*Notice to Make Returns of Income Under the Land and

PURSUANT to the Land and Income Tax Act 1954, the Commissioner of Inland Revenue gives notice as follows:

1. Returns of income for the year ended 31 March 1968 (or other approved balance date) are required from:

- (a) All companies, all partnerships, all persons in business (including farming) or in a profession, all persons in partnership, and all trustees, executors, and administrators, notwithstanding that by reason of a loss being incurred for the year or carried forward from a previous year, no taxation is payable.
- (b) Every person whose total income exceeded $2,600.
- (c) Every person who derived interest and/or investment or building society dividends over $60 in the aggregate and whose total income (after deducting $60 of that interest and/or investment or building society dividends) exceeded $208.
- (d) Every person who derived assessable income other than income from employment and whose total income exceeded $208. (Except in the case of persons mentioned in (a) above, no return is required where—
 - (i) The total income did not exceed $936 and consisted exclusively of income from employment together with Universal Superannuation, and/or company dividends, or
 - (ii) The total income did not exceed $936 and consisted exclusively of Universal Superannuation and/or company dividends).
- (e) Every person who paid provisional tax in respect of income for the year ended 31 March 1968.
- (f) Every person to whom section 104 of the Land and Income Tax Act 1954 applies. Section 104 relates to aggregate assessments of husbands and wives and in general terms now applies only where—
 - (i) Income is derived by one spouse under a transfer or settlement of income by the other spouse and the assets producing the income are retained by or can revert to the other spouse.
 - (ii) Income is diverted from one to the other by permitting the use of assets or by the performance of services.
- (g) Every person who received withholding payments. Note, however, that a return is not required where a person does not come within any of the classes referred to in (a) to (f) above inclusive and the only withholding payments received were—
 - (i) Juror's or witness's fees, and/or
 - (ii) Not in excess of $24 in the aggregate and consisting of one or more of the following classes:
Honoraria; fees for contributions to newspapers, journals, etc., or for radio or stage presentations; modelling or demonstrating goods or appliances; theatre, stage, concert, and radio performances; payments for election-day services.
- (h) Every unincorporated body which derived assessable income.
- (i) Every absentee who derived income from New Zealand.

2. Returns are required to be furnished by posting or delivering the same to the office of the Inland Revenue Department nearest to the place of residence of the taxpayer, or if the taxpayer's records are held in another office of the Department, then to the latter office.

3. Returns are due on:

- (a) 7 June 1968 where income was derived from salary, wages, superannuation (not Universal), pensions, taxable allowance, etc., and—
 - (i) No other income whatsoever was derived, or
 - (ii) The other income derived consisted exclusively of not more than $100 in total from dividends, net rents, interest (after $60 exemption).
- (b) 7 August 1968 in all other cases or within two months of balance date, whichever is the latter. No action for failure to furnish a return due on 7 August 1968 will be taken if it is furnished by 7 September 1968.

The return to be used is IR 5 (green print) in the case of paragraph 3 (a) above. The IR 3 return or the IR 14 should be used in all other cases.

In addition to IR 3, farmers are to complete supplementary return IR 3F and persons in business or in a profession are to complete supplementary return IR 3B. Companies are to use IR 4 and estates and trusts IR 5A. Each form indicates the classes of taxpayers who are to use that form and, where applicable, the due dates for payment of provisional tax. Generally the first instalment of provisional tax must accompany the return when furnished and is due on 7 August 1968. It must be paid on or before 7 September 1968 in order to avoid the 10 percent additional tax for late payment. The second instalment is, in general, due on 7 February 1969 with a 10 percent additional tax if not paid by 7 March 1969. In some cases a third instalment is, in general, due on 7 May 1969 with a 10 percent additional tax if not paid by 7 June 1969. Taxpayers who are not required to furnish (and do not furnish) a final return by the expiration of one month after the due date for payment of the first instalment of provisional tax, are required to furnish an interim return IR 5B unless they have been otherwise advised. This return is to be furnished not later than one month after the due date for payment of the first instalment of provisional tax. Fuller details are given in the interim return form.

4. All return forms are available at district offices of the Inland Revenue Department, and forms other than interim return forms, are also available at post offices. Company returns are available at post offices in urban areas with a population of 5,000 or more not having an Inland Revenue District Office.

5. Any person or company failing to furnish a return within the prescribed time is liable to a fine not exceeding $200 and not less than $4.

6. Any person who is not required under paragraph 1 to furnish a return and who has derived income from employment may elect to furnish a return using IR 5 if he requires an adjustment:

- (a) Because he paid life insurance premiums.
- (b) Because he considers that tax deductions made from his income were excessive.
- (c) Because he was entitled to exemptions which were not included in his tax code during the year.

