Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 204

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of a reference to the Tribunal, under section 12 (1) of the said Act, by the Magistrate's Court at Auckland and of a reference by the Magistrate's Court at Hamilton for a decision and report in terms of the said section in respect of Capping Magazine Auckland 1969 published by the Auckland University Students Association Incorporated.

DECISION AND REPORT

AT this hearing, Mr Savage, of the Crown Law Office, appeared for the Police; Mr Anderson for the Auckland University Students' Association Incorporated, as publishers; and Mr Skelton for Waikato and King Country Press Ltd. and the East Waikato Publishers Ltd., the printers and commercial publishers. Called in evidence by Mr Anderson were Mr Michael Law, president of the association, and Mr Richard Harman, one of the editors of the magazine.

We were informed that sales of this magazine totalled some 37,100, of which 27,000 were sold in the central Auckland area; 2,000 in Whangarei; 5,000 in Hamilton; and 2,000 on the East Coast, mostly in Gisborne. The selling price was 30c. The actual profit was something over $5,000. A further edition was called for but, the objects of publication having been achieved, it was decided not to reprint.

We were invited to consider the standard of this issue and to compare it with that of a selection of other magazines circulating freely in the community which have not been referred to the Tribunal. Documents of which the Tribunal would not approve are probably so circulating; but we are more concerned with the standards we have attempted to define from documents which have already been brought before us.

Possible questions of libel and assault on religion were raised, but these do not come within the functions of the Tribunal.

Mr Savage drew our attention to two features which, in particular, were considered to be objectionable. Firstly, he referred to the front and back covers. In our view these are no more than a harmless frolic incapable of arousing prurient feelings. We do not consider they contravene the statute.

Second, the two-page spread at the centre of the magazine, it was suggested, treats sex as a mere animal activity. The editors' interpretation, which we accept, is that the fairy story characters are treated merely as cartoon figures, used for satiric deflation of the Walt Disney fantasy. These two items are not indecent in our opinion; but there is other questionable material, but not sufficient in quantity or kind to justify a decision against the magazine as a whole. We therefore decide that the magazine is not indecent.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 201

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application to the Tribunal for a decision in respect of the book Portnoy's Complaint, by Philip Roth, published by Jonathan Cape Ltd., London.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS novel has been widely and highly praised by competent American and English reviewers, and it deserves their praises; mostly, if not wholly. It is remarkable as a study of Portnoy's relations with his Jewish parents and sister: the mother, a domestic tyrant and torturer always acting on the highest motives; the father affectionately scorned by the boy for his timid obsequiousness towards his non-Jewish employers; the sister, as Portnoy describes her, the fat and commonplace "only sane member" of this distressed family. The lines are laid that lead much further: to a satirical view of the status of Jews in a non-Jewish and, in fact, anti-Semitic society; to Portnoy's compulsive sexuality, derived from his seeking release from his mother's tyranny and his scorn of his father's meekness (or at least stimulated by them) in masturbation, and to his obsession by a feeling of guilt, which troubles him throughout his sexual adventures. He emerges from them, however, enjoyed, conscience stricken, and wondering why he should be, when he has only done what many do without this sense of guilt. He ends up on the psychiatrist's couch, and the novel is the story of his monologue, which verbally and factually deploys these adventures in the frankest terms. No holds or four-letter words barred. And this, no doubt, is why the book has been referred to the Tribunal; which finds that against the obvious objections are to be laid the satirical themes above referred to, which establish the "honest purpose" of the book, in terms of the Act, and its pervasive wit and humour, finally exhibited in the psychiatrist's comment, at the end of the monologue—"So. Now vee may perhaps to begin. Yes?"

The Tribunal decides this book is not indecent for adults but is divided on the question of an age restriction. The majority of the Tribunal believes that an understanding of the effects of an exaggerated feeling of guilt (over such things as masturbation) and of non-communication between parents and children may be of positive value to some adolescents. The Chairman and Mr Johnston, however, consider that the book should be restricted in its circulation to persons over the age of 17. Their view is that young readers are unlikely to perceive the satiric and pathetic dimensions of Roth's portrayal of Portnoy so that the intimacy, verve, and gusto of certain episodes in Portnoy's highly readable monologue could easily have a disturbing impact on them. They refer to Roth's comment, "My hope was to raise obscenity to the level of a subject", as making clear the sophistication of response the author is seeking; a sophistication beyond younger readers. They consider that the interests of adult readers and juvenile readers are best served by an age restriction.

