†Observations for 24 days.

NOTE—At stations where departures from normal have an asterisk, the temperature record has been maintained for less than ten years, the rainfall record for less than twenty years. Rainfall normals have been revised and now refer to the standard period 1921–50. Where observations are not available for the whole period, or where the site of the rain gauge has been changed, the normals are partly interpolated.

NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR DECEMBER 1956

General: December was a month of unsettled weather. Shearing and haymaking, which were held up in November, were even further delayed. Growth was generally good, but in some western districts of the North Island it has not been a favourable season for sheep, partly owing to blowfly attacks. In the Auckland Province the fruit crop has been adversely affected by excessive rain in previous seasons, especially the winter.

A small local tornado caused some damage in western suburbs of Auckland in the early morning of the 12th.

Rainfall: In the North Island rainfall was above normal except in the southern part of the Wellington Province and about Whangarei. Totals were doubled in eastern districts from Castlepoint to Tokomaru Bay and also in the Wanganui-Rangitikei-Manawatu area.

In the South Island it was wetter than usual in most eastern districts north of Dunedin and also in Central Otago.

Thunderstorms with hail were widespread in eastern districts on the 1st and 2nd and again on the 23rd. On both occasions the hail was heavy enough to cause damage to crops in some areas, especially in North Canterbury on the 23rd, when a few of the hailstones were reported to have been 2 in. across.

Temperatures: Temperatures were more than a degree above normal in coastal districts of Southland, Otago, and Westland, also about Cook Strait and in the Napier-Whakatane-Gisborne area.

A fall of snow occurred on the high country of Southland and Central Otago on the 1st.

Sunshine: Except in western and northern districts of the North Island, sunshine was below normal. As in the previous month, the deficiency was greatest in Central Otago, amounting to over 40 hours.

Weather Sequence: A vigorous cold front crossed the country on the 1st, accompanied by a period of precipitation. Parts of Southland and Otago received some snow, while in Canterbury and in Nelson Province there were thunderstorms with hail. Showery conditions persisted on the following day, with thunder and hail in parts of the North Island.

From the 3rd to the 9th was a period of settled weather, with an anticyclone at first over the North Island and later over the whole country. However, South Westland and Fiordland received considerable rain on the 5th owing to the passage of a depression far to the south.

The weather deteriorated in western and far southern districts on the 10th as a trough moved on to Southland, and on the following day rain became general. A depression soon formed over the North Island and as it moved slowly eastward on the 12th and 13th heavy rain fell in Hawke's Bay, Wairarapa, and Wanganui. On the 14th there was a temporary improvement under the influence of a weak ridge of high pressure. However, during the next two days rain spread over the country, especially the North Island, from the west with the advance of a depression over the Central Tasman Sea. There were some heavy falls in Gisborne and Hawke's Bay during the passage of this depression across the North Island on the 17th and 18th, but the weather cleared in the west and south. A few showers still persisted in eastern areas of the North Island as the depression moved away on the 19th.

From the 20th to the 25th pressures were high to the north and low to the south and south-west. Rain affected western and at times far southern districts of the South Island. Elsewhere the weather was fair except on the 23rd, when a vigorous trough crossed the country accompanied by rain, with thunderstorms and hail in eastern districts from Otago to Wairarapa.

On the 26th and 27th there was general rain with the passage of a complex trough, and showers persisted in some districts on the following day. For the last three days of the year pressures were again high to the north and very low to the south, and another trough crossed the country. North-westerly winds exceeded gale force at times, especially about Cook Strait on the 30th, and the weather was generally unsettled, with thunderstorms from Manawatu to Auckland early on the 31st.

The following is a summary of the subject matters of objections received by the Council from the Minister of Works:

Objection 1—Objection is made to the ordinance relating to minimum site area and frontage of building sites (see clause 21) in that subclause 1 (a), as amended by paragraph 4 of the Tokoroa (Matamata County) Extra-Urban Planning Scheme No. 2, prescribes a minimum subdivisional standard of 2 acres and 132 ft. frontage for rural districts. In order to prevent ribbon development and the urbanisation of the rural zone, the said subclause should be further amended by deleting the words "2 acres" and "132 ft." and by substituting therefor the words "5 acres" and "264 ft." respectively; and also by adding as proviso (iii) the following subordination from the Fourth Schedule to the Town and Country Planning Regulations 1954:

"(iii) Notwithstanding the provisions of this subclause, the Council may permit the subdivision of land in a rural district so as to produce an allotment of less than the minimum area and frontage herein prescribed if the applicant satisfies the Council either that the lesser area can be used as an independent economic farming unit, or that the lesser area is appropriate to the proposed use and approval thereof is necessary to avoid undue hardship:

"Provided that no such subdivision shall be permitted if it is likely to cause demand to be made on the Council or any other local authority for an extension, which is not in the economic interest of the region, of any public service, or to cause existing or proposed public services to be uneconomically used; or if it is likely to lead to any obstruction to or other interference with the free movement of traffic on State highways or main highways or important traffic routes."

Objection 2—Objection is made to the ordinance governing the permitted uses in rural districts (see clause 23) in that subclause (a) makes no provision governing the siting of dwelling houses in relation to industrial undertakings. This subclause should be deleted and replaced by the following subordination from the Fourth Schedule to the Town and Country Planning Regulations 1954:

"(i) Farming of any kind, racing stables, veterinary hospitals, and boarding kennels, excepting the housing or keeping of animals in any buildings or enclosure within 55 ft. from any residential building or less than 40 ft. from any boundary of the site:

"(ii) Parks, playgrounds, recreation grounds, and scenic reserves:

"(iii) Churches:

"(iv) Buildings accessory to buildings or to use of land for any of the foregoing purposes, including dwelling houses, except in any position in relation to any mill, factory, plant, or workings that would or might, in the opinion of the Council, prejudice the health or safety of the occupiers thereof."

Objection 3—Objection is made to the failure of the district planning map to show a continuation of reserve strips on both sides of Maraetai Road throughout the full extent of the area zoned for residential or any other urban use, in order to prevent Maraetai Road (which carries a heavy volume of traffic) from being used for frontage development and unlimited private access.

Objection 4—Objection is made to the failure of the district planning map to show:

(a) The sites of all schools, existing and proposed;

(b) The site owned by the Waikato Hospital Board as "proposed hospital";

(c) The airstrip at Kinleith as "private airfield".

by means of the appropriate notations set out in Part II of the Second Schedule to the Town and Country Planning Regulations 1954.

Objection 5—Objection is made to the lack of adequate provision for the establishment of public utilities and it is therefore requested that clause 22 be renumbered 22 (1) and that the following subordination from the Fourth Schedule to the Town and Country Planning Regulations 1954 be added as clause 22 (2):

"(2) Provision for Public Utilities—Where any public authority is authorised by statute or otherwise to determine the precise location within the district of the public utilities under its control without approval of the Council, every such public utility shall be deemed to be a predominant use in every zone; but every other public utility shall be deemed to be a conditional use in every zone."

For the Matamata County Council—

J. A. BECK, County Clerk.
