It is connected by road with Swanson Railway station, two miles and three-quarters, and Henderson, three miles and a half. A more direct road is proposed, which will reduce the distance to Swanson to about one mile and a half.

Of the sections now offered thirteen are in good grass and fenced along the frontage, and some are fenced along the back line. Three of the sections are for the most part ploughed, while two have been cleared but not ploughed.

The land lies at altitudes ranging from 130 ft. to 300 ft. above sea-level.

The land consists of flat and generally easy slopes; the soil is good, resting on sandstone formation.

Birdwood is situated in a healthy locality, and from several of the sections a view of the Waitemata Harbour and Auckland City is obtainable.

The farmlets are well adapted for fruit and poultry farms.

Regulations for Travellers to Germany.

Department of Internal Affairs,
Wellington, 22nd March, 1923.

THE following regulations drawn up in accordance with the latest information supplied by the German Government are published for general information.

R. HEATON RHODES,
For Minister of Internal Affairs.

REGULATIONS FOR TRAVELLERS TO GERMANY.1. Passports and Visa Regulations.

ALL persons crossing the German frontier must produce a valid national passport establishing their identity.

Passports of foreign nationals must bear the visa of a competent German authority both for entering as well as for leaving Germany.

German nationals require a visa for leaving Germany only.

In the case of travellers living or permanently residing in Germany—no matter whether they are German nationals or not—the visa can be replaced by a permit ("Unbedenklichkeitsvermerk") issued by the competent German Finanzamt.

The necessary visas will, in foreign countries, be granted by the German diplomatic and consular representatives, and in Germany by the competent German authorities (Polizei-präsidenten, Landratsämter, Bezirksämter, &c.).

2. Regulations as to Import and Export of Currency.

On entering Germany: Travellers carrying more than 50,000 marks in German currency or the equivalent in foreign currency, notes, cheques, bills, any negotiable instruments or in coin should apply to the German Customs officials at the place of entry for a certificate stating the actual amount imported. This certificate serves as a permit on leaving Germany to travellers carrying sums up to the equivalent amount.

On leaving Germany: No coin of whatever currency may be exported from Germany without a certificate of previous importation as above. Paper (banknotes, cheques, bills, or any other negotiable instruments) up to 50,000 marks or the equivalent in foreign currency can be freely exported. Sums exceeding 50,000 marks may only be exported on producing certificate of importation or an export license issued by a German Finanzamt.

3. Regulations as to Import and Export of Goods.

Under the existing regulations in Germany the great majority of articles of any description are prohibited from being either imported or exported except upon the production of a German import or export license. These regulations apply especially to travellers—

(a.) On entering Germany: Without a certificate of import from the competent German authorities travellers who take with them such articles only as are actually required for personal use during the journey or for the execution of the traveller's profession during the journey.

(b.) On leaving Germany: Travellers may take with them without providing themselves with an export license the following articles:—

- (1.) Articles which the traveller has taken with him on entering Germany; evidence that this was the case may, however, in certain circumstances be demanded, more especially in the case of articles of value such as jewellery. Travellers entering Germany are therefore advised to obtain a certificate of importation for all such articles from the German Customs officials on entering Germany.
- (2.) Further, only such articles as are required for the traveller's personal use during the journey or for the execution of his profession during the journey. In the case of new articles (purchased during his sojourn in Germany) this is conditional upon the traveller declaring same to the German Customs officials without any attempt at evasion or concealment. In their own interest, therefore, travellers are earnestly advised to open and place before the Customs officials all their luggage for examination.
- (3.) In all other cases an export license is required for prohibited articles. Import and export licenses are (provided the articles bought do not in any way contravene the regulations as to the control of export trade) obtainable at the competent export trade departments (Aussenhandelsstellen).

The above regulations are subject to alterations. Travellers are therefore advised on entering Germany to make inquiries with the Customs officials at the place of entry or, before leaving Germany after a prolonged stay, at the Tourists' Offices, as to any changes in the regulations.

MILITARY PHYSICAL ORTHOPÆDICS. PART I. GUNSHOT WOUND OF NERVE. ARTHUR STANLEY HERBERT, M.D., B.S., Lieut.-Col., N.Z.M.C. Pp. 136, with 62 figures. Price, 6s.; postage, 6d. extra.

This volume deals exclusively with the consideration of the later results of gunshot wound of nerve trunks and their treatment. It is practically a record of personal experience, as the work was done remote from other orthopædic hospitals. The grouping is in terms of convenience of treatment rather than of anatomy, and deals with the physical as distinguished from the surgical side of orthopædics. Emphasis is laid on the importance of promoting the voluntary action of partly paralysed muscles by the provision of artificial muscles, and thus rendering the results obtained by massage, electricity, baths, douches, &c., accessory rather than indispensable. It is claimed this method is simpler, less expensive, and more humane, as it removes the patient from the category of invalids to that of fairly useful workers. Great ingenuity has been exercised in devising the different mechanical supports of special splints and rubber muscles for the paralysed muscle, the use of rubber as an active elastic force being particularly utilized, and indeed is the basic idea underlying the whole system of treatment here advocated. The book is copiously illustrated by good figures, which add considerably to its value; the apparatus itself is characterized by its simplicity, and has stood the test of actual use in a large number of cases.

SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF, NEAR SUMNER, CHRISTCHURCH.

UNDER THE CONTROL AND SUPERVISION OF THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

Director: Mr. J. E. STEVENS.

FOR Deaf Children of sound intellect. The pupils are taught to understand and use ordinary speech. The full charge for board and education is £40 a year, but less is accepted from parents who cannot afford to pay this amount. In case of necessity admission is free.

By the Education Act it is compulsory for deaf children to come under instruction at the age of six, and to continue until the age of twenty-one unless the Education Department previously grants exemption. Though a child is, as a rule, best fitted to begin the school course at the age of six, advice should be obtained as soon as any sign of deafness is observed.

The following classes of deaf children are admitted to the School for the Deaf (sound intellect being always a necessity):—

1. Children born deaf, or who have lost their hearing before learning to speak.
2. Children who can hear a little, but are too deaf to be taught in a public school.
3. Children who have lost their hearing after having learned to speak.

The Act imposes upon every parent, teacher of a school (either public or private), constable, or officer of a charitable or kindred institution who is aware of the place of residence (either temporary or permanent) of a deaf child, and the householder in whose house any such child resides, an obligation to send notification of the fact to the Minister of Education, giving the name, age, and address of the child; and any neglect or failure to comply with this provision involves liability to a fine.

Information and advice may be obtained from the Director, or from the

SECRETARY TO THE

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT,
WELLINGTON.