The opinion of the majority prevails and the book is therefore decided to be not indecent.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 198

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application to the Tribunal for a decision in respect of the book Sex Turned On, by Richard E. Geis, published by Softcover Library Ltd., 33 Beauchamp Place, London.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS is a paper-backed novel, in cheap format, which relates the moral decline of a girl college student who succumbs, first to sexual temptations and then to drug addiction after her expulsion from college. The language is unexceptionable. It is claimed on the jacket to be "fully illustrated throughout", but, in fact, contains in the centre a collection of eight photographs, five at least of which are indecent in our view, and none of which are specifically related to the text.

The book contains a moral, but if that were its purpose, it could well have been attained without the lurid descriptions of sexual episodes and orgies. These are of such a nature as to be clearly indecent and outweigh any beneficial purpose that may have been intended. Its title aptly describes its contents and the Tribunal decides that it is indecent.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 202

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application to the Tribunal for decisions in respect of the magazines Girls of the World, Vol. 1, No. 5, 8, 9, 10, and 12, and Vol. 2, No. 1, published by Top Sellers Ltd., London.

DECISIONS OF THE TRIBUNAL

UPON the hearing, Mr Middleton, of counsel, appeared for the applicant.

These are a series of "girlie" magazines. Mr Middleton submitted that the magazines were not indecent but conceded that an age classification would be appropriate to restrict their distribution. We have given careful consideration to his submissions, but find no reason to depart from the decisions we made with reference to Girls of the World, Vol. 1, No. 7, published in New Zealand Gazette and dated 28 October 1969. In that decision we referred to our earlier decision, published on 18 September 1969 (New Zealand Gazette, p. 1798).

We again apply the criteria set forth in that decision and, accordingly, come to the decision that each of the above magazines is indecent.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 199

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application to the Tribunal for a decision in respect of the book The Age of Perversion, by Jason Douglas, published by Canova Press Ltd., 50 Alexander Road, London.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS paper-back book is described on its front cover as "A close-up view of Sexuality in our Permissive Society", the scientific-sociological tone of which seems at odds with the melodramatic title. A similar prevarication as to the intention, scope, and approach of the book is found on the back cover, where the book is claimed to be both an "investigation" and "a whistle-stop journey through the world of perversions, commercial sex, teenage and post-teenage promiscuity". The dominant impression of this cover material is that the book is aimed at being excitingly inclusive in its account of sexual experience rather than concerned to explore in any sustained way the complex of issues—moral, psychological, social—that sexuality involves along with physical relationships. It is "an investigation of the scores of different varieties of contemporary sexual behaviour and their enthusiastic followers".

In certain other books of comparable format and presentation the Tribunal has found that the cover material misrepresented the tone and method of the book itself, and a redeeming seriousness of treatment was identified. In the present case this is not so. There is no argument to justify the judgment that the title makes on contemporary society, and the terms "perversion", "permissiveness", and "sexual freedom" are used indiscriminately, and even interchangeably, in the confused discussion of the sexual experiences and practices which are reported from "case-histories", "confessions", and other writings.

The author is an advocate of "sexual freedom" and this advocacy proceeds without any coherent recognition of the cruel, sadistic, and debasing aspects of some of the behaviour he surveys, as in the chapters "Variety is the Spice of Life" and "Anything Goes". The practices he reports on are all candidates, it seems, for liberation from the "retrogressive opinion" that forbids them. Each person's sexual taste should have an accepted place in society. Accordingly, we find incest discussed in the following way "The great prohibition against incestuous relations is, of course, the possibility of abnormal children resulting from such a union. With reliable contraception, this problem has been removed and the most forceful argument against toleration of these liaisons is unpersuasive." The absence of any dimension other than the physically sexual in this passage is characteristic of the book's treatment of personal relationships as a whole; and, together with the prurient appeal to curiosity in the use made of "confessions", etc., compels the view that it deals with sex in a manner that is trivial and injurious. We therefore classify it as indecent.

L. G. H. SINCLAIR, Chairman.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 200

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application to the Tribunal for a decision in respect of the book Sexual Techniques, by Mogens Toft, published by Souvenir Press Ltd., 95 Mortimer Street, London.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS book is not an easy one to classify. It is a publication of Souvenir Press, consisting of an explanatory text on the techniques of sexual love illustrated by 42 photographs. These are naturally disturbing because of the intimacy of the subject but they all show restraint and delicacy in the photographing and they all express a tenderness and repose that suggest love in more than its physical aspects. Production and format are dignified and of good quality.

We are required by the Act to consider what groups of persons could be harmed or helped by the book under consideration.

Some would argue that this book could be overstimulating, even inciting, to young persons; but the knowledge is given straightforwardly, and its general tone could counteract in a salutary way the cheap incitements to casual sex seen every day in advertisements and magazines and on screens. Moreover, we recognise that any good thing can be put to improper use.

