Prohibition of Importation of Works infringing Copyright.

Customs Department,
Wellington, 21st June, 1927.

THE Minister of Customs has had under consideration the question of detaining (as prohibited imports under section 21 of the Copyright Act, 1913) copies made out of New Zealand of any work in which copyright subsists which, if made in New Zealand, would infringe copyright.

It is provided in that section that, subject to conditions set out therein, such copies shall not be imported into New Zealand, and that they shall be deemed to be prohibited imports within the meaning of the Customs Act, 1913. An essential condition is that the owner of the copyright gives notice in writing by himself or his agent to the Minister of Customs that he is desirous that such copies should not be imported into New Zealand.

It is provided also that for the purpose of that section notices given to the Commissioners of Customs and Excise of the United Kingdom and communicated by them to the Minister of Customs shall be deemed to have been given by the owner to the Minister of Customs.

Subsection (4) of the above-mentioned section provides that the Governor-General may, by Order in Council gazetted, make regulations, either general or special, respecting the detention and forfeiture of copies the importation of which is prohibited by this section; and may by such regulations determine the information, notices, and security to be given, and the evidence requisite, for any of the purposes of this section, and the mode of verification of such evidence.

Under regulations gazetted on 1st April, 1914, it is provided that prior to the detention of any works in pursuance of any notice given to the Minister of Customs the person who signed the notice may be required to give to the Collector of Customs such bond or security as the Collector deems sufficient to reimburse the Minister for all expenses and damages that may be incurred in respect of the detention and in respect of any proceedings that may arise from such detention.

Notice is hereby given that copies of works with respect to which notice as aforesaid has been given to the Minister of Customs will not, after the 31st day of December, 1927, be detained under the Copyright Act, 1913, unless the security referred to in the preceding paragraph is given to the Customs Department.

If any person desires information as to the form, amount, and nature of the security he should communicate with the Comptroller of Customs, Wellington, New Zealand.

GEO. CRAIG,
Comptroller of Customs.
