promoters of magazines of this kind and suggested that "a responsible attitude would be evident in a concern to ensure that any university publication, in the balance of its content, the nature of its wit, and the skill of its satire, came within the bounds of decency, as these may be inferred from earlier judgments of the Tribunal".

The promoters of Pizzle-Rot provide no evidence of any such responsible attitude: the journal is too unsophisticated to warrant consideration in such terms. It is flat, dull, and unoriginal, informed only by a desire to shock. Such a childish effusion as this does not, in our view, merit more serious attention than we would accord the graffiti on the walls of public lavatories. The promoters have done themselves no credit by putting out this journal. It represents a kind of self expression that most people leave behind before their undergraduate days begin. The paper is disgusting and unpleasant, but we do not consider it harmful. Most people's reaction to it, if it affected them at all, would be one of contempt.

Accordingly we do not ban this journal altogether. But even if it is not thought to be grossly offensive by most readers, its contents and presentation make it quite unsuitable for younger persons.

The Tribunal classifies this journal as indecent in the hands of persons under 16 years.

No. 375

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Secretary for Justice for a decision in respect of the book Women by John Philip Lundin, published by New English Library, London.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS is a paperback book, one copy only of which was supplied to the Tribunal resulting in a delay in the reading by members and so in the giving of this decision.

The Tribunal recently considered a book called Mistresses by the same author (see Decision No. 335) which was said to be a sequel to Women. Both books place considerable emphasis on sexual experiences. They are of a similar pattern and the decision of the Tribunal in this present application is the same as given in the earlier one and for the same reasons.

The Tribunal classifies this book as not indecent.

No. 374

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Secretary for Justice for a decision in respect of the magazine Pizzle-Rot (Capping Magazine) produced by Lincoln College Students' Association.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Written submissions were made by the Society for Promotion of Community Standards and by Mr I. C. J. Polson, solicitor, on behalf of the Lincoln College Students' Association.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

Pizzle-Rot, described as the Independent Lincoln College Journal of Agriculture, was submitted to the Tribunal by the Secretary for Justice on 30 July 1971.

The Lincoln College Students' Association was not represented at the hearing but written submissions dated 3 November 1971 were made by its solicitors. The Tribunal delayed its decision until the submissions of the Association had been received and considered. Mr H. T. Robinson, President of the Society for Promotion of Community Standards by letter dated 6 September 1971 made submissions. The Society's contention is that an indecent tone permeates the whole magazine, and that it should be banned.

In our classification No. 178 of Masskerade, 1969, we said that a responsible attitude was necessary on the part of

No. 376

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book The Chartham Letters by Robert Chartham, PH.D., published by New English Library, London.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THE subtitle of this book describes it as a collection of intimate questions that the author of Sex Manners for Advanced Lovers has been asked by his frankest readers. In our classification No. 205 dated 20 May 1970 and gazetted 4 June 1970 we found that book to be indecent, questioning its honesty of purpose. We said "The author may not be blameworthy, but if he is not his publishers are".

There may be some grounds, as in the cover-advertisement which the subtitle constitutes, for the same objection to be levelled against The Chartham Letters, but they are very slight. We do not, in this case, regard the popular and unscientific language of the answers, matching that of most of the questions, as a serious objection. Dr Chartham has acquired some standing in the field of popular writing about sex, and we concede that there is a place for information of this kind, popularly presented for persons unlikely to approach other sources. This book is written for the average man and woman rather than for the "advanced lover", and in many cases the advice and information it contains could be very helpful.

The Tribunal classifies this book as not indecent.

No. 377

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book Lesbian Secrets by Evelyn Theodor, published by Luxor Press Ltd., London.

There was no appearance of the applicant. Mr Downey, solicitor, appeared on behalf of the publishers and made submissions.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THE Tribunal was invited by Mr Downey to consider this book as comparable to another on the same subject from the same publisher which was allowed restricted circulation in decision No. 125. The Tribunal said of that earlier book "The subject is treated in a scholarly and objective fashion (attested by careful chapter notes, bibliographies, and index) calculated rather to increase understanding than to pander to prurience".