On the other hand, and more positively, there are people who perhaps because of a lack of imagination, an inhibiting upbringing, or plain ignorance, have found that their sexual experience in an otherwise good marriage has become mere routine. Such couples could well find help here, and for them too the photographs are justified, not only because of their honesty and grace but because so many people find the printed word much harder to follow than the visual image.

There is nothing indecent in nudity or in the sexual act, unless put in the wrong context or treated salaciously. Neither applies here.

We should not wish to see a flood of such books on the market, nor any of a standard inferior to this, but we think there is a place and a use for this one.

We consider the book is not indecent in the hands of mature readers; but, because of its nature we think some restriction on its availability should be made. We decide that it is indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 16 years, unless such persons are being instructed by parents or professional advisers.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

No. 203

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of a reference to the Tribunal, under section 12 (1) of the said Act, by the Magistrate's Court at Wellington for a decision and report in terms of the said section in respect of the July issue of the magazine Cock, published by C. R. Wheeler, of Wellington.

DECISION AND REPORT

IN this matter the Tribunal has had the benefit of submissions from Mr R. C. Savage, of the Crown Law Office, for the Police Department; Mr C. R. Wheeler, described as the editor, publisher, and printer of the journal, appeared on his own account. Mr Wheeler trades under the name of the Cockerel Press.

The circulation of the journal is some 3,000 and the price is 20c. Distribution is principally in the grounds of universities, in hotels, through a few socialist bookshops, and by subscription.

The journal came before the Tribunal by way of reference from the Magistrate's Court, Wellington: the charge there was that of printing an indecent document.

At the hearing, attention was directed particularly to a satirical two-page centre-spread, a cartoon entitled "Phonus Balonus", and to a cartoon inside the back cover. Both were unpleasant: each had an element of satire. Other less extensive features, minimal in size, came within the matters proper to be considered by the Tribunal.

We are concerned only with indecency of the kinds contemplated by the Act, vide our decision No. 178 in the matter of Masskerade 1969, delivered 28 October 1969 and gazetted 6 November 1969, pp. 2217-8. In this decision we cited and followed, on this point, the decision of the majority of the Full Court in Robson v. Hicks Smith and Sons Ltd., [1964], N.Z.L.R. 1113, pp. 1119 and 1122.

There may be grounds for regarding this journal as arrogant, offensive, "sick", or even libellous or subversive. We have no jurisdiction to consider any of these elements unless, taken as a whole, the journal deals with sex, horror, crime, cruelty, or violence in a manner injurious to the public good. Where it does deal with these matters the items are gross and offensive rather than harmful, and the paper is not primarily a vehicle for them. It is unlikely that anyone would buy it primarily to see them; and the general purpose of the paper is to put forward a point of view towards the acceptance of which their coarseness makes little contribution. Accordingly we decide that the magazine is not indecent.

NOTICE OF PRIVATE BILL

THE AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND BANKING GROUP BILL

AUSTRALIA and New Zealand Bank Limited hereby gives notice that it intends to apply for leave to bring in the above-mentioned Private Bill during the present session of Parliament.

The object of the Bill is to supplement the Australia and New Zealand Banking Group Act 1970 of the Parliament of the United Kingdom by making the transfer of the undertaking of Australia and New Zealand Bank Limited to Australia and New Zealand Banking Group Limited fully effective in New Zealand.

The said Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom deals with the merger of the undertakings of Australia and New Zealand Bank Limited and The English, Scottish and Australian Bank, Limited, which is to be accomplished by the transfer of those undertakings to Australia and New Zealand Banking Group Limited. Legislation is the only means by which the transfer can be effected efficiently and economically, and without interference with the conduct and continuity of the business of banking; but the said Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom is not wholly effectual in achieving its objects in New Zealand because the transfer of certain assets is governed by the law of New Zealand.

The Bill now being promoted is designed to transfer the undertaking in New Zealand of Australia and New Zealand Bank Limited to Australia and New Zealand Banking Group Limited. (The English, Scottish and Australian Bank, Limited does not carry on business in New Zealand.)

On a day to be appointed, all the assets, liabilities, and obligations (except certain excluded assets) of Australia and New Zealand Bank Limited will become assets, liabilities, and obligations of Australia and New Zealand Banking Group Limited. Customers of Australia and New Zealand Bank Limited will have the same relationship with Australia and New Zealand Banking Group Limited as they had with Australia and New Zealand Bank Limited.

The promoter of the Bill is Australia and New Zealand Bank Limited.

Communications or notices to the promoter may be sent to Messrs Bell, Gully, and Co., Solicitors, 104 Featherston Street, Wellington (P.O. Box 1291).

A copy of the Bill may be inspected at the offices of Messrs Bell, Gully and Co., at the address stated, during normal office hours on any weekday other than Saturday.

BELL, GULLY, AND CO., Solicitors.
