Notice to Mariners No. 2 of 1943.

Marine Department,
 Wellington, N.Z., 18th January, 1943.

(Reprint of Admiralty Notice No. 2175 of 1942.)

CAUTION WITH REGARD TO SINGLE SHIPS APPROACHING SQUADRONS OR AIRCRAFT CARRIERS.

(Former notice No. 7 of 1942 is hereby cancelled.)

1. The attention of shipowners and mariners is called to the danger to all concerned which is caused by single vessels approaching a squadron of warships or merchant vessels in convoy so closely as to involve risk of collision or attempting to pass ahead of or through such a squadron or convoy.

2. Mariners are therefore warned that single vessels should adopt early measures to keep out of the way of a squadron or convoy.

3. The fact that it is the duty of a single vessel to keep out of the way of a squadron or convoy does not entitle vessels so sailing in company to proceed without regard to the movements of the single vessel. Vessels sailing in a squadron or convoy should accordingly keep a careful watch on the movements of any single vessel approaching the squadron or convoy and should be ready, in case the single vessel does not keep out of the way, to take such action as will best aid to avert collision.

4. Attention is also drawn to the uncertainty of the movements of aircraft carriers, which must usually turn into the wind when aircraft are taking off or landing.

NOTE.—This notice is a revision of the former notice quoted above.

NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR DECEMBER, 1942.

General Notes.—December was cool with several windy spells. It was, in the main, a fairly good month, during which a considerable amount of harvesting was completed under favourable conditions. In parts of Hawke's Bay and Manawatu the dryness has been serious. The season has been kept backward in the more southern districts, where the effects of the wind and coldness have been most accentuated.

Rainfall.—Totals were above the December average in a belt extending from Northern Taranaki, through Taupo to Opotiki, also in and west of the Southern Alps, and over most of Canterbury. Over the remainder of the country the rainfall was deficient, especially so in Wanganui, Manawatu, Southern Hawke's Bay, and Gisborne districts. In the last two areas useful rains fell early in the month, but thereafter conditions were very dry.

Temperatures.—In contrast to the mild tendency since last July, the average temperature for New Zealand was appreciably below normal. In the South Island departures were often 2°-3° F., but towards the north-east of the North Island mean temperatures approached or slightly exceeded normal. Light frosts occurring in several districts on the 10th damaged garden growth.

Sunshine was below average in westerly areas from New Plymouth southwards, but over the remainder of the country values were rather better than average.

Weather Sequence.—At the beginning of the month an anticyclone was moving away to the north-east, while a cold front was approaching southern New Zealand. A low-pressure centre formed in the west and strong northerly winds gave place to strong southerlies, and rain became fairly widespread with some snow on the higher ranges. Conditions improved considerably by the 6th with an anticyclone building up west of the North Island. On the 7th and 8th easterlies were strong at times in the north, while westerlies prevailed elsewhere. Scattered drizzle and rain set in over the northern part of the North Island, but unsettled conditions became general and a cold southerly change occurred on the 9th.

An anticyclone extended on to central New Zealand on the 10th and 11th, fresh easterlies in the far north being accompanied by occasional fog or drizzle, but elsewhere westerlies prevailed giving mainly fair weather. On the 12th a trough to the north became more active and there was a period of fairly widespread rain, heaviest in the centre of the North Island, with over 6 in. recorded in the Rotorua area. On the 13th there was a temporary improvement, but a deterioration set in as a cold front crossing New Zealand brought a fresh south-westerly change with showers. An extensive anticyclone in the north gave mainly fair conditions for two days. By the 18th, with a depression developing off Westland, unsettled conditions with considerable rain spread over most of the South Island, flooding occurring in Westland. The anticyclone persisted in the north keeping the weather predominantly fair, but changeable south-westerly conditions were experienced in the south.

During the 24th a vigorous cold front crossed the country, there being considerable rain ahead of it in and west of the high country from Taranaki southwards and a change to strong south-westerlies behind, giving cold weather with occasional showers. Gales were experienced in many districts, but were strongest in Otago and Southland. With a weak high-pressure wedge from the west on the 15th fresh south-westerlies with rather cloudy and cool weather prevailed. A disturbance passed the following day and gave occasional rain, especially in the west and south of the South Island.

An anticyclone followed on the 27th, when fine settled weather became general. On the 29th a cold front reached Southland, south-westerly winds being strong at first in the south but moderate otherwise, and a rapid clearance followed. The final two days were fine and mild with a high-pressure belt crossing New Zealand.
