NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR MARCH 1966

General: March was warmer than usual, with an unusually high frequency of northerly to easterly winds. The two main wet periods were at the beginning and end of the month. Between these two periods many areas experienced two or three weeks of settled weather, which proved useful for harvesting. Generally pasture growth was reported to be very good, as in previous months.

Rainfall: Rainfall was mainly about 50 per cent above average in northern districts of the North Island and in eastern districts of both islands. In southern districts of the North Island, in the Marlborough Sounds and in western and most inland districts of the South Island rainfall was below average, mainly by 25 to 50 per cent.

Temperatures: Temperatures were mainly above average by 1-3 degrees, highest departures being in Taranaki and in some inland districts of the South Island. New Plymouth had its warmest March since 1938. However, in Gisborne and Hawke's Bay temperatures were only about average.

Sunshine: Sunshine was above average by 30-70 hours in western districts of the North Island from Auckland to Wellington, largest surpluses being in Manawatu and Waikato. Elsewhere sunshine was fairly close to the average value. However, in Gisborne sunshine was down by 30-50 hours; while over the coastal areas of Canterbury, Otago, and Southland from Ashburton southward it was down by 20-30 hours.

Weather Sequence: At the beginning of the month a complex depression was centred over Northland. It had already caused considerable rain over the North Island, which continued, now affecting also Nelson, Marlborough and North Canterbury. One centre moved southward along the west coast of the North Island and through Cook Strait. At the same time a trough of low pressure crossed the South Island; and the 2nd and 3rd were wet days in nearly all districts. Another centre developed on the following day over Northland, and the rain was then restricted mainly to northern districts of the North Island together with Gisborne and Hawke's Bay.

The weather cleared over the North Island on the 5th as an anticyclone over the Tasman Sea extended on to New Zealand and eastward to the Chatham Islands. However, on this and the following day the depression which had developed over Northland remained active while moving away, with some rain in eastern Northland. A trough of low pressure crossed the country on the 7th with rain in western districts of both islands and also in central districts of the North Island and Otago and Southland. On the following day south-westerlies prevailed with scattered light showers. On the 9th a depression passed close to Southland and the associated trough of low pressure brought rain to the southern half of the South Island. South-westerlies prevailed again during the next two days with showers in many districts. From the 12th to the 16th an anticyclone covered the Tasman Sea and New Zealand and extended to the east. However, the weather was showery at first around Auckland in the easterlies; and showers were also reported on most days in Fiordland or the Southland-Otago coast.

By the 17th the belt of high pressure still covered most of the country but the weather deteriorated in Northland with the approach of a depression from the north. During the next two days the rain spread southward, affecting especially Coromandel and Bay of Plenty. On the 20th the depression commenced to move away to the east of North Cape, and in the easterlies the rain spread also to Hawke's Bay. On the following day, as the depression lost intensity, the rain became very scattered, affecting mainly Northland and some of the eastern North Island ranges. The anticyclone was now centred to the east of the South Island and during the next three days it moved away very slowly while depressions appeared over the North and South Tasman Sea. These were days of warm and predominantly fair weather. However, the West Coast received some rain; and thunderstorms were reported at times in the North Island ranges and in the Wairarapa, with one or two heavy downpours in the latter area.

The northernmost depression remained almost stationary on the 25th and 26th but a trough of low pressure gradually spread rain over the greater part of the South Island. Somewhat similar conditions persisted during the next two days as the depression moved slowly southward, but some rain was reported in Bay of Plenty. Heavier and general rain was experienced on the 29th and 30th as one small depression from the North Tasman Sea crossed the Auckland Peninsula and another centre crossed the South Island. The rain was particularly heavy in south Westland, and some considerable falls were also reported in other parts of the West Coast and the Alps, in Nelson, and in the Taranaki-Taumarunui-Rotorua area. On the last day of the month the northernmost of the two depressions lay to the east, and a trough of low pressure crossed the country. Rain was restricted mainly to western and northern districts of both islands.

Price Order No. 2006 (Raw Tobacco Leaf)

PURSUANT to the Control of Prices Act 1947, the Price Tribunal hereby makes the following price order:

1. This order may be cited as Price Order No. 2006 and shall come into force on the 29th day of April 1966.

2. In this order—

“Flue-cured leaf” means leaf that has been treated in the kiln for at least three successive days immediately after picking for the purpose of yellowing, fixing colour, drying, and drying mid-ribs:

“Air-dried leaf” means leaf other than flue-cured leaf:

“Raw tobacco” means unmanufactured tobacco and includes the leaves and stems of the tobacco plant before they have passed through any process of manufacture other than curing:

“Sale” includes a contract for sale, agreement to sell, and offer for sale; “purchase” includes a contract for purchase, agreement to purchase, and offer to purchase; and “sale” and “purchase” include barter and exchange.

APPLICATION OF THIS ORDER

3. This order applies with respect to all raw tobacco leaf grown in New Zealand during the 1965–66 season: Provided that the Tribunal may, in any case where it considers it proper to do so and subject to such conditions (if any) as it thinks fit, exempt any such tobacco from the operation of this order.

FIXING AVERAGE PRICES OF RAW TOBACCO LEAF TO WHICH THIS ORDER APPLIES

4. (1) Subject to subclause (2) hereof, the average price to be paid by any tobacco manufacturer for raw tobacco leaf to which this order applies shall be not less than—

(a) For flue-cured leaf: 4s. 9½d. per pound.

(b) For air-dried leaf: 4s. 4½d. per pound.

(2) In respect of raw tobacco leaf purchased in loose form, any manufacturer may deduct up to 2d. per pound from the price which he would otherwise have paid for raw tobacco leaf of that grade if sold in hanked form and the total amount so deducted may be taken into account when calculating the average prices referred to in subclause (1).

(3) For the purpose of this clause the weight of any raw tobacco leaf shall be deemed to be its weight at the time and place of delivery by the grower to the manufacturer or to his agent in the district in which it is grown: Provided that in any case where the grower and the manufacturer or his agent agree that the moisture content of the leaf in any lot of tobacco is excessive, then, for the purposes of calculating the value of the lot, the weight of the lot shall be deemed to be reduced by a reasonable amount to make allowance for the excessive moisture.

5. No raw tobacco shall be sold by the grower thereof or purchased from him at less than 2s. per pound free on board ship Motueka or Nelson in the case of tobacco grown in the Nelson Provincial District, and in the case of tobacco grown in any other district at less than 2s. per pound free on board ship or free on rail at the port or railway station which is nearest to the place at which such tobacco is grown.

6. No raw tobacco shall be sold by any person other than the grower thereof or purchased from such other person at less than 2s. per pound free on board ship or free on rail at the port or railway station which is nearest to the place at which such tobacco is, at the time of sale thereof, being held or stored.

7. Notwithstanding anything in the provisions of clauses 5 and 6 hereof, the Tribunal may, in any case where it considers it proper so to do, authorise the sale and purchase of tobacco at a price less than the price fixed by either of those clauses.

Dated at Wellington this 22nd day of April 1966.

The seal of the Price Tribunal was affixed hereto in the presence of—
