Cook National Day

CITIZENS, schools, and local authorities throughout New Zealand are requested to observe Thursday, 9 October 1969, as Cook National Day to commemorate the two-hundredth anniversary of the day Captain James Cook first landed in New Zealand, at Poverty Bay.

The national celebrations of the bicentenary will be held at Gisborne on 9 October 1969 in conjunction with local celebrations to be conducted by local authorities in co-operation with interested organisations.

Celebrations elsewhere should normally be held on this day, unless the area is one where the local authority has made arrangements for observance of the Cook bicentenary on another date.

There is no intention to declare a public holiday throughout the country and the day should be observed in a purely commemorative sense. Except for the national celebrations at Gisborne, it will be for local authorities, schools, or interested organisations to decide on some appropriate way of celebrating the bicentenary.

Indecent Publications Tribunal

I, Victor Worth Thomas, Comptroller of Customs, give notice that I have applied to the Indecent Publications Tribunal for a decision as to whether the book The World is Full of Married Men, by Jackie Collins, published by the New English Library Ltd., Holborn, London E.C. 1, is indecent or not, or for a decision as to its classification.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 147

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Secretary for Justice to consider a hard-back edition of a book Glover, by Francis Pollini, published by Neville Spearman Ltd., London, 1965.

DECISION OF TRIBUNAL

THE Tribunal ruled on a paper-back edition of this work in 1967 (New Zealand Gazette, 6 July 1967, No. 43, p. 1161), and judged it to be, in that form, indecent. This decision was arrived at after considering both the substance of the book and its likely readership if sold in paper-back, according to the principles enumerated in section 11 of the Statute; particularly subsections (c) and (d), which require the Tribunal to take into consideration the persons, classes of persons, or age groups by whom the book might be read and its selling price.

In the present edition there are no substantive changes in wording or content. Its main theme, in the words of the earlier judgment, "is an account of the sexual activities of an American airman, related with much detail; he is depicted as being brutal in his approach to women and girls and to have shown some violence". Its language is often coarse and its fictional account of life at an American air force station in England, and the corruptibility of its members, may be distressing to any reader who accepts it too literally. The almost total absence of worth-while values allows the reader no escape from the sordid and hateful world depicted.

Nevertheless, the Tribunal considers that the book is not without serious intention; nor is the narrative wholly without sophistication; and compared with some books considered by the Tribunal, the descriptions of sexual encounters and brutality may even be thought to show a certain reticence in the writing. In fact the language, incidents, and natures of the main characters are self-exposing; the characters may survive, as evil will in a corrupt world, but there is no glossing the repulsive nature of lives lived in self-assertive sensuality or cringing capitulation to intimidation at the hands of others more powerful in position or physique.

While such a book could be distressing to younger readers, to whom a paper-back edition might make it too readily accessible, the Tribunal considers that adult readers should be permitted access to work of this kind (no worse because it is fiction than much already conveyed in popular entertainment media) and have the right to make their own judgments on the information it conveys. Bearing in mind the restrictive effect of hard covers and price, the Tribunal therefore declares this hard-back edition of Glover to be not indecent, except in the hands of persons under 18 years of age.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 151

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of a book Sex is for Giving, by John Webster, Elysium Press, Los Angeles, submitted by leave of the Minister of Justice.

DECISION OF TRIBUNAL

ON the face of it, this book is a defence of sexual promiscuity; but the face of it is deceptive. It is better described as a defence of the careful, discriminating, and occasional exchange of marriage partners, neither being ignorant or deceived. The book consists of an account of the origin, course, and result of some such experiences and of an argument in favour of them. The narrative is pursued in very restrained style; the argument with cool reason. The fact that the theory urged will be repugnant to many readers is no reason why it should not be opened to mature readers, whatever their conclusion; and the Tribunal accordingly decides that this book is not indecent within the meaning of the Act; but placing due emphasis on the word "mature", that its circulation should be restricted to readers over the age of 18 years.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 148

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of a magazine, My Love Story, No. 1, 1968, published by Top Sellers Ltd., of 95 Great Portland Street, London, submitted by the Secretary for Justice.

DECISION OF TRIBUNAL

THE work contains some 10 stories very much of a "magazine" type dealing with allegedly romantic situations.

The theme of all the stories is very much the same. Although the language used is suggestive in some instances, it is not grossly so. There is little suggestion of vice or perversion or of violence.

The presentation is, however, of such a nature that, in our view, it could well debase an impressionable reader's ideas of sexual activity.

We find for this reason that this work is indecent, except in the hands of persons over 18 years of age.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 149

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of a book Ladies of Vice, by G. R. Scott, Tallis Press, London, submitted by leave of the Minister of Justice.

DECISION OF TRIBUNAL

THIS book is issued as a completely revised version of A History of Prostitution, which ran to three editions. The treatment is systematic and matter of fact, though questions of accuracy may arise; as when it is said, in part three, that there are "no brothel prostitutes in England" today, as there are in various foreign countries. No sensational twist is given to the narrative or the author's comments; and the Tribunal decides that the book is not indecent within the meaning of the Act.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 150

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of a book, The Master Masochist, by L. von Sacher-Masoch, Tallis Press, London, submitted by leave of the Minister of Justice.