7. Any person furnishing a return of income who derived income taxed at time of payment should securely attach all tax deduction certificates (IR 12, IR 13, or IR 55) to the return form.

Dated at Wellington this 10th day of April 1968.

D. A. STEVENS, Commissioner of Inland Revenue.

NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR MARCH 1968

General—March was exceptionally warm and also very humid. For most of the North Island it was the third successive month with rainfall well below average, and conditions were much too dry, seriously affecting dairy production. In northern districts there was also an outbreak of facial eczema affecting especially cattle. In the South Island rainfall was mainly adequate and conditions were better.

Rainfall—Rainfall was above average over most of the South Island, in Northland and Coromandel, and around Rotorua. It was more than double the average value in Otago and in parts of South Canterbury, Nelson, and Northland. On the Otago coast some stations had nearly four times the average value.

By contrast, in eastern and southern districts of the North Island and in parts of Taihape, Taupo, and Waikato rainfall was less than half the average value. The greatest deficiency was recorded in northern and central Hawke's Bay, Wairarapa, and western Waikato.

Widespread and serious flooding was reported in Dunedin and coastal North Otago and South Canterbury following heavy rainfall on the night of 8-9 March associated with the passage across the South Island of a depression of tropical origin. Flooding was also reported on parts of the Southland plain and around Queenstown.

Temperatures—Temperatures were above average, mainly by about 5 degrees. Highest departures of 6-8 degrees were recorded from Waikato through central districts of the North Island to Southern Hawke's Bay and Northern Wairarapa; and also in inland Marlborough and North Canterbury. In these districts it was by far the warmest March for at least 60 years.

Sunshine—The greater part of the North Island was favoured with 20-50 hours more sunshine than usual, highest departures being recorded from Taumarunui to Manawatu. By contrast, parts of the South Island together with northern and eastern Northland were unusually cloudy. Te Pahi, Northland received 115 hours, and Invercargill only 92 hours; these were both the lowest in over 30 years of record. Another unusually low total was recorded at Timaru—only 100 hours.

Weather Sequence—On the 1st the weather was generally settled, under the influence of an anticyclone. During the next four days the anticyclone moved away to the east, but fair weather persisted over most of the North Island and in the northern half of the South Island. However, during this time a trough of low pressure moved on to Southland and Otago and became stationary there, with rain spreading progressively eastward over these areas and South Westland from the far south-west. There were some very heavy falls in Fiordland and the Lakes district.

A tropical storm which had originated east of New Caledonia moved southward and started to effect some northern districts on the 6th. The weather cleared temporarily in Southland and later in Otago and Fiordland but rain spread northward over remaining districts of the South Island. The tropical storm became less vigorous as it moved southward to the west of the North Island and crossed the South Island on the 8th, which was a day of fairly general rain. Some heavy rain occurred on this and the following day in coastal Otago, with flooding there and in parts of South Canterbury and Southland and around Queenstown. Meanwhile the weather had improved temporarily over most of the North Island.

A centre of low pressure still persisted off the Fiordland coast, and a trough associated with this centre crossed the country from west to east on the 10th and 11th, with further rain over the South Island and some also in many North Island districts, especially in the west. Low pressures continued to dominate the area for another three days, with the trough almost stationary at first east of Northland and Gisborne. The weather cleared over most of Otago and Southland, but rain was still reported in many other districts.

Pressures were high over the New Zealand area from the 15th to the 26th. The weather was dominated by a large anticyclone; it was mainly settled and frequently also sunny. Some light rain was reported in Fiordland and South Westland on the 19th, with a few showers in North Westland and Buller. Fiordland and South Westland were affected again on the 22nd and 23rd, together with parts of Southland; and at the same time light rain was reported on the east coast of Northland and on the islands off the Hauraki Gulf. On the 25th there was some light rain on the coast of North Otago and South Canterbury; and this area together with the North Canterbury coast and coastal Southland was again affected on the 26th.

The first somewhat more widespread deterioration in the weather occurred on the 27th. A depression was centred south of Raoul Island, and in the easterlies rain was reported over a considerable part of Northland and Auckland besides Gisborne and Hawke's Bay; while a trough of low pressure affected Southland. For the next three days this depression moved slowly southward past North Cape, with rain over the greater part of the North Island, at times extending also to Nelson and Marlborough. On the last day of the month another depression formed near North Cape, with excessive rain in that area. At the same time a trough of low pressure brought considerable rain to the West Coast and the Alps, also affecting Southland.
