(8) Vacancies on the council however caused shall be filled from such members as will maintain the proportional representation as set out in Rule (1) hereof.

(9) Where any councillor, delegate, or deputy delegate ceases to have his permanent and principal or only place of residence within the district then, unless he sooner vacates his office, he shall resign from the council forthwith.

(10) In the event of any councillor dying, resigning, or vacating his office an extraordinary vacancy shall be deemed to have occurred and the council may appoint to the vacancy any member of the Society who is available and eligible. Such appointee shall hold office for the balance of the term of his predecessor.

(11) A member of the council shall vacate his office if he has absented himself from three consecutive meetings of the council without leave of absence having been granted by the council.

(12) An elected member or a member appointed to fill a vacancy under subclause (10) of this rule shall vacate his office if he ceases to be a member of the Society.

ELECTION OF COUNCIL

9. The election of councillors shall be by postal ballot conducted in the following manner:

(a) In each year in which vacancies will occur on the council due to the expiry of the term of office of a councillor or councillors, the Secretary shall not less than four months beforehand advise members of such vacancies and call for nominations either by circular or by advertisement in daily papers circulating in the district or districts where the vacancies will occur.

(b) Nominations for office shall be in writing signed by a proposer and seconder and carrying a written acceptance by the nominee. All these such persons shall be members of the Society. Nominations shall indicate the area which it is intended the nominee should represent if elected and shall be in the hands of the Secretary on the date nominated by him in his advice to members and in no event less than 10 weeks before the annual general meeting.

(c) Not less than 21 clear days before the date of the annual general meeting the Secretary shall forward to each member a ballot paper containing the names of the nominees for office, their addresses and occupations, and the area which they seek to represent. The ballot paper shall contain clear instructions on how to vote and state that the voting papers are returnable to the Secretary on or before a specified date, which shall in each case be fixed by the council. The instructions on how to vote shall always include the following:

"Each member shall leave uncanceled the name of any candidate for whom he desires to vote and shall strike out the name of any candidate for whom he does not desire to vote. Each member shall vote for the full number of candidates required to fill all vacancies from each area and any voting paper failing to comply with these requirements shall be invalid."

(d) Any ballot paper received by the Secretary after the specified date shall be marked with particulars of the date and time of receipt and signed by the Secretary. Such papers shall be disregarded in counting the ballot and may be destroyed one month after the annual general meeting.

(e) On receipt of the duly completed ballot papers (other than those mentioned in clause (d) hereof) the Secretary shall deliver them unopened to the scrutineers appointed by the council and shall receive from them a receipt for the total number of ballot papers delivered. The scrutineers shall then in the presence of each other count the ballot and deliver to the Secretary, immediately before the opening of the annual general meeting, a certificate signed by each of them disclosing the result of the ballot and shall at the same time hand over to the Secretary under sealed cover all the ballot papers. The ballot papers may be destroyed one month after the annual general meeting.

(f) The chairman of the meeting shall, immediately following the adoption of the Annual Report and Balance Sheet, read out the names of the members successful in the ballot and declare them elected to the council for the prescribed period of office.

10. If the number of nominations for a council does not come up to the number required for any area to be represented by a councillor or councillors, the chairman at the annual general meeting shall first declare those duly nominated to be elected as members of the council and the annual general meeting shall then have power first to elect a member or members from the areas in which a vacancy or vacancies exist. Provided that if no such qualified member or members are available then the annual general meeting shall elect the member or members already duly nominated and next on the list at the said election, irrespective of the area in which the said member or members so nominated reside. Failing the election of any such member or members, then and in such case only the annual general meeting shall elect any member or members of the Society to fill such vacancy or vacancies.

The Indecent Publications Act 1963

THE Indecent Publications Tribunal having considered the application of the Comptroller of Customs in respect of the books, namely, two novels by Guillaume Apollinaire—The Debauched Hospodar and Memoirs of a Young Rakehell, and also of Justine by de Sade, has classified the said two novels as indecent unless circulation is restricted to persons professionally engaged in the study of abnormal psychology, who desire to use them for that purpose. The said book Justine is classified as indecent unless its circulation is restricted to psychologists or psychiatrists or any adult bona fide student of literature or philosophy.

Dated this 24th day of February 1965.

E. M. SMITH, Secretary.

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963 and in the matter of a Reference from the Magistrate's Court at Wellington for a decision regarding certain books, namely, two novels by Guillaume Apollinaire—The Debauched Hospodar and Memoirs of a Young Rakehell, and also of Justine by de Sade.

DECISION AND REPORT

THE tribunal has been called upon to classify two books, each a translation into English from the French in which they were originally written. One book comprises two novels by Guillaume Apollinaire, the other a translation of de Sade's Justine, the copy before the tribunal being somewhat defective.

The books had been imported by Mr D. W. Cheer, of Christchurch, and had been detained by the Comptroller of Customs who claimed them to be forfeited under the provisions of the Customs Act 1913 as "Prohibited Imports" being—it was claimed—indecent articles. In accordance with the provisions of the Act, proceedings for condemnation had been instituted by the comptroller before a Magistrate who had, as required by section 12 of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, referred to the tribunal for determination the question whether the books were indecent within the meaning of the Act, or indecent in the hands of persons under a specified age, or indecent unless circulation was restricted to specified persons or classes of persons.