DECISION OF TRIBUNAL

THE Tribunal has already considered and decided upon two examples of the work of Leopold von Sacher-Masoch (New Zealand Gazette, 21 November 1968). The book now submitted is more substantially representative and includes a long and interesting "explanatory preamble" by Dr Vyvyan Howarth, sufficient to establish the interests of Sacher-Masoch's writing for students of abnormality in sexual conduct. The conclusion of the Tribunal is that the reasons given in the decision referred to, restricting distribution to readers over the age of 18 years, apply equally to the book at present in question; and it is accordingly decided to be not indecent, subject to the age restriction.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 152

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of a book The Swinging Set by William and Jerrye Breedlove, Sherbourne Press, Los Angeles, submitted by leave of the Minister of Justice.

DECISION OF TRIBUNAL

THIS book, like Sex is for Giving, is devoted to what is commonly called promiscuity; but, unlike that, it develops no theory of carefully and discriminatingly arranged marital exchanges, but is concerned with "that group of young men and women, single or married, who seek and accept sexual intercourse with others as casually as past generations have attended a church social or club dance". As an objective record of facts, it has some small value; but it is directed to no discernible end. The content and manner of writing are superficial and salacious and, for these reasons, we determine the book could well corrupt the views and attitudes of young persons.

The Tribunal therefore decides that the book is indecent except in the hands of persons over 18 years of age.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 153

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of a book, Bizarre Sex Acts and Unusual Behaviour, by Bob Michaels, Medco Books, Los Angeles, submitted by leave of the Minister of Justice.

DECISION OF TRIBUNAL

THIS book is a pretentious account of sexual abnormalities, illustrated by what purport to be case records. The facts, as facts, are better represented in other books; the case records appear to be directed to no better end than to perverse erotic stimulation. The Tribunal decides that this book is indecent within the meaning of the Act.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 154

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of a book, Sex Marchers, edited by Jefferson Poland and Sam Sloan, Elysium Press, Los Angeles, submitted by leave of the Minister of Justice.

DECISION OF TRIBUNAL

THIS book is a collaboration between the Rev. Jefferson Poland and Sam Sloan, assisted by other contributors. Both Poland and Sloan are very young and this helps to account for a certain emphasis on campus agitators for greater freedom in sexual life and in the legal restraints upon it. A great deal of information is supplied in a survey of freedom organisations and in chapters on specific occasions of action. Taking the book as a whole, the treatment is matter of fact and level; and the Tribunal would be disposed to classify the book as not indecent, but for one chapter ("inside an orgy"), which multiplies offensive details to the point of indecency. It is accordingly declared to be indecent, except in the hands of readers over the age of 18 years.

F. McCARTHY, Deputy Chairman.

No. 155

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of a book, Jailbirds in the Back Seat, by Marcus Van Heller, published by the Ophelia Press Incorporated, New York, and submitted by the Comptroller of Customs.

DECISION OF TRIBUNAL

THIS paper-back novel is the story told in crude language of the sexual adventures of two criminals "on the run".

It deals with perversion, promiscuity, and debauchery in a worthless manner.

The Tribunal has no hesitation in classifying it as indecent.

F. McCARTHY, Deputy Chairman.

21 August 1969.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 156

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the magazines Horseshit—the Offensive Review, No. 1, 2, and 3, published by Gauntlet Press, Hermosa Beach, California.

DECISION OF TRIBUNAL

WHEN the editors of the three numbers of this publication subtitled it "an offensive review" they may be understood to have meant that it would offend and that it would go on to the attack.

Both objects are achieved by satires on militarism, conventional morality, politics, and politicians, hypocrisy, religion, big business, finance, and censorship.

The satire is fiercely directed, notably in some very powerful and skilful black and white illustrations.

So far, the editors exhibit what is described and appears in the Act of 1963 as "an honest purpose", which is not to be condemned solely because it is sure to give offence. But the contributions that exhibit and enforce it are accompanied by others, long and short, in which indecency is deliberate and gross, without justification in the interests of "art, literature, sciences or learning or would be for the public good" (section 11 (2)). Accordingly, the Tribunal finds that these publications could well corrupt readers, especially juveniles, without benefit to others (section 11 (1) (c)).

The Tribunal, recognising the interest and value sociologically of the satirical picture of contemporary American society, accordingly declares that these numbers of the periodical are indecent, except in the hands of persons over the age of 18 years and professionally engaged in the study of sociology.

In accordance with the policy the sum of $2,749 has been transferred to the profit and loss account for this financial year.

NOTE 2. Capital commitments—Mortgages approved, not yet advanced—$211,410.

NOTE TO ANNUAL ACCOUNTS, 31 MARCH 1969

Deferred taxation account, $31,594.56.

Up until 31 March 1968, the bank had paid tax on accrued income as well as cash income received. The Inland Revenue Department now allows us to reduce our taxable income by the amount of accrued income included therein.

The bank still provides for the tax liability on the accrued income, but it is not paid until the following year. It is therefore shown separately as "Deferred taxation account".

Since accrued income tends to increase each year, so this deferred taxation account will increase each year also. It is therefore a permanent account which will always be present as a current liability, but for which payment is always deferred.

J. A. GRACE, President.
S. R. McROBIE, Manager.
