NOTES ON THE WEATHER DURING MARCH, 1943.

General Notes.—March was, for most of New Zealand, dry, sunny, and cool. The prolonged dry spell has further adversely affected dairy production in the Auckland Province, and the lack of appreciable rain, especially in Auckland, Hawke's Bay, Wairarapa, and Wellington, had made the winter feed outlook very serious. In the more southern districts changeable weather has interrupted harvesting, but pastures and root crops have made good progress.

Rainfall.—North of Westport and Ashburton the deficiency of rainfall has been general. At few places in that region was half the average fall approached. Masterton and several localities in southern Hawke's Bay had no measurable rain whatever during the month. At numerous stations in the North Island the totals were new record low values. It should be noted that the rains setting in from the north at the close of the month later became extensive and gave a fairly general measure of relief. In Westland totals were about normal and in Otago and Southland there was a majority of moderate surpluses.

Temperature.—Mean temperatures were normal in Hawke's Bay but below elsewhere, with departures increasing to 3° F. on parts of the west coast. On several occasions there were light frosts in both Islands.

Sunshine was remarkably good in Nelson and Marlborough and the North Island. Many places had, in contrast to February, the equivalent of one or two hours a day above the average, and several new March records were established. In southern districts values were not greatly different from the average.

Weather Sequence.—At the opening of the month pressure rose in the north while weak disturbances passed in the south. West to south-west winds prevailed with little rain. By the 5th winds were more northerly, and a low-pressure centre, which formed west of the southern Sounds, gave extensive rain in Westland, Otago, and Southland, heaviest falls being near Jackson's Bay. A trough then advanced northwards, strong north-westerlies changing to moderate southerlies, with a short period of rain which became increasingly scattered.

On the 7th a high-pressure belt covered New Zealand; at the same time a tropical cyclone was near Chathams, and, as this moved southwards towards Chatham Islands where it arrived on the 10th, it occasioned some rain in the East Cape area. Elsewhere it was mainly fine until the 10th, when a disturbance, closely followed by a secondary, brought strong south-westerlies with fairly general showers, including hail and snow on the ranges. Christchurch experienced a particularly violent thunderstorm.

An anticyclone was over the Dominion on the 12th, winds moderating and the weather clearing from the west and south. After a weak disturbance, which crossed on the 14th and 15th with only scattered showers, a new anticyclone replaced the old.

A trough on the 18th had strong north-westerlies ahead and fresh south-westerlies behind. Most districts experienced a period of showers. Some scattered hail occurred on the east coast and light snow fell on the tops. An anticyclone soon followed with fine weather general on the 20th.

Weak depressions of the westerly type kept conditions rather unsettled in the south with rain at times in Westland, but scattered falls occasionally extended to Taranaki and Otago. On the 25th a disturbance with a secondary behind crossed the whole country; winds then became more south-westerly, with clearer but cooler weather. An intense anticyclone was over New Zealand on the 27th giving settled conditions.

A trough advanced from the south on the 25th, and a tropical cyclone was approaching Norfolk Island. A clearance followed isolated showers in the south, but with freshening easterlies it clouded over in the extreme north. By the close of the month the Gisborne district had experienced moderate rain and, with the approach of the cyclone, steady rain was setting in over the Auckland Peninsula.

LOWRY BAY WATER AND SEWERAGE SUPPLEMENTARY LOAN, 1942.

"THAT, whereas for the purposes of providing for the payment of principal, interest, and other charges on the Lowry Bay Water and Sewerage Supplementary Loan, 1942, of £500, authorized to be raised by the Hutt County Council under the Local Bodies' Loans Act, 1926, for the purpose of completing the work for which the Lowry Bay Water and Sewerage Loan, 1939, was raised, a resolution was duly passed by the said Council on the 19th day of February, 1943, making and levying a special rate of three one-hundredths of a penny (3/100d.) in the pound upon the rateable value (on the basis of the capital value) of all rateable property of the Lowry Bay Special-rating Area, comprising all that area more particularly described in the resolution of the Hutt County Council making a special rate in relation to the Lowry Bay Water and Sewerage Loan, 1939, gazetted in the New Zealand Gazette No. 59 of the 3rd August, 1939, at page 2122; and that such special rate should be an annual-recurring rate during the currency of the said Lowry Bay Water and Sewerage Supplementary Loan, 1942, and be payable yearly on the first day of August in each and every year during the currency of such loan, being a period of fifteen years or until the loan should be fully paid off:

"And where it has been ascertained that the said special rate of three one-hundredths of a penny (3/100d.) in the pound will not be sufficient to meet such principal, interest, and other charges:
