New Zealand - Australia Free Trade Agreement

PURSUANT to Article 3 of the New Zealand - Australia Free Trade Agreement Act 1965, the products listed in the following Schedule have been nominated by New Zealand and Australia for addition to Schedule A.

Prior to formal inclusion in Schedule A, interested persons or firms are invited to make representations in support of or against any nominated product or products. The representations should be forwarded to the Secretary, Tariff and Development Board, P.O. Box 5070, Wellington, not later than 5 March 1971.

Where representations are made against the nomination of a product, the Tariff and Development Board will conduct inquiries and will notify the dates on which submissions are required and the form in which they should be lodged. In those cases where the inquiries result in a decision to include the goods in Schedule A, and where the Australian Government is in agreement, such inclusion will be effected at the earliest practicable date following receipt of the report of the Tariff and Development Board.

Products on which no representations against inclusion in Schedule A have been received by the Board by 5 March 1971 will be added to the Schedule on 1 July 1971, provided the Australian Government agrees.

In some cases, following further negotiations between the Australian and New Zealand Governments, it may be necessary to reconsider the conditions on which a product is added to Schedule A.

The "normal" refers to the present site of the instruments. The standard periods for normals are: for temperature 1931-60, for rainfall 1921-50, and for sunshine 1935-60. No normals are available for stations with only short records.

*The sunshine recorder is not located at the station but is in the near vicinity.

NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR NOVEMBER 1970

General—As in November 1969, barometric pressures were unusually high over New Zealand, and November 1970 was dry, warm, and sunny like the previous November. Western and southern districts of the North Island and northern districts of the South Island received some rain during the first 5 days but very little after that; and parts of these regions needed rain badly by the end of the month. Elsewhere, conditions were mainly favourable for farming.

Rainfall—Rainfall was less than half the normal value west of the main ranges of the North Island and south of Kawhia and Lake Taupo; also in southern Wairarapa, Marlborough, Nelson, and the greater part of Otago. Motueka with a total of 0.21 in. had its driest November in 70 years of record.

The main area which was wetter than normal, consisted of Auckland with southern Northland and parts of Waikato. Other areas included South Westland and part of northern Hawke's Bay.

Temperatures—Temperatures were above normal by 1°-2° F (1° C) except in northern and eastern districts of the North Island, where they were close to normal. So far, 1970 has been the warmest year since 1962 and one of the warmest on record.

Sunshine—The greater part of the country was favoured with about 30 hours above normal sunshine. However, totals were only about normal in most eastern districts and in Bay of Plenty and Northland. From Ashburton to Waimate sunshine was 30-70 hours below normal. Timaru had less than half as much sunshine as Lake Tekapo.

Weather Sequence—The first 5 days of the month were the most unsettled. A depression over the South Tasman Sea moved south-eastward past Southland and, the associated trough of low pressure crossed the country, while another centre formed over the Central Tasman Sea. On the 1st and 2nd, rain was general except for Canterbury and Otago. The second centre moved north-eastward and during the next 2 days a further small centre split off it and crossed New Zealand with general rain. On the 5th, pressures were low to the east but an anticyclone was moving on to the South Island from the west. South-easterlies brought rain to most eastern and some northern districts of the North Island.

From the 6th to the 10th an extensive anticyclone moved slowly from the Tasman Sea across New Zealand and to the east, bringing fair weather.

From the 11th to the 14th a deep depression passed far to the south and two associated troughs of low pressure crossed New Zealand. Considerable rain was reported on the West Coast and some also in Southland and Otago, the Canterbury high country, and Nelson, besides some of the North Island ranges, North Taranaki, and also the Taupo district. An anticyclone which moved across the country on the 15th and 16th brought fair weather.

A very deep depression passed far to the south on the 17th and 18th, while the associated troughs of low pressure crossed most of the country. The last of these became slow-moving in the Auckland-Gisborne area on the 19th and 20th. At first, rain affected mainly the West Coast with Southland and parts of Otago and Nelson, but as the winds turned to southerlies the weather cleared on the West Coast and rain was reported over northern and eastern districts of the North Island, besides eastern districts of the South Island. Some considerable falls were reported around Auckland and in Coromandel.

The 21st to the 26th was another period of predominantly settled weather, with the passage of an anticyclone from the South Tasman Sea across New Zealand and to the east. However, showers were reported at times in northern districts with some thunderstorms, especially in the Taupo district and just north of Auckland City.

For the last 4 days of the month, pressures were high over the North Island and to the east, while a series of depressions passed to the south. Considerable rain was once again reported on the West Coast, extending at times to the Canterbury high country and the Southern Lakes District, besides Southland and parts of coastal Otago.
