Further Proroguing the General Assembly.

[L.S.]

JELLICOE, Governor-General.

A PROCLAMATION.

To the LEGISLATIVE COUNCILLORS of the Dominion of New Zealand, and the Members elected to serve in the HOUSE of REPRESENTATIVES of the said Dominion, summoned and called to a Meeting of the General Assembly of the said Dominion, at the City of Wellington, on the seventeenth day of the month of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, to have been commenced and held, and to every of you: GREETING.

WHEREAS on the twenty-fourth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, the General Assembly of New Zealand was prorogued to the seventeenth day of the month of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, at which time you were held constrained to appear: Now KNOW YE that for divers causes and considerations I have thought fit to relieve you and each of you of your attendance at the time aforesaid, hereby convoking and by these presents enjoining you and each of you that on Tuesday, the fifth day of June next, you meet in Parliament, at the City of Wellington, there to take into consideration the state and welfare of the said Dominion of New Zealand, and therein to do as may seem necessary.

Given under the hand of His Excellency the Governor-General of the Dominion of New Zealand, and issued under the Seal of that Dominion, this twelfth day of May, 1923.

WM. DOWNIE STEWART,
 Minister of Internal Affairs.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be clearly documented, including the date, amount, and purpose of the transaction. This ensures transparency and allows for easy reconciliation of accounts.

In the second section, the author outlines the various methods used to collect and analyze data. This includes direct observation, interviews, and the use of specialized software tools. Each method is described in detail, highlighting its strengths and potential limitations.

The third section focuses on the results of the study. It presents a series of tables and graphs that illustrate the key findings. The data shows a significant correlation between the variables being studied, which supports the initial hypothesis.

Finally, the document concludes with a summary of the findings and offers several recommendations for future research. It suggests that further exploration of the underlying mechanisms could provide even more insight into the phenomenon being studied.
