Commission of Inquiry into Equal Pay

ARTHUR PORRITT, Governor-General
ORDER IN COUNCIL

To all unto whom these presents shall come, and to:

DENIS McGRATH, of Wellington, Barrister and Solicitor;
KEITH ROBERT CONGREVE, J.P., of Wellington, Retired Company Manager;

MIRIAM PATRICIA DELL, of Lower Hutt, Married Woman;
DESMOND GERALD NOLAN, J.P., of Porirua, Union Secretary;
and

ADRIAN GEORGE RODDA, of Lower Hutt, Retired Chairman of the State Services Commission:

GREETING:

WHEREAS it is considered expedient that inquiry should be made into equal pay:

Now, therefore, pursuant to the Commissions of Inquiry Act 1908, I, Sir Arthur Espie Porritt, Baronet, the Governor-General of New Zealand, acting by and with the advice and consent of the Executive Council, hereby appoint you the said Denis McGrath, Keith Robert Congreve, Miriam Patricia Dell, Desmond Gerald Nolan, and Adrian George Rodda to be a Commission to receive representations upon, inquire into, and report upon how best to give effect in New Zealand to the principle of equal pay for male and female employees; and, in particular, to receive representations upon, inquire into, and report upon the following matters:

1. A suitable formula to be adopted in giving effect to the principle of equal pay, having regard, inter alia, to the provisions of International Labour Organisation Convention 100.

2. The most desirable means of giving effect to the principle of equal pay.

3. The extent to which existing provisions, whether statutory or contained in awards or agreements or of any other kind, inhibit the application of equal pay, any justification for such provisions, and the means of removing unjustified provisions.

4. The timing of the introduction of equal pay, the machinery for introducing equal pay, and the economic implications of the timing and the machinery.

5. The economic and social implications for the nation and for specific groups of the introduction of equal pay.

6. Any associated matters that you consider relevant to the general objects of the inquiry:

And with the like advice and consent I hereby appoint you the said Denis McGrath to be the Chairman of the said Commission:

And for the better enabling you to carry these presents into effect you are hereby authorised and empowered to make and conduct any inquiry under these presents, in accordance with the Commissions of Inquiry Act 1908, at such times and places as you consider expedient, with power to adjourn from time to time and place to place as you think fit, and so that these presents shall continue in force and the inquiry may at any time and place be resumed although not regularly adjourned from time to time or place to place:

And you are hereby strictly charged and directed that you shall not at any time publish or otherwise disclose, except to me in pursuance of these presents or by my direction, the contents or purport of any report so made or to be made by you or any evidence or information obtained by you in exercise of the powers conferred upon you except such evidence or information as is received in the course of a sitting open to the public:

And it is hereby declared that the powers hereby conferred shall be exercisable notwithstanding the absence at any time of any one or any two of the members hereby appointed so long as the Chairman, or a member deputed by the Chairman to act in his stead, and two other members are present and concur in the exercise of the powers:

And it is hereby declared that you have liberty to report your proceedings and recommendations under this Commission from time to time if you shall judge it expedient so to do:

And, using all due diligence, you are required to report to me in writing under your hands not later than the 31st day of July 1971 your findings and opinions on the matter aforesaid, together with such recommendations as you think fit to make in respect thereof.

Given in Executive Council under the hand of His Excellency the Governor-General this 26th day of January 1971.

P. J. BROOKS, Clerk of the Executive Council.

The "normal" refers to the present site of the instruments. The standard periods for normals are: for temperature 1931-60, for rainfall 1921-50, and for sunshine 1935-60. No normals are available for stations with only short records.

*The sunshine recorder is not located at the station but is in the near vicinity.

NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR DECEMBER 1970

General—Like November, December was warm and predominantly dry. By the end of the month pastures were badly dried up in many areas, causing a drop in dairy production. On the other hand, the settled weather proved favourable for haymaking.

Rainfall—Rainfall was less than three-quarters of the normal value over the greater part of the country. Areas with less than half included northern Northland; and Wellington with southern Manawatu and southern Wairarapa. A considerable area in southern Wairarapa received less than a quarter of the normal; and Mangonui in Northland received less than a tenth.

Rainfall was above normal in Fiordland, Southland, and parts of Otago; the Southland plain being the only area in the country with more than 50 percent above. Rainfall was also somewhat above normal in a number of North Island areas, the largest being Gisborne with Eastern Bay of Plenty.

Persistently low rainfall for November and December was especially marked about Cook Strait, Wellington receiving 2.09 in., Masterton 1.65 in., and Blenheim only 1.17 in. for the 2 months. These totals were all unusually low.

Temperatures—Temperatures were 1–2 degrees above normal, with highest departures in northern districts of the North Island. 1970 has been a particularly warm year in New Zealand.

Sunshine—Sunshine was above normal by 20–60 hours in most northern and western districts of the North Island and also over the southern half of the South Island. Highest departures were recorded in South Canterbury and North Otago.

Eastern districts from Napier to Kaikoura received about 30 hours less than the normal sunshine.

Weather Sequence—For the first 7 days of December, westerly conditions predominated. During the first 2 days, an anticyclone extended from the North Tasman Sea across the North Island and away to the east, while a deep depression was passing to the south, with the associated trough of low pressure crossing New Zealand. Rain was reported on the West Coast and in Southland, Otago, and the Canterbury high country; also in parts of Nelson, Manawatu, Taranaki, and the central North Island. On the following day winds were mainly westerly to south-westerly, with rain persisting on the Southland coast and scattered light showers on the West Coast. On the 4th and 5th, a depression south-west of Tasmania moved south-eastward and later eastward, causing rain to spread again to Southland and also Otago. Gales were reported in many districts. During the next 2 days another depression passed far to the south, while the associated trough of low pressure crossed the country. Rain was reported throughout the South Island, except in North Canterbury and most of Marlborough, but it was light in eastern districts. Manawatu, Taranaki, and the central North Island also reported some rain.

On the 8th, an anticyclone centred to the south-east of Tasmania extended on to New Zealand and during this and the next 4 days it moved slowly on to the South Island. The weather remained settled apart from isolated showers.

On the 13th and 14th, a complex depression over the Tasman Sea moved first on to the South Island, then on to the North Island, bringing general rain. On the following day the depression was centred near Auckland, with an anticyclone to the south-east of the South Island; and rain still affected most of the North Island. During the following 2 days the depression moved away to the east and light southerlies spread over the country. Rain persisted at first in the central North Island and was also reported over a considerable part of the South Island.

On the 18th, an anticyclone was centred to the west of the North Island bringing settled weather. During the next 2 days a small depression crossed the North Island while another moved eastward to the south of the South Island. Rain was fairly general but light. From the 21st to the 23rd an anticyclone extended south-eastward from a centre near Auckland, while pressures were low to the south-west. In the north-westerlies rain was reported at times on the West Coast and on the Southland coast. During the next two days a depression passed far to the south and the associated trough of low pressure brought fairly general rain, light in many places.

During the last 6 days of the month an anticyclone over the Central Tasman Sea moved on to New Zealand and then slowly eastward towards the Chatham Islands. Sunny weather was reported over most of the country during this holiday period. However, pressures were low to the north, and easterlies brought rain to some northern and eastern districts of the North Island. Rain was heaviest on the 28th with the passage of a small depression to the north.