Counsel for the importer made submissions at some length claiming that even if a ban on the books being allowed to go into general circulation was warranted, the particular individual who had sought to import them was to be regarded as being within a class to which such a restriction was not appropriate. He himself was called to give evidence as to his purpose in seeking to acquire the books and was permitted to address the tribunal and to express his view of the value of the books to a student of literature. He deposed to being a collector of all sorts of books, and to having a library of from 5,000 to 6,000 books. We accept that, as a student of literature, he is a keen collector of all sorts of books, but our function is to decide in respect of each book submitted to us whether it is indecent, or whether it is indecent unless circulation is restricted to specific persons or classes of persons.

As regards the two novels by Guillaume Apollinaire, the content of each is vile and revolting both as to the episodes related and the language used to describe them. But it was argued they should be judged by reference to the personality of the author. He was a French writer who was born in 1880 and died in 1918. He wrote a great deal including some poetry which it was claimed had merit and was not erotic in character. Counsel represented him as the "bright light" of literary Paris in his day, who had, it was said, rediscovered de Sade for his own era. He had, it would seem, a great admiration for de Sade and published a bibliography of de Sade. It may be that the foulness of the two novels was an attempt on his part to "out do" de Sade in his effort to suggest the extremes to which human beings might descend.

These two stories are undoubtedly obscene and in our opinion have no merit, literary or other. They could not properly be permitted to go into general circulation. But there is some force in the contention that the book should not be denied to persons bona fide engaged in the study of abnormal psychology and though we condemn the book as indecent, we make a reservation—in terms of the statute—except in the hands of persons professionally engaged in the study of abnormal psychology. Whether any particular individual comes within that category is a question of fact which we are not called upon to decide. Accordingly, in terms of section 10 (b) of the Statute we classify the translation of the two novels written by Guillaume Apollinaire as indecent unless circulation is restricted to persons professionally engaged in the study of abnormal psychology, who desire to use them for that purpose. We so report.

De Sade's Justine is in quite another category. It is a well known work written about 1787 whilst the author was in the Bastille. He was born in 1740 and died in prison in 1814. It is said that Justine's narrative, which relates many sexual excesses and cruelties, is a representation of de Sade's own character as depicting his disgust at conditions prevailing. It must be conceded that it is a seriously written work, somewhat philosophic in character and though the episodes related are revolting the language used to describe them is not foul or offensive. Although as narrative, the book is indecent it is one which may reasonably be allowed to be available to psychologists or psychiatrists or to any adult bona fide student of literature or philosophy. It should too be available to any library controlled by a public or professional body on terms that it be issued only to such persons as have been enumerated above. We accordingly classify it as indecent unless its circulation is restricted to psychologists or psychiatrists or any adult bona fide student of literature or philosophy. We so report.

We make no order as to costs.

K. M. GRESSON, Chairman.

THE CHARITABLE TRUSTS ACT 1957

APPLICATION FOR ALTERATION OF A TRUST

IN the matter of the Charitable Trusts Act 1957, notice is hereby given, as required by section 36 of the Charitable Trusts Act 1957, that the Presbyterian Church Property Trustees (hereinafter called "the applicant") have applied to the Supreme Court at Auckland seeking approval for the alteration of a trust as follows:

The applicant holds a piece of freehold land in Titirangi, Auckland, a legal description of which is part Lot 6, D.P. 10374 (Town of New Lynn, Extension 69), being portion Allotment 46, Parish of Waikomiti, certificates of title, Volume 842, folio 262, 263, North Auckland Registry. (Area of land: 3 roods 16·8 perches) (hereinafter called "the land"), together with a dwellinghouse erected thereon on a trust created by the will of the late Margaret McFarlane (deceased), of Titirangi.

Briefly, the trust provided that the dwellinghouse and its contents was to be used to provide a rest home in New Zealand for sick and fatigued ministers, home missionaries, deaconesses and/or social workers of the Presbyterian Church. A Presbyterian Church could be erected on the land and the dwellinghouse used to provide a manse for the minister of the parish, but in this case a replacement rest home was to be built on the land. The residue of the trust was to be used to maintain the rest home.

The applicants wish to use the land for the purposes of building a Presbyterian Church for the Titirangi Parish and the dwellinghouse for the manse of the minister. It is proposed to delete all reference to the rest home on the grounds that it is impractical and inexpedient to provide such a rest home and there are insufficient funds to administer such a rest home and in addition such a rest home is already in existence. The residue of the trust is to be used to provide an endowment fund for the Bayswater Missionary Manse.

Details of the application, the scheme, and the Attorney-General's report thereon are open for inspection by the public, without fee or charge, at the office of the Registrar, Supreme Court, Waterloo Quadrant, Auckland.

The application seeking approval of the aforesaid scheme will be heard in the Supreme Court, at Auckland, on the 12th day of April 1965, at 10 a.m. or so soon thereafter as counsel can be heard.

Any person desiring to oppose the aforesaid scheme shall give written notice of his intentions to do so to the Registrar of the Supreme Court at Auckland as aforesaid, and to the applicant, care of Messrs Buddle, Weir, and Co., Fourth Floor, A.M.P. Building, Queen Street, Auckland, and to the Attorney-General, Wellington, not less than seven clear days before the aforesaid date of hearing.
