No. 333

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book The Beauty Trap by Jeanne Rejaunier, published by New English Library, London.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS is the story of three beautiful models, their pilgrimage to New York and their struggle for fame and fortune. The "trap" is in having to live the life expected of a beautiful model—a life of easy virtue. The story is a long one and somewhat tedious.

The Tribunal classifies it as not indecent.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book Some Like it Black by Elgin Jones, published by Ace Books, New York.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS is a story of a one time negro football star and athlete who left the game early because of an injury. Tough, handsome, and aggressive he went to Mexico to write his story. But there he drank, loved, and fought hard—until he met and loved a negress who restored his sense of values.

There is an emphasis on sexual perversion and cruelty and taking the book as a whole we consider that a restriction is justified, as it could be harmful to young persons.

The Tribunal classifies the book as indecent in the hands of persons under 18 years of age.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book Mistresses by John Philip Lundin, Ph.D., published by New English Library, London.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THE author permits himself to be described by his publishers as "possibly the greatest male lover in modern history". This book is the sequel to another book entitled Women.

The theme is described in a sentence on the first page: "I am a middle-aged bachelor and when I lie awake upon my lonely bed I keep company with the ghosts of women I have known". The publishers' further claim that the author reveals sexual secrets that few have ever discussed before is not justified by the contents of the book, which is erotic but not perverse, not ill written but far from memorable, and not the sort of book against which, we believe, the statute requires us to take action.

The Tribunal classifies the book as not indecent.

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book Make the Love Tree Grow by Martin O'Neill, published by Ace Books, New York.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

A competent enough novel of its kind this book has a theme based on racial tension overlaid by a story of incest. It is not the extreme kind of book to which adults should be denied access but we are inclined to think that there might be some danger to adolescents in its recital of antisocial practices. Though this danger is slight we consider that a restriction is justified.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS is an unusual book about a young woman who becomes involved in a lesbian relationship, a young man who is already involved in a homosexual relationship with an older man, and how these two young people fall in love and manage to escape from their entanglements.

It is told reasonably skilfully and is not in itself likely to be in any way harmful. There is a certain amount of specific description of homosexual activity which we are inclined to think is unsuitable for young people and which would require appreciable literary or sociological merit to outweigh it.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS book seeks to "fulfil its purpose of recording one of the most permissive aspects of the sexy sixties" by "taking you on a sneaky inspection of lovely young women", playing the voyeur from every angle. The book's 140 pages contain photographs and an occasional minimal comment.

The tone of the book degenerates as it goes on and the photographs become increasingly salacious, ugly, and obscenely posed. The book obviously caters for prurient tastes.

The Tribunal classifies the book as indecent.

No. 339

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book The Pictorial Guide to Sexual Intercourse by I. Schwenda and T. Leuchner, published by Pent R. Books, New York.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THE text of this book is translated from the German of Istvan Schwenda and Thomas Leuchner with a sensible foreword by L. R. O'Conner. The main part of the book consists of some 100 colour photographs of a young man and woman in the various positions of sexual intercourse.

The subject is legitimate and the pictorial method justifiable, but with such books—and the Tribunal has now considered five—there are considerable differences in quality and tone. What the Tribunal has already said in decision No. 200 on Sexual Techniques by Morgens Toft applies in the case of the book now before us. These photographs have restraint, beauty and charm; the dignity of the format is marred only by the hyperboles of the publisher on the cover; nor does this book display any of those features (crude colour, exaggerated poses, pertness of tone, the wearing of garments) which led the Tribunal to reject Making Love in Living Colour and Love Positions (see decisions No. 222 and 223).

Although the price of $15 (possibly more in New Zealand) should be high enough to prevent children from buying this book, to be consistent the Tribunal keeps to the wording of decision No. 200.

The Tribunal classifies this book as indecent in the hands of persons under 16 years of age unless such persons are being instructed by parents or professional advisers.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS novel tells of the double life of a Japanese woman doctor—by day running her gynaecological clinic, at night a prowling prostitute, revenging herself for the rape she had suffered as a young girl by injecting her clients with syphilis.

This unlikely tale is related with much emphasis on sadistic detail laced with gory and unpleasant medical incidents. It is redeemed by no conceivable literary or social worth.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THE jackboot girls are the Wolverines, an all-female battalion of Himmler's SS in war-time Germany.

There is little story—just a succession of unrelated episodes which are a singular mixture of sex and sadism, quite repellent, with characters who are mere puppets of the author's fantasies. It has no redeeming literary merit and its purpose is plainly pornographic.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

PROGRAMMED learning texts are very much in vogue nowadays, and this is a rather light hearted anonymous spoof on them, with a sexual theme. It is all rather amusing and we doubt if it will be of any practical use to anyone misguided enough to take it seriously.

The Tribunal classifies this book as not indecent.

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by Transworld Publishers Ltd. for a decision in respect of the book Portnoy's Complaint by Philip Roth, published by Transworld Publishers Ltd., London.

Mr R. A. Heron, solicitor of Messrs Swan, Davies, McKay, and Co., appeared on behalf of the applicant and made submissions.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS paperback edition of Philip Roth's much-publicised novel is essentially the same work as that declared not indecent by the Tribunal in its decision No. 201. That hardcover edition has been widely on sale since early in 1970. Mr Heron submitted that the same decision was called for in respect of this later edition and the Tribunal concurs.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book Hokey by Donald Stahl, published by Ace Publishing Corporation, New York.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

Hokey tells of the extraordinary experiences of Clarence Hokey Horner when he finds the secret of how to take time trips out of his defeated early middle age into fantasies of bizarre sexual adventure. The description of his sexual entanglements is, in places, genuinely comic, but there is in the book as a whole such a crudeness in the assault made on the mind and the senses by its lewdness that the book must be considered indecent.

