NOTE.—At stations where departures from normal are in parentheses the record has been maintained for less than ten years in the case of temperatures and for less than twenty years in the case of rainfall and the normals are partly interpolated.

NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR MARCH, 1948

General.—March was a warm, sunny, and rather windy month. It was the fifth successive dry month in the Rangitikei-Manawatu and Wairarapa districts, where lack of feed and water for stock is causing serious concern. Over much of Canterbury, too, there is likely to be a serious shortage of winter feed. Timely rains in the middle of the month relieved the situation in Hawke's Bay and Gisborne, but in South Auckland the flush of growth which followed caused an outbreak of facial eczema, where precautions were not taken to keep stock off the new grass.

Rainfall.—In the eastern part of the Coromandel Peninsula the rainfall was over twice the average amount, 7.30 in. being recorded at Tairua on the 13th. Totals were slightly above normal about and north of Auckland City, near New Plymouth, from Gisborne to East Cape, on the West Coast, and in Otago (excluding South Otago). Over the greater part of the country the rainfall was below average, highest deficiencies occurring in North Canterbury, Banks Peninsula, and North Wairarapa. In the latter area the total rainfall since the beginning of last November has been less than for any other period of five consecutive months since records commenced fifty years ago. Thunderstorms were widespread in Otago and Southland on the 5th, and on the West Coast on the 7th, 8th, 9th, and 29th.

Temperatures.—In the North Island, mean temperatures were two to three degrees above average. On the West Coast they differed little from the average, but over the remainder of the South Island departures were also positive and of the order of one to two degrees.

Sunshine.—The duration of sunshine was slightly below the average in western and northern portions of the North Island; other districts had a surplus, which was greatest to the east of the main ranges. Timaru had the equivalent of almost two hours a day more sunshine than the average for March.

Weather Sequence.—Temperatures were high at the beginning of the month, as an anticyclone moved off to the east. A cold front associated with a deep depression in the south brought brief rain to western districts. Backing westerly, winds were strong for a time in the South Island, but soon decreased with the arrival of an anticyclone from the Tasman Sea.

On the 5th a shallow depression moved slowly past Southland. Its cold front, like its predecessor, failed to carry rain to districts east of the North Island's ranges, but produced some heavy thunderstorms in Otago.

There was a predominance of strong westerly winds from the 7th to the 11th, while a series of deep depressions was passing in the south. Several westerly troughs brought periods of heavy rain to western and southern districts of the South Island; elsewhere little or no rain fell. Temperatures became somewhat cooler on the 9th.

Fine weather became general over the South Island on the 12th, but a weak frontal system advancing slowly north-eastwards over the North Island intensified considerably, giving widespread rain north of the Manawatu. With the approach of a tropical cyclone the rains retreated southwards again as far as Nelson and North Canterbury. Easterlies rose to gale force, and heavy falls were experienced in exposed parts of the Auckland and Coromandel Peninsulas. After passing just east of Russell during the morning of the 16th, the cyclone crossed the Chatham Islands twenty-four hours later. Meanwhile the weather cleared rapidly over the Dominion, as an anticyclone advanced from the west. On the 19th this anticyclone had two centres, one on either side of the North Island. Within the intervening trough, rain became widespread for a time over the south-eastern part of the Auckland Province.

Cooler temperatures and a band of heavy rain followed behind the vigorous cold front of the 20th, although only a few scattered showers penetrated to Hawke's Bay and Gisborne.

The next anticyclone made only very slow progress across the Tasman Sea, pressures remaining very low to the south of New Zealand. Showery south-westerly conditions prevailed, two secondary cold fronts crossing the country on the 22nd and 23rd.

While the centre of the anticyclone was crossing the North Island on the 25th the weather was fine generally except for fog, which developed at night in the South Island.

