Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 196

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application to the Tribunal for a decision in respect of the book The Song of the Loon, by Richard Amory, published by Tallis Press, London.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

This book, a paper-backed edition, priced in New Zealand at $1.55, was submitted to the Tribunal by leave of the Minister of Justice. Mr Downey appeared as Counsel for the publishers.

It contains a fictional account of the experiences of an itinerant fur trapper among members of what is referred to as the Red Indian Loon society, whose tolerant acceptance of the homosexual and homosexuality are said to provide him with the freedom of action and thought he has longed for. The treatment is sentimental: we doubt whether the approach is a sincere one. Homosexual acts are described with revolting anatomical detail. The book has some literary merit but in the opinion of the Tribunal its indecency outweighs such merit.

It is classified as indecent.

L. G. H. SINCLAIR, Chairman.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 197

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by Murdoch Riley, of Wellington, company director, as agent for the publishers for a decision in respect of the book Vice in Bombay, by Allen V. Ross, a paper-back edition published by Tallis Press, London.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

Vice in Bombay was originally published in the United States of America under the title Bombay after Dark, and in that form was a companion volume to two other books already considered by the Tribunal and adjudged not indecent, namely Mexico after Dark and Hong Kong after Dark.

The present volume, however, differs from the others in its unremitting pursuit and description of sexual adventures; its altered title is a much more accurate summary of the contents and clearly recognises the author's concern to see and savour sexual sensations at any hour at all. The urgent desire of author and publisher to share such experiences with their readers is evident in the preliminary blurb: "A thousand and one nights of ecstasy are yours in Bombay after Dark, with ... girls who go by the book—that is, the Kama Sutra and its sixty-four positions; ... men who dress as women, but who will perform with either sex; ... temple prostitutes who combine their age-old calling with perverse religious rituals; ... lesbians for hire—but only for husbands of bored wives; ... men and women who use yoga to prolong the sex act to unbelievable lengths of time: the sin people of Bombay—the more bizarre your pleasure, the better they like it." The front cover itself promises "Prostitutes ... child sex shows ... blue films ... boy brothels ... a sin-soaked sexual abyss revealed in all its shocking excess!"

From this kind of presentation there can be no appeal whatever to standards of accurate social reporting or an intelligent concern to understand the mores of a society different from our own. This book may inform incidentally but its pervasive libidinous tone and its persistent presentation of the author's own indulgences as surrogate experiences for the reader make it quite clearly indecent within the meaning of the Act. We therefore declare it to be indecent.