Lesbian Secrets, however, lacks entirely a scholarly apparatus and the dominant effect of the book is like that of several other books which the Tribunal has rejected as pseudo-scientific assemblages of case-history and fictional experiences. The text, the use made of illustrations, and the cover material all indicate that a prurient response and not an honest inquiring one is sought from readers.

The Tribunal classifies this book as indecent.

No. 378

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Secretary for Justice for a decision in respect of the book Sex Manners for Men by Robert Chartham, PH.D., published by New English Library, London.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS is a plain, even prosaic, presentation of sexual information and technique. The "uniqueness" claimed for it on the cover is more a matter of its particular emphasis as part of a series of sex guides than of any special merit or insight. It cannot be said to deal with sex in a manner injurious to the public good.

The Tribunal classifies this book as not indecent.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

No. 379

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Secretary for Justice for a decision in respect of the book Sex Manners for Single Girls by Dr Georges Valensin, published by New English Library, London.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

ONE copy only of this paperback was supplied to the Tribunal and accordingly the decision has been delayed.

The book written by Dr Georges Valensin who is described on the cover as an eminent French sexologist gives advice on the sexual problems of today's unmarried woman. The book is frank and explicit and Dr Valensin does endeavour to give a balanced statement and advice on the difficulties likely to be encountered by single girls, as is instanced by the chapters on the advantages and disadvantages of premarital relations.

In the opinion of the Tribunal the book is not indecent but because of the frankness of the writing it feels that it should not be readily available to young people.

The Tribunal classifies it as indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 16 years.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

No. 380

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Secretary for Justice for a decision in respect of the book The Scandal Goddess by William Hegner, published by Dell Publishing Co. Inc., New York.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

The Scandal Goddess is a satirical projection of a well-known and vicious type of character assassin who operates through syndicated gossip columns and sometimes on the air or the television screen as well. It is formula moving-picture material, and a note on the not very restrained cover claims that it is "soon to be a major movie".

This is by no means an unskilful example of its type, credibly taking the principal character through stages of anaesthetising of conscience and first disciplined and then unbridled attacks on victims and rivals, and finally disaster. Stripped of adventitious but quite extensive and obscene passages The Scandal Goddess will probably make a major movie, though an unkind one, for some of the victims are prominent and recognisable people. But the extent of the depravity and off-beat sex motivation of the principal character, Adrienne Drum, remove the story from the realm of reasonable fiction. There is so massive an injection of unusual sex activity and it is so little necessary to the presentation of the character concerned that we find that the book offends against section 11 (1) (f) of the Act, and that there can be no question of its being redeemed under section 11 (2).

The Tribunal classifies this book as indecent.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

No. 381

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book Wham by Mike Stout, published by Sphere Books Ltd., London.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THE title of this book is derived from the name of a women's liberation movement called We Hate All Males, a militant movement—militant to the extent of throwing all males out of Parliament and taking over the Government of the U.K. with its leader, Lydia, a female Hitler surrounded by female storm troopers and secret police women. The story is a satire, in places amusing, on this new form of women's activity. The treatment of lesbianism and violence is necessary for the main satirical purpose of this book and the emphasis on these is not of sufficient significance to move the Tribunal to class the book as indecent.

The Tribunal classifies this book as not indecent.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

No. 382

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book Acts of Love by Dr Jan Berghoff, published by Modern Age Design Ltd., London.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

Acts of Love is a collection of 36 photographs of a couple in various positions of sexual intercourse, together with a straightforward explanatory text. It is similar in style and tone to those already passed with minimum restriction by the Tribunal (Decisions 200, 367, 368) but goes further. Described on the cover as "erotic variations to inspire men and arouse women", some of the techniques pictured belong to more advanced (or more primitive) stages of sexual activity and it seems appropriate to restrict this book to adults. It is essentially of a private nature and some of the pictures are acceptable only within the context and intention of the book as a whole; although this must not affect our decision, individual public display of certain pages could constitute an offence against the law.

