SUMMARY FOR THE MONTH OF MARCH, 1930.

March has been an exceptionally dry month. Few places received half the average fall, and no case has yet been reported where the average was reached. North of Otago, the mean deficiency was between 70 and 80 per cent., and it is only in the southern portions of Otago and in Southland that the departures fell to moderate dimensions. Some places, such as Auckland, Oamaru, and Westport, had the lowest rainfall ever recorded in March, while at very many others lower totals had been recorded on two or three occasions only.

As would be expected in view of the dry conditions, there was an unusual amount of sunshine. The highest total recorded is 276.6 hours at Nelson, but New Plymouth had 271.6, Masterton 261.6, Auckland 257.9 (its record for March), Napier 252.0, Hanmer 248.1, and Wellington 245.1 hours.

In spite of the fact that there was so much sunshine, temperatures were again below normal, this being the ninth in a succession of cold months. Frosts have been rather numerous, and on the 27th and the 30th were severe enough to do some damage.

Owing to the heavy rains experienced in December and January and the consequent luxuriant growth of herbage, the dry weather of March did good rather than harm. There was still an ample supply of pasture in most districts at the end of the month, and it was more fattening than at the beginning of the year. Crops of all kinds ripened well, too, and harvesting and picking operations were facilitated. The season so far, therefore, has been a very good one. Rain is now, however, badly wanted, and unless it comes shortly conditions will deteriorate rapidly.

The prevailing weather during the month was of the anticyclonic type with its characteristic clear skies and absence of wind. The anticyclones moved on an unusually far southern course and several of them were very intense.

Pressure systems in general moved rapidly and regularly from west to east. The storm systems experienced were, with one exception, of slight or moderate intensity only. Between the 6th and the 10th there were showers in most districts. These occurred mainly in the southerly winds following depressions of the westerly type which passed on the 5th and the 8th respectively.

On the 23rd a depression of cyclonic form developed in the Tasman Sea and good general rains seemed imminent. But on the 24th, although the intensity of the storm had increased, its centre moved southwards across the extreme southern extremity of the Dominion. Rain was fairly widespread and there were a few heavy falls in the South Island, but a general rain was missed. The depression was preceded by strong northerly winds and followed by gales from the south-west or west.

This by-law may be cited or referred to as the Featherston County Telephone By-law, 1929.

This by-law shall come into force on the 1st day of April, 1930.

INTERPRETATION.

- "Council" means the Featherston County Council;
- "Subscriber" means a person or property having telephone connection with a county telephone-line;
- "Clerk" means the Clerk of the Featherston County Council;
- "County" means the Featherston County;
- "Trunk line" means a line of telephone-poles having more than one wire attached thereto;
- "Single line" means a line of telephone-poles having one wire attached thereto;
- "County telephone-lines" means telephone-lines erected, acquired, maintained, or controlled by the Featherston County Council;
- "Maintenance charges" shall be deemed to include all sums expended by the Council from time to time in connection with the upkeep of the line, and shall include also the rent of the telephone instrument.

1. The Council may on application of any number of subscribers erect trunk lines or single lines as it may think fit.

2. The Council may place any number of wires on the poles of any trunk lines.

3. The maximum number of subscribers to be connected to a single line shall be five, but the Council may, on receipt of the unanimous petition of such five subscribers, join any further number of subscribers with any single line.

4. The Council may, by resolution, declare any single line with a smaller number of subscribers than five (5) to be a line having the maximum number of subscribers; but such smaller number of subscribers shall pay between them the full cost of erection and maintenance as if the maximum number of subscribers were attached to such line.

5. Any owner of landed property wishing to have a county telephone-line connected with his or her property may apply by way of petition to the Council, setting forth in such petition that he or she is prepared to pay such sum towards the original cost of construction of the line as the Council deems equitable, but not exceeding one moiety thereof, together with the cost of connecting his or her property, and together also with the maintenance charges from time to time to be fixed in respect thereof. The signing and delivering of such petition shall entitle the petitioner to a telephone connection, and shall constitute a contract between the Council and the petitioner in respect thereof. All moneys received from such new subscriber towards the cost of original construction may at the option of the Council be divided amongst the existing subscribers on the line to which such new subscriber is connected or be held by the Council to the credit of the maintenance account hereinafter referred to of such existing subscribers and new subscribers.

6. The Council shall, not later than the 31st day of May in each year, cause an estimate to be prepared of the cost of maintenance of the county telephone-lines for the next annual period from the 1st April till the following 31st March, and shall by ordinary resolution determine the proportions in which such cost shall be borne by subscribers. Immediately after such resolution shall have been passed, the Council shall cause a copy of such estimate and resolution to be forwarded to each subscriber, and shall at the same time call upon any subscriber who wishes to object to such estimate or to the said apportionment or maintenance charges to appear in person before the next monthly meeting of the Council in support of such objection. After hearing all such objections the Council shall by ordinary resolution determine what, if any, alterations shall be made in the apportionment of maintenance charges previously resolved upon by it, and such apportionment as altered or as previously resolved upon (if not altered) shall immediately become a debt due to the Council by the subscribers in the proportions so allotted to them respectively by the Council and payable on demand.

7. Any person ceasing to be a subscriber to any county telephone-line shall have no right to compensation, either from the Council or from other subscribers.

8. For all purposes in connection with the erection and management of the telephone-line, all subscribers shall be deemed to grant the Council full power and authority to enter on the land of such subscriber, and do all things requisite or, in the opinion of the Council or its servants, necessary for the proper repairing or maintenance of the line.

9. The Council may terminate the contract of any subscriber if such subscriber fails to pay his proportion of maintenance charges within ten days from the date for payment thereof, or if such subscriber fails to comply with any of the foregoing by-laws.

10. No subscriber shall be entitled to transfer his interest in the line until all fees and charges due by him in connection therewith shall be fully paid.