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book As the Naked Wind from the Sea by Gustav Sandgren, published by Universal Tandem Publishing Co., London.

There was no appearance of the applicant; Mr M. R. Camp, solicitor of Messrs Phillips, Shaylor-George, and Co., appeared on behalf of the distributors and made submissions.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS Swedish novel tells of a young man's sexual initiation by a group of girls on a summer holiday island, with his family acting as earnest sponsors of the process.

Many will find offensive the claustrophobic atmosphere of the novel's treatment of sex as social hygiene, but adults are not likely to be injuriously affected by it. Younger readers, however, could be so affected. Mr Camp submitted that an age restriction would be appropriate and we agree.

The Tribunal classifies this book as indecent in the hands of persons under 18 years of age.

The "normal" refers to the present site of the instruments. The standard periods for normals are: for temperature 1931-60, for rainfall 1921-50, and for sunshine 1935-60. No normals are available for stations with only short records.

*The sunshine recorder is not located at the station but is in the near vicinity.

NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR JULY 1971

General—Pressures were unusually high to the south of the country in July, with a higher mean pressure at Campbell Island than at Kaitiaki. This resulted in an exceptionally high frequency of winds from an easterly quarter, as in previous months back to November, with considerable cloud and rain in some eastern districts but mainly low rainfall and fairly sunny conditions elsewhere. In eastern districts of the North Island and in Northland some farmers found the weather too wet for stock. Elsewhere unusually frosty weather cut back growth but stock were healthy. Lambing commenced under favourable conditions in most districts.

Depressions over Northland caused severe gales there on the 2nd and 26th, and these were reported also in other northern districts on the 2nd.

Rainfall—Rainfall was below normal over the greater part of the country by about 30 percent. In parts of Southland it was less than a quarter of the normal value. It was above normal in eastern districts from East Cape to Ashburton, in most of Coromandel with parts of Bay of Plenty, and in northern Northland. An area on the East Coast around Tokomaru Bay had a surplus of more than 50 percent.

Temperatures—Temperatures were mainly close to normal. However, in some coastal areas of Gisborne and Hawke's Bay they were 1°C warmer than normal. This was the first month since September 1970 for which temperatures over the country were not well above normal. Snow affected many parts of the South Island on the 14th.

Sunshine—The North Island, excluding Northland, eastern districts, and parts of Wellington, was favoured with 40–65 hours sunshine above normal. Parts of the West Coast and Otago were similarly favoured. Relatively high sunshine was recorded at Ohakune (148 hours) and Levin (164 hours). The only areas with sunshine below normal, by 15–40 hours, were parts of Hawke's Bay and Wairarapa besides Banks Peninsula.

Weather Sequence—At the beginning of the month an anticyclone was centred to the south-east of the Chatham Islands while a depression lay to the west of Northland and winds were from the north-east. Rain was reported mainly in northern and eastern districts of the North Island. As this depression advanced on to Northland on the 2nd it developed a second centre to the south-west of the first. Gales were reported in northern districts with heavy rain there, and the rain became general over the North Island, extending also to parts of Nelson and Marlborough. On the following day the first centre lay to the east and a trough of low pressure was approaching Southland. Rain again affected northern and eastern districts of the North Island and also the West Coast. As the trough advanced over the country rain again became fairly general on the 4th. With pressures low to the east, showery southerly conditions affected mainly the North Island on the following day. On the 6th the depression near the Chatham Islands deepened, and freshening southerlies brought colder weather, also affecting eastern districts of the South Island. On the 7th an anticyclone centred to the east of Campbell Island extended on to the South Island and showers were restricted mainly to the Wairarapa, Wellington, parts of Canterbury, and Northland.

The period from the 8th to the 17th was one with a marked predominance of cold southerly winds. The anticyclone to the east of Campbell Island remained almost stationary from the 8th to the 10th, while a depression moved on to Northland with another centre to the east of it. Rain affected Northland while showers were reported from East Cape to Christchurch. For the next 3 days, with pressures low near Northland, showers persisted in the same districts. However, a trough of low pressure crossed the South Island and showers were also reported on the West Coast, besides Southland and Otago. By the 14th the depression was well away to the east and the trough of low pressure was now over the North Island while an intense anticyclone moved on to the South Island. Rain continued in Northland and eastern districts of both Islands, besides South Taranaki, Wellington, and Southland. Snow was reported in parts of Otago and Canterbury. Southerlies persisted for 3 more days as the anticyclone remained almost stationary, with showers affecting eastern districts of the North Island and Wellington, besides Northland at times.

From the 18th to the 20th the anticyclone was centred near the Chatham Islands while a depression covered the Tasman Sea. Showers still persisted in eastern districts as far south as Timaru and also in Northland. Conditions remained somewhat similar during the next 2 days. However, on the 23rd and 24th the anticyclone, still centred near the Chatham Islands, extended over the whole country and the weather was fine. The anticyclone still remained almost stationary, while on the 25th and 26th a depression over the Tasman Sea deepened and became complex, with one centre close to Northland. Rain spread over the North Island, Marlborough, and Nelson, with some heavy falls in Northland and Bay of Plenty. Northland also reported violent gales with considerable damage. Gusts up to 100 mph were recorded at Cape Reinga.

The winds changed to westerlies from the 27th to the 30th as a deep depression from the Tasman Sea moved past Southland followed by another smaller centre. During these 4 days considerable rain was reported west of the main ranges and also in Southland and Nelson. On the last day of the month a ridge of high pressure brought generally fine weather.
