9. The holder of any existing debentures converted into new debentures shall not be entitled to demand payment of any interest (or in the case of any existing debentures payable by instalment, any instalment of principal and interest) payable in respect of the existing debentures, or to receive the new debentures or any interest thereon, until he has surrendered the existing debentures to the Commissioner.

15. No premium or discount shall be allowed in respect of the conversion of any of the existing debentures to which this Order applies.

PLACE FOR PAYMENT OF PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST.

16. The principal and interest in respect of new debentures shall be payable at such place or places in New Zealand as may be determined by the Commissioner, provided, however, that where any existing debentures confer on the holder thereof the right to receive payment of interest or principal in Australia and such right has not been surrendered by the holder, the Commissioner may in issuing new debentures in conversion of such existing debentures provide for the continuation of such right.

(2) For such purpose the local authority shall permanently appropriate and shall pay to the Commissioner of the consolidated sinking fund on each first day of January following the date of conversion up to and including the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and seventy-eight a contribution of £3,276, increased in respect of each contribution, by a sum equal to three per centum of the aggregate amount of new debentures redeemable up to and including the first day of April preceding the date on which such contribution is payable.

Provided that in respect of any securities transferred to the Public Trustee by the Commissioners of any existing sinking fund pursuant to the provisions of clause eighteen hereof the Public Trustee may, pending the repayment of the moneys secured by such securities, make such charges for the collection of interest payable thereunder and otherwise for the management or realization of such securities as are for the time being prescribed in that behalf by regulations under the Public Trust Office Act, 1908.

APPLICATION OF EXISTING SINKING FUNDS.

18. The existing sinking fund of every loan referred to in the First Schedule hereto shall be applied by the Commissioners thereof, so far as it will extend, in or towards making the following payments, namely:—

(a) Firstly, in payment in accordance with the directions of the Commissioner of any cash payments required to reduce the holding of any individual holder to a suitable multiple of £10.

(b) Secondly, in transferring the balance to the Commissioner of the consolidated sinking fund hereinbefore required to be created for the new debentures, to be held as part of that sinking fund.

CONSOLIDATED SPECIAL RATE.

19. (1) As a security for the new debentures the local authority shall forthwith, by resolution gazetted (in the form numbered (4) in the Second Schedule hereto), make and levy two special rates over the whole of the district of the local authority to provide for the payment of interest, sinking fund, and other charges in respect of the new debentures. One of such special rates shall be made and levied in respect of the conversion of the existing debentures issued by the Thames Borough Council and shall be levied on the unimproved value of all rateable property of the said district, and the other special rate shall be made and levied in respect of the conversion of the existing debentures issued by the Thames Harbour Board and shall be levied on the capital value of all rateable property of the said district:

Provided that both of such rates or so much thereof as is necessary shall continue to be collected until the whole of the new debentures to be issued on conversion are fully paid off.

The provisions of sections twenty-two, twenty-three, and twenty-four of the New Zealand Debt Conversion Act, 1932-33 (relating to the adjustment of premiums as between capital and income and to the powers of trustees and other persons in relation thereto) shall apply with respect to existing debentures converted into new debentures in accordance with this Order in the same way as they apply with respect to securities converted under that Act, save that the references in the said section twenty-two to the first day of April, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three, shall be construed as references to the day following the date of conversion.

PAYMENTS OF COSTS OF CONVERSION.

21. All costs, charges, and expenses incidental to the conversion shall be borne by the local authority.

NOTE.—The drought which commenced on 25th December broke on the night of the 10th. There was a strong north-west gale on the afternoon of the 28th, force 9 on the Beaufort scale being reached.

NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR JANUARY, 1941.

General Notes.—The earlier part of the month was sunny and warm, the latter part unsettled and dull, especially over the North Island. Most districts received warm and beneficial rain, which has largely combated the effect of the drought that commenced at Christmas. Pastures have been refreshed and the decline in dairy production has been arrested. Cereal crops in some cases have suffered from premature ripening but, on the whole, yields are good, with harvesting in the South Island proceeding under ideal conditions.

Rainfall.—Rainfall was in excess over most of the North Island as well as in Nelson Province and in a small area back from Balclutha. Totals amounted to more than double the average around the Bay of Plenty, in northern Taranaki, and in the Nelson-Collingwood district. There was, however, a narrow strip of country between Palmerston North and Taumarunui where totals were on the light side. The centre of the South Island received rather less than the normal rainfall, but the deficits were most marked in North Canterbury, reaching their greatest value in the Culverden district.

Numerous thunderstorms were reported over the southern half of the North Island on the 25th and 26th.

Temperature.—As in December, mean temperatures were above normal generally, the departure being greater to the east than elsewhere. At first, days were very warm and sunny, but there was a cool spell from the 11th to the 16th with a few inland frosts and some light snow on the far southern ranges. Towards the end of the month conditions were mild again and, in the North Island especially, very humid.

Sunshine.—In eastern districts from Hawke's Bay southward sunshine was slightly above average, but it was below on the west coast. Many stations in the Auckland Province had very poor totals.

Weather Sequence.—While pressure remained high over New Zealand the fine, warm spell of the end of December was prolonged throughout the first eight days of January. On the 9th an extensive depression brought heavy rain to Westland, Otago, and Southland, and on the following days rain extended northwards to most districts. After the deepening of a centre on this disturbance near Cook Strait on the 11th south-westerly winds became strong, while thunder and hail occurred on the east coast of the South Island. As winds gradually moderated showers became less frequent until the 15th, when conditions were fair to fine almost generally, with an anticyclone again over New Zealand.

On the 18th a tropical cyclone that had developed near Lord Howe Island moved towards New Zealand. North-easterly winds with unsettled weather then prevailed. The cyclone moved rapidly south-eastward causing heavy rains in and west of the Southern Alps and in Otago. Other cyclonic disturbances followed down the extensive low-pressure trough, and heavy falls were experienced at times over most of the North Island. The last one deepened off the Auckland Peninsula on the 21st and 22nd, and by the 26th it was filling up west of the North Island. On the 27th, however, a new and active cyclone from the west covered most of the Tasman sea and, after crossing New Zealand, was located to the south-east on the 29th. During the end of this period considerable rain fell in and about the Southern Alps. There were south-easterly gales in Taranaki on the 22nd and in Auckland on the 24th, besides northerly gales in Westland and about Cook Strait on the 27th. During the last days rather changeable westerly weather was experienced in most districts, but fine anticyclonic conditions were established once more on the 31st.
