Tariff and Development Board Notice No. 174—Deferred Public Inquiry into Moulding Boxes and Moulds (Tariff Items 84.60.01 and 84.60.09)

1. In its notice No. 140 (New Zealand Gazette dated 30 October 1969) the Tariff and Development Board announced that the proposed public inquiry into the question of permanent protection for moulding boxes and moulds notified in notice No. 130 (New Zealand Gazette of 28 August 1969) and set down for 3 December 1969 was deferred until a later date.

2. Representations made to the Board have indicated that the original terms of reference as set out in notice No. 130 may be unduly restrictive as regards the range of goods covered. It has been suggested for example that dies, classified elsewhere in the Tariff, should be included in any tariff inquiry into this field.

3. The Board is awaiting further representations from interested parties before requesting the approval of the Minister of Customs for extended terms of reference. At present the Board expects to hold a public inquiry in November 1970. A notice advising the terms of reference and the definite date for the public inquiry will be published later this year.

4. If any interested party wishes to offer any suggestions concerning the terms of reference the Board will give such advice its full consideration.

Dated at Wellington this 23rd day of June 1970.

O. A. BLACK,
Secretary, Tariff and Development Board.
P.O. Box 5070, Wellington.

The "normal" refers to the present site of the instruments. The standard periods for normals are: for temperature 1931-60, for rainfall 1921-50, and for sunshine 1935-60. No normals are available for stations with only short records.

*The sunshine recorder is not located at the station but is in the near vicinity.

NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR MAY 1970

General—May was marked by an unusually high frequency of southerly to easterly winds. It was colder than normal but also more sunny. Between the spells of unsettled and often cold weather there were brighter and warmer spells lasting for some days. Stock were in good condition but pasture growth was stunted by frosts and in Canterbury the ground was still rather too dry.

Two small local tornadoes were reported on the 8th, at Albany (Auckland) and at Bethlehem (Tauranga). Another one was reported at Waitara, near New Plymouth, on the following day. All three tornadoes left a trail of local damage.

Rainfall—Rainfall was somewhat above normal over most of the North Island with northern and some eastern districts of the South Island. It was below normal over most of the South Island and most of Northland, besides eastern Bay of Plenty with parts of Taupo and north-western Hawke's Bay. The greatest relative deficiency was recorded in the alps with the Canterbury high country, northern Central Otago and northern Fiordland; in these areas rainfall ranged from a quarter of the average down to 3 percent, in Central Otago. Milford Sound received only 1.73 in., the lowest recorded in any month of the year in 40 years of observations.

Rain was general over nearly the whole country on the 8th and 9th, the 22nd and 23rd. Some particularly heavy rain over a short period was reported from the Morrinsville-Matamata-Rotorua area on the 8th, with about an inch in 20 minutes in some areas.

Temperatures—Temperatures were mainly below normal by 1-2 degrees. Greatest departures were recorded in Central Otago and the Canterbury high country.

The main cold southerly spells were on the 10th and 11th, and from about the 23rd to the 27th. In the later spell considerable snow was reported, especially in the central high country of the North Island, blocking the Desert Road for some time.

Sunshine—Sunshine was mainly above normal by 20-60 hours. Northland, the Southland high country, and parts of the West Coast were especially favoured. Two unusually high totals for May were reported from Dargaville (178 hours) and Hokitika (171 hours).

Weather Sequence—During the first week of May a series of depressions crossed the north Tasman Sea and the North Island. For the first 2 days a depression was centred just west of Northland and another in the same latitude far to the east, while an anti-cyclone was situated near Campbell Island. Easterly winds predominated over New Zealand. Rain was reported in the east and north of the North Island and also on the east coast of the South Island. Some heavy falls were reported in the Gisborne ranges. During the 3rd and 4th, as the first depression moved to the north-east of Northland, conditions remained somewhat similar. From the 5th to the 7th this depression moved southward past the Chatham Islands while another depression from the North Tasman Sea crossed Northland. At first, rain extended as far south as Palmerston North. On the 6th there was a temporary improvement in most districts but the 7th was wet in most northern and some western districts of the North Island.

Yet another depression had moved into the North Tasman Sea and during the 8th and 9th this covered the North Island with a small secondary centre forming east of the South Island. The associated troughs of low pressure crossed the country, bringing general rain. There were some heavy falls, especially in Nelson, where flooding was reported. As pressures rose over the Tasman Sea cold southerlies set in on the 10th, causing some improvement on the West Coast and in the high country of Canterbury and Otago. Snow was reported on some of the ranges, notably the Rimutakas. On the 11th a few showers still persisted in Southland, on the Otago coast, around Christchurch and Banks Peninsula, and in the southern part of the North Island.

The period from the 12th to the 18th was marked by settled weather over a considerable part of the country, during the slow passage of an anticyclone from west of Cook Strait across New Zealand to beyond the Chatham Islands but at that stage still affecting this country. The West Coast, parts of Otago and Southland, and some western and central districts of the North Island received light rain on the 12th and 13th during the passage of a weak westerly trough. From the 14th to the 17th a depression was almost stationary north-east of Auckland. In the easterlies considerable rain was reported in Gisborne and Hawke's Bay. By the 17th another depression was also advancing over the South Tasman Sea, causing rain to advance from the west on to most western and northern districts on this and the following day.

On the 19th the depression from the Tasman Sea moved on to New Zealand, and rain covered the country as far south as Hokitika and the Kaikouras. By the 20th this depression was centred near the Chatham Islands, and another depression moved rapidly across the Tasman Sea towards New Zealand, with rain still covering the whole of the North Island and also most of the West Coast. Two days of general rain occurred over nearly the whole country on the 21st and 22nd with the passage of this depression to the south-east and later a change to cold southerly winds over the South Island. There were many reports of thunderstorms and hail over the North Island on the 22nd. During the 23rd the weather cleared over the greater part of the South Island. However, on the following day a depression developed to the east of Gisborne and cold southerlies set in up till about the 26th with fairly general rain, clearing first on the West Coast and in the South Island high country. Snow was reported on parts of the North Island high country, blocking the Desert Road for some time. The clearance of weather continued on the 27th but rain was still reported in Gisborne, Hawke's Bay and Taihape, besides a few showers in Manawatu and on the coast from North Canterbury to Banks Peninsula.

During the last 4 days of the month the weather was mainly settled under the influence of an anticyclone moving across the North Island and to the east.
