NOTE—At stations where departures from normal have an asterisk, the temperature record has been maintained for less than 10 years, the rainfall record for less than 20 years. Rainfall normals have been revised and now refer to the standard period 1921-50. Where observations are not available for the whole period, or where the site of the rain gauge has been changed, the normals are partly interpolated.

NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR DECEMBER 1963

General: December was a dry, windy month over the greater part of the country. In Northland it was the third successive month of dry weather and in many areas pasture growth was poor, with declining dairy production. Conditions were also very dry in Nelson and Marlborough.

Some sheep were lost in Canterbury due to heavy rain with cold temperatures on the 20th.

Rainfall: Over the greater part of the country rainfall was less than three-quarters of the average value. The greatest deficits were recorded in Marlborough and Nelson.

By contrast, on the East Coast rainfall was two to five times the average value. It was also somewhat above average in Bay of Plenty and eastern Waikato, Northern and Central Hawke's Bay; and on Banks Peninsula and the North Canterbury coast. On Banks Peninsula and about Christchurch some exceptionally heavy falls were reported on the 20th - over 6 in. at Lyttelton, and 14 in. at Pigeon Bay. Flooding occurred in some of these areas.

Temperatures: Temperatures were more than 2 degrees below average in South Otago and Southland, and also in some inland parts of North Canterbury and Marlborough. Elsewhere they were mainly a degree cooler than average, except over most of the Auckland Province, where they were close to normal.

Sunshine: Sunshine was above average in eastern and northern districts of the South Island and also in North Taranaki, mainly by 20-40 hours. New Plymouth and Nelson were particularly favoured, with a surplus of more than 50 hours. By contrast, Gisborne and parts of Hawke's Bay had 30-40 hours below normal; and most of Southland had 20-25 hours below normal.

Weather Sequence: A small depression which had been over Northland at the end of November persisted there initially in December. During the first two days a trough of low pressure crossed the country, followed later by a southerly change with cooler temperatures. Rain was reported in most districts.

A spell of settled weather followed from the 3rd to the 6th as a belt of high pressure moved across New Zealand; but Fiordland and Bay of Plenty received some rain at first. For most of the country the settled weather persisted for another five days. However, a depression to the north caused rain in Northland and eastern districts of the North Island as it moved down the east coast; while a trough to the south caused rain at times in Fiordland on the Southland coast, and in parts of Canterbury and Otago.

A trough which crossed the South Island on the 12th and 13th was accompanied by rain, except inland and in Marlborough and Nelson. During the next three days the trough was almost stationary over the North Island, with some rain in most districts. There were considerable falls in Bay of Plenty.

During the 17th and 18th another trough of low pressure moved rapidly over the South Island to become stationary over the North Island, and a depression developed on it and moved on to Northland. Many districts received some rain. However, the rain became more general during the 19th and 20th with a deep depression to the east and a cold front crossing the country. Very heavy rain fell around Christchurch, and there were considerable falls also in Bay of Plenty, Waikato, and Northland.

For the next four days pressures remained low to the east, with south-westerly winds over New Zealand. Showers were reported in some districts, mainly light. A ridge of high pressure brought mainly fair weather on Christmas Day.

For the last six days of the month westerly conditions predominated, with pressures very low to the south and high to the north. The West Coast and Taranaki received considerable rain, and many other districts reported some rain. However, the weather was mainly fair on the 27th and 28th, under the influence of an anticyclone over the North Tasman Sea.

CHARITABLE TRUSTS ACT 1957

THE MASSEY MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Application Under Sections 33 and 35 of the Charitable Trusts Act 1957

PLEASE take notice that on Wednesday, the 18th day of March 1964, the trustees of the Massey Memorial Scholarship Fund will make application at the Supreme Courthouse, Auckland, to a Judge of the Supreme Court for approval of a scheme whereby the powers of the trustees of the fund would be extended and varied and a varied mode of administration of the fund would be prescribed.

The fund is at present administered under the terms of a Trust Deed dated the 3rd day of February 1930 and the terms of that Deed are now so completely out of touch with present day conditions that the administration of the fund has become impossible and impracticable and inexpedient.

The scheme which the trustees have submitted for approval would allow for the award of scholarships to senior pupils of the Pukekohe High School, who are carrying on to University or Agricultural College or similar institution to study one or more of the following subjects, namely, agriculture, horticulture, forestry, plant breeding, veterinary surgery, or any other subject closely allied with agriculture. The applicants would be considered on the following grounds; ability, character, personal circumstances, examination results, proposed course of studies, and potential value of the award to the agricultural industry of New Zealand.

And further, take notice that the application that has been filed by the trustees and the scheme that they seek to have approved and the report on such scheme by the Attorney-General are all open for inspection by the public at the Supreme Courthouse in Auckland, free of charge.

And further, take notice that any person may appear at the Supreme Court, Auckland, on the above date to oppose the trustees' application and that if any person desires so to appear in opposition to the proposed scheme he or she must give written notice of his or her intention so to do to the Registrar of the Supreme Court and to the trustees, care of their Solicitors, Messrs Grierson, Jackson, and Partners, 9 Queen Street, Auckland, and to the Attorney-General, care of the Crown Law Office, Wellington, not later than the 10th day of March 1964.

THE MINING ACT 1926

The application will be heard on Wednesday, the 12th day of February 1964, at 10 a.m., at the Warden's Court at Cromwell, and all objections thereto must be filed in the registrar's office and notified to the applicant whose address for service is at the offices of Messrs Stevens Gilbert, and Co Solicitors, M.L.C. Building, Princes Street, Dunedin, at least three days before the said date of hearing.