North-easterlies began to freshen in the north early on the 27th, when a vigorous tropical cyclone was lying midway between Norfolk and Lord Howe Islands. Travelling south-eastwards at about forty miles per hour the centre passed across South Canterbury on the morning of the 28th. Northerlies had risen to strong gale force in places, especially about Nelson and Cook Strait. Rain was widespread but, due to the rapid movement of the storm, was of relatively short duration. The rains failed to reach Hawke's Bay or the Wairarapa.

On the 29th north-westerlies remained strong south of Taranaki, and frequent heavy showers with occasional thunder continued on the West Coast, the weather having cleared elsewhere. Next morning widespread fogs were reported from the Auckland Province, while cool southerlies were advancing northwards on to the North Island as an anticyclone extended on to Otago from the west. With the slow development of a depression in the north, south-easterly winds became strong over much of the North Island, and rain spread over the Auckland Province. Some heavy falls were reported near Auckland City on the 31st.

ENGINEERS REGISTRATION BOARD OF NEW ZEALAND

LIST OF REGISTERED ENGINEERS AS AT 8TH APRIL, 1948, AND EXPIRING 31ST MARCH, 1949

Explanation

The list is in two parts as follows:—

Part A.—Giving those registered by examination or by "recognized certificate" under one of the following subsections of the 1924 Act:—

- 6 (i) a.—Registration by virtue of holding a "recognized certificate" in the form of a Diploma of Corporate Membership of one of the British Institutions of Civil, Electrical, or Mechanical Engineers, and of having had not less than three years' experience in the practice of engineering.
- 6 (i) c.—Registration by virtue of a pass in examinations approved by the Board (being the full associated membership examinations of one of the British Institutions of Civil, Electrical, or Mechanical Engineers, or equivalent exempting examinations), and also of having had not less than three years' experience in the practice of engineering.

Part B.—Giving those registered under one of the following subsections, now expired, of the 1924 Act or amendments:—

- 6 (i) b of the 1924 Act, which provided for registration during the first period of operation of the 1924 Act of a person who had then attained the age of twenty-five years and had been engaged during a period of not less than six years before the commencement of the Act in the acquisition of professional knowledge, or in the practice of engineering in a manner satisfactory to the Board, and who made application for registration within twelve months after the commencement of the Act.
- 2 (i) of the 1928 amendment, which in effect re-enacted clause 6 (i) b of the 1924 Act with respect to any licensed surveyor in New Zealand who satisfied the Board that he had prior to the coming into operation of the 1924 Act substantial practical experience in engineering as part of his practice or employment whether on his own account or otherwise, and who made application for registration within six months of the passing of the amendment: Indicated by † in Column 3.

Section 7 of the 1944 amendment, which provided for the registration of engineers who, within the twelve years prior to the passing of the amendment, had had six years responsible engineering practice, or substantially equivalent experience, in local authority work, and who applied within six months of the passing of the amendment. Provision is made for special consideration to discharged servicemen who apply within six months of their discharge: *Indicated by * in Column 3.*

Particulars in the lists as entered under each column are as follows:—

Column 1.—This contains the name of each engineer who at the date of the list is the holder of an Annual Practising Certificate issued under section 3 of the 1944 Amendment Act. An engineer who has been registered is required to hold a current Annual Practising Certificate in order to retain the full rights of registration. The qualifications, involving University degrees and recognized certificates or approved examinations, are taken from the person's application for Practising Certificate and have not been verified or checked against the person's registered particulars.

Column 2.—This gives the postal address, either business or residential, as on the application for Annual Practising Certificate.

Column 3.—This shows the date of original registration.

Column 4.—This shows the class of engineering in which the Board has accepted the engineer's training and experience as a qualification for registration. Engineering is classified only in the three main branches of Civil, Electrical, and Mechanical. Where an engineer has not satisfied the Board's requirements for qualification in one of these main branches, the restrictive or specialist class in which he is accepted is shown.

It is also to be noted that corporate membership of one of the recognized British Engineering Institutions entitles the holder to be styled as a "Chartered Engineer," but this information is omitted from the list.
