Regulations under the Health Act, 1920, relating to the Manufacture and Sale of Flock.—(H. 85.)

JELLICOE, Governor-General.

ORDER IN COUNCIL.

At the Government House at Wellington, this 27th day of April, 1923.

Present :

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

IN pursuance and exercise of the powers conferred on him by the Health Act, 1920, His Excellency the Governor-General of the Dominion of New Zealand, acting by and with the advice and consent of the Executive Council of the said Dominion, doth hereby make the following regulations relating to the manufacture and sale of flock.

REGULATIONS.

1. (1.) In these regulations "flockmaker" means any person who makes into flock any rags, clothing, or other textile materials. "Rags" means clothing and fragments of clothing which have been worn, bedding and furnishings which have been in domestic use, and all other second-hand fabrics.

(2.) These regulations shall be read together with the regulations under the Health Act, 1920, dated the 10th May, 1921, and published in the Gazette of 19th May, 1921, relating to the registration of premises by local authorities.

2. (1.) No premises shall be registered for the purpose of carrying on therein the trade of flock manufacturing, and no existing registration of any such premises shall be renewed, unless the following requirements are complied with:—

(a.) The floors of every room in which flock is manufactured, or in which any material is cleansed or disinfected before manufacture, shall be properly covered with a layer of concrete at least four inches in thickness, rendered smooth with cement, or with other approved impervious materials having a smooth surface and properly laid.

(b.) The floor of every room in which the cleansing or disinfection of rags is carried out shall be properly graded so as to conduct any fluids falling thereon to an adequate drain so constructed and discharging as not to cause a nuisance.

(c.) The internal surface of the walls of every room in which flock or any material used in making flock is stored or handled shall be smooth and free from ledges and crevices. The wall surfaces shall be carried up to the roof or ceiling without offering any lodgment for dust, and roof or ceiling shall be constructed so as to avoid as far as possible crevices and ledges.

(d.) The premises shall be well ventilated in every part.

(e.) All teasing-machines, shakers, and other machinery shall be supplied with such appliances as will effectually catch and collect, to the satisfaction of the Inspector appointed for the purpose of enforcing these regulations by the local authority registering the premises, all dust arising in every process of rag-tearing, rag-disintegration, or flockmaking generally. The dust collected shall be destroyed or dealt with so as not to cause a nuisance.

(2.) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the foregoing provisions, the occupier of any premises registered before the coming into force of these regulations shall be allowed twelve months in which to take any steps necessary to bring the premises into conformity with the requirements of these regulations, and a local authority may renew the registration of any such premises subject to the necessary steps being taken within the period limited as aforesaid.

3. It shall be the duty of every flockmaker to comply with the following requirements in connection with the care of his premises and the treatment of material therein:—

(a.) Every floor on the premises shall be cleaned daily and kept in good order, and every drain and every apparatus connected therewith shall be maintained at all times clear of obstruction and in good order.

(b.) The internal surfaces of every building used for the preparation, manufacture, or storage of flock shall at all times be kept clean and in good repair, and after being thoroughly cleansed shall be washed with hot limewash at least twice in every year—that is to say, at least once during the periods between the first and fourteenth days of January and July in every year:

Provided that if any portion of the internal surfaces is painted with paint having a smooth finish, such portion may be cleansed by washing with water at least twice in each year. The paint shall be renewed in accordance with the directions to that effect given by an Inspector appointed for the purpose of enforcing these regulations by the local authority registering the premises.

(c.) The premises shall be maintained free from nuisance at all times.

(d.) All uncleansed rags shall be received and stored so as to prevent the emission of dust or offensive effluvia to other parts of the premises, and so that such rags shall not come in contact with cleansed rags and material or flock.

(e.) Before any process for the conversion of rags or second-hand material into flock shall be commenced, all such rags and material shall be washed clean, and disinfected to the satisfaction of the Medical Officer of Health.

4. It shall not be lawful for any person to sell or have in his possession for sale, or to use for the purpose of making any mattress, cushion, or like article of upholstery, any flock manufactured from rags, unless the materials from which the flock was made have been cleansed in the manner prescribed in these regulations, and the flock conforms with the standard of cleanliness hereinafter specified.

5. Flock shall be deemed to conform with the standard of cleanliness when the amount of soluble chlorine in the form of chlorides removed by thoroughly washing not less than 40 grammes of a well-mixed sample of the flock with distilled water at a temperature not exceeding 25° C. does not exceed 30 parts in 100,000 parts of flock.

6. Samples of flock for the purposes of chemical analysis or bacteriological examination may be taken from time to time by an officer of the Department of Health; and such officer shall have power to enter at all reasonable times any premises in which flock is being manufactured, stored, or used, and to examine and take samples of any flock found therein:

Provided that when such sample is so taken the occupier of the premises may require the officer taking the sample to divide it into three parts, and to mark, seal, and deliver to him one part; one part to be forwarded for analysis; and the remaining part to be retained by the Department.

7. Any person who obstructs any officer of the Department or of a local authority in the execution of his powers under these regulations shall be guilty of an offence against these regulations.

8. A legible copy of these regulations shall be exhibited in a conspicuous place in all premises in which flock is manufactured or stored.

9. Any person or persons offending against or failing to comply with any of these regulations shall be liable for each offence to a fine of £20, and for a continuing offence to a further fine of £1 for every day or part of a day during which the offence is continued.

Surveyors Board of New Zealand.—Alteration in Practice.

Wellington, 20th March, 1923.

IT is notified, for general information, that, in pursuance and in consequence of resolutions adopted at a conference of Surveyors Boards held in Melbourne in October, 1922, the following alterations will be made in the practice of the Surveyors Board of New Zealand, and will be incorporated in new rules to be issued later.

New candidates (i.e., those who have not previously sat) will not be accepted at the March examinations; only those candidates who desire to complete previous sittings.

Both classes of candidates will be eligible for the September examinations. This alteration will take effect at the examination of March, 1924, for which no new candidates will be accepted in New Zealand.

The term of apprenticeship is altered, and extended to four years, two and a half of which must be in the field, and the articles must be submitted to the Board for registration within three months (not six as heretofore) of the beginning of the term.

These alterations apply to all articles entered into on and after 1st January, 1923, and do not affect articles entered into prior to that date.

Purely civil engineering experience, of whatever length, provided it is not less than twelve months, if offered by a candidate, will be accepted in place of six months only of the required four years survey training.

The six years service qualification forming the subject of the present regulation 7 is abolished as from the 1st January, 1925, after which date no candidate with that qualification only will be accepted for examination.

In the subject of Levelling and Earthworks, in which a pass has not hitherto been compulsory, a pass is now made compulsory, and takes effect at the next examination.

In addition to the plans and documents now required by the present regulation 11 to be lodged by new candidates, there shall, after the 1st March, 1924 (i.e., for the examination in September, 1924, because new candidates will not sit in March), be lodged field notes, plan, and sections of a proposed road, railway, or drainage scheme of not less than ten uniform chains extent (length).

Uniform regulations for all Australian States and New Zealand are in preparation. This preliminary notice of the above alterations is published for the information and guidance of candidates and others, and they take effect now and will govern the practice of the Board in future.

W. T. NELL, Chairman.

M. CROMPTON-SMITH, Secretary.
