.

The Act imposes upon every parent, teacher of a school (either public or private), constable, or officer of a charitable or kindred institution who is aware of the place of residence (either temporary or permanent) of a deaf child, and the householder in whose house any such child resides, an obligation to send notification of the fact to the Minister of Education, giving the name, age, and address of the child; and any neglect or failure to comply with this provision involves liability to a fine.

Information and advice may be obtained from the Director, or from the

SECRETARY TO THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.
