Explanation

Column 1—This contains the name of each valuer who at 31 March 1959 is the holder of an Annual Practising Certificate issued under section 35 of the Valuers' Act 1948. A valuer who is registered and makes valuations for members of the public is required to hold a current Annual Practising Certificate in order to retain the full rights of registration.

Column 3—This shows the classification under which the Board has accepted the valuer's qualifications for registration. Valuing is classified only in the three main branches of rural, urban, or rural and urban. These classifications are outlined in section 20 of the Valuers' Act 1948 as follows:

"(1) Every person entitled to be registered as a valuer under this Act whom the Board considers competent to value farm land only shall be registered as a rural valuer.

"(2) Every person so entitled whom the Board considers competent to value only land other than farm land shall be registered as an urban valuer.

"(3) Every person so entitled whom the Board considers competent to value both farm land and other land shall be entitled to be registered as both a rural valuer and an urban valuer."

Column 4—This indicates the subsection of section 19 of the Valuers' Act 1948, under which the valuer has been registered. These subsections are:

"19 (1) Every person who has attained the age of twenty-five years and who immediately before the commencement of this Act was a member of the New Zealand Institute of Valuers (Incorporated) shall be entitled to be registered under this Act if he makes application for registration within three months after the commencement of this Act, and satisfies the Board that he is of good character and reputation and has not less than three years' practical experience in New Zealand in the valuing of land.

"(2) Every other person who has attained the age of twenty-five years shall be entitled to be registered under this Act if he satisfies the Board that he is of good character and reputation and:

"(a) That he holds a recognised certificate as defined in the next succeeding subsection and has had not less than three years' practical experience in New Zealand in the valuing of land within the ten years immediately preceding the making of his application; or

"(b) That he has passed an examination or examinations approved by the Board and has had not less than three years' practical experience in New Zealand in the valuing of land within the ten years immediately preceding the making of his application;

"Provided that the Board shall permit the registration of any other person who has attained the age of twenty-five years and who makes application for registration within one year after the commencement of this Act, and who satisfies the Board that he is of good character and reputation, that he has had three years' practical experience in New Zealand in the valuing of land within the ten years immediately preceding the making of his application, and is a fit and proper person to be registered as a valuer.

"(3) For the purpose of this section the term 'a recognised certificate' means a certificate, diploma, degree, or licence granted by a university, college, board, or other authority (whether in New Zealand or elsewhere) and recognised by the Board as furnishing sufficient evidence of the possession by the holder thereof of the requisite knowledge of land valuing."

NOTE—At stations where departures from normal have an asterisk, the temperature record has been maintained for less than 10 years, the rainfall record for less than 20 years. Rainfall normals have been revised and now refer to the standard period 1921-50. Where observations are not available for the whole period, or where the site of the rain gauge has been changed, the normals are partly interpolated.

NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR MARCH 1959

General: March was a warm month. Good rains in the middle of the month provided some relief for the dried-up pastures of Marlborough and Nelson, but more rain would still be very welcome in these areas. Elsewhere, stock were mainly in good condition, except for lambs which were still being adversely affected by the moist conditions in the North Island.

A tropical cyclone which passed close to North Cape on the evening of the 14th caused widespread damage over the northern half of Northland. At Cape Reinga lighthouse the barometer fell to 963 millibars—the lowest ever recorded in the North Island. Winds from the north-east reached hurricane force, and a gust of 110 m.p.h. was recorded at Kaitaia Aerodrome. Many buildings, including five churches and three halls, were destroyed by the wind, and power and telephone services were completely disrupted over a wide area. In the Kerikeri district much of the tree-tomato and citrus crop was destroyed.

Rainfall: Rainfall was close to average over the greater part of the country. However, over most of Northland and Coromandel and in the Christchurch-Ashburton area it was double the usual value. On the other hand, Otago and Southland received only half the normal rainfall.

From Whangarei northward three-quarters of the total rain fell from the 12th to the 17th.

Temperatures: In the North Island and in northern and western districts of the South Island temperatures were warmer than usual by 1-3 degrees. Over the remainder of the South Island temperatures were close to normal.

Sunshine: Over the greater part of the country sunshine was below average by about 30 hours. However, western and southern districts of the South Island were favoured with more sun than usual by a similar amount; and in western districts of the Wellington Province sunshine was close to normal.

Weather Sequence: On the 1st there was scattered light rain, mainly in eastern districts from Kaikoura to Coromandel, associated with the passage of a weak trough. On the following day an anticyclone brought fine weather. Conditions deteriorated again in eastern districts with some light rain as another trough moved northwards over the country on the 3rd and 4th. This trough became slow-moving over the Auckland Province for the next three days, with considerable rain.

From the 8th to the 12th a deep depression moved past western Southland to the vicinity of Macquarie Island and later travelled south-eastward. This was a period of unsettled weather for the West Coast with frequent rain. On the 8th and 9th the Bay of Plenty and Nelson also received some rain in the northerly airstream, and on the 11th and 12th the unsettled weather became general with the passage of a trough over the country.

From the 13th to the 18th the weather north of Christchurch was dominated by an intense tropical cyclone. This cyclone was centred near New Caledonia on the 13th, and it moved rapidly south-eastward to a position north of Cape Reinga. It recurved towards the south-west on the afternoon of the 14th and passed close to northern Northland, which was devastated by north-easterly winds of hurricane force. The cyclone soon became merged in another deep depression over the North Tasman Sea, and north-easterly winds continued for several days, with rain especially in the Auckland Province, north Taranaki, and northern and western districts of the South Island. On the 17th and 18th the depression crossed the North Island, and in the resulting south-westerly change Canterbury and Otago also received some rain.

From the 19th to the 22nd the weather was mainly fair or fine, under the influence of an anticyclone at first over the Tasman Sea and later over New Zealand. A few showers were reported in the west and south of the South Island on the 19th and in Northland on the 22nd.

From the 23rd to the 25th a depression passed far to the south and the associated trough of low pressure moved over most of the country. There was some further rain on the West Coast, and later some light falls were recorded in eastern districts as far north as Gisborne. The trough became stationary in the far north, where rain fell intermittently for the next three days as it slowly lost intensity. Another trough which passed over on the 29th and 30th brought a southerly change, with cooler temperatures and some rain in most districts. However, on the last day of the month the weather was generally fair or fine under the influence of a large anticyclone.
