Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 138

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Secretary for Justice for a decision in respect of the magazine Weird, Vol. 2, No. 9.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

APPLICATION has been made to the Tribunal for a classification of the October 1968 issue, Vol. 2, No. 9, of a bi-monthly periodical called Weird, published by Eerie Publications Inc., New York. Mr R. C. Savage, of the Crown Law Office, appeared for the Secretary for Justice. Mr R. A. Heron of Counsel, appeared for the New Zealand distributors, Gordon and Gotch Ltd., but did not wish to make submissions.

The magazine consists largely of crude black and white drawings with conversation in cartoonists' "balloons" and a small thread of connecting narrative. The cover is in colour and is over-dramatised and calculated to horrify.

Mr Savage called in evidence Mr D. H. Ross, a qualified and experienced psychologist. Mr Ross deposed that his experience led him to the conclusion that exposure to a single issue of a periodical such as that under consideration would not cause lasting harm to the immature mind, but it might cause real anxiety and even terror. Frequent exposure, on the other hand, would have a blunting effect on the sensitivity of any child towards the concept of aggression, and, in the case of what he described as the high risk group of disturbed or unstable children, the cumulative effect could be harmful.

Mr Ross made it clear that he did not deprecate all violence in literature, but presented as it was in this periodical the effect was extreme and unreal, conveying so frightening and distorted a picture that the result could be overwhelming.

Mr Savage drew our attention to a standard work on "horror comics", Frederic Wertham's Seduction of the Innocent, Rinehart, 1954; notably to passages dealing with "identification" and "the comic book syndrome". He sought a classification which either would declare the issue to be indecent or would declare it indecent in the hands of children under a specified age: under s. 11 (3) of the Act this would, in the case of a picture-story book likely to be read by children, have the same effect.

Counsel invited us to declare this issue to be such a picture-story book and this we do without hesitation.

Without necessarily accepting all Dr Wertham's contentions, we are of opinion that under s. 11 (1) (e) cited by Counsel there does exist a likelihood that some persons might be corrupted by reading the book and we cannot see any likelihood that any other persons might benefit therefrom. No purpose is apparent in the publication, other than the desire to capitalise on people's capacity to be shocked and disturbed in an unhealthy way.

It is our view that the dominant effect of this magazine is to appeal to anxiety and fear and to encourage vicious and indiscriminate aggression.

In our opinion this magazine deals with matters of horror, crime, cruelty, and violence in a manner that is calculated to be injurious to the public good and we therefore decide that it is indecent.

L. G. H. SINCLAIR, Chairman.

13 February 1969.