The Tribunal classifies this book as indecent in the hands of persons under 18 years.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

No. 383

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book Confessions of a Window Cleaner by Timothy Lea, published by Sphere Books Ltd., London.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS paperback novel is the rather light-hearted, almost frivolous (and appallingly written) tale of the amatory adventures of a window cleaner. So far do they predominate that one might say window cleaning was his hobby rather than his occupation, and window cleaners would seem to have a greater supply of available and willing women to hand than people in almost any other occupation.

Treated as sheer entertainment this novel is unlikely to corrupt any mature reader; younger readers may be tempted to accord it a greater degree of verisimilitude.

The Tribunal classifies this book as indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 16 years.

R. S. V. SIMPSON, Chairman.

No. 384

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the book The New Female Sexuality by Manfred F. De Martino, published by new English Library, London.

There was no appearance of the applicant nor of the publisher's representative in New Zealand. Accordingly no submissions were made.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS book is introduced as a report on the author's study of one segment of females: social nudists and potential nudists. Its most notable feature is that the participants' responses are given in direct speech. In places the profuse reporting of these responses seems to have left behind analysis of them and to overshadow the presentation of the findings of the study. The nature of some of the behaviour described, the sheer volume of the citations, and their intimacy and explicitness all lead to the view that restriction of the book's circulation is required.

The Tribunal classifies this book as indecent in the hands of persons under 18 years.

NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR OCTOBER 1971

General—October was marked by an unusually high frequency of north-westerly winds. It was a wet month, and in parts of the North Island, especially eastern districts, it was too wet for the farmers. Conditions were better in the South Island, with good growth.

Violent north-westerly gales buffeted parts of Otago on the 27th, with a gust to 98 mph at Dunedin Airport.

Rainfall—Rainfall was above normal over nearly the whole of the North Island and over the South Island except for Banks Peninsula and the Canterbury Plains north of Timaru, and parts of Otago and Southland. Marlborough, Central and Southern Hawke's Bay with parts of Wairarapa, and parts of the South Island high country received two to four times the normal value.

The period from the 18th to the 24th was particularly wet over the North Island during the passage of three deep depressions. The second of these brought falls of up to 200 mm to Wairarapa and Marlborough on the 20th; and the third brought falls of up to 300 mm to Central Hawke's Bay on the 23rd, with serious flooding.

Temperatures—Temperatures were mainly close to normal. However, in some eastern districts from Timaru to Napier and in parts of Wellington and Manawatu they were $\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}\text{C}$ above normal; while in the Canterbury high country and parts of Buller and Nelson they were the same amount below normal.

Sunshine—Sunshine was close to normal except in Wairarapa and the Thames - Bay of Plenty area, where it was up to 30 hours below normal.

Weather Sequence—For the first 2 days of October an anticyclone was centred over and later to the east of the North Island, while depressions passed to the south-west. In the north-westerlies rain was reported west of the ranges in both islands. The pressure distribution remained similar on the following day, with a particularly deep depression passing to the south-west and the associated trough of low pressure, crossing the country. Rain now extended also east of the ranges. Many thunderstorms were reported. During the 4th and 5th a depression crossed Otago and Southland with further associated troughs affecting the remainder of the country. As the depression moved northward easterlies affected the area south of Christchurch with rain in the east; elsewhere most of the rain still fell west of the ranges. However, a southerly change set in with rising pressures and on the 6th the weather cleared over the southern half of the South Island. During the next 2 days southerlies persisted over the North Island as a depression formed on a trough east of Auckland and moved southward. The weather remained unsettled over the North Island with rain also extending to a considerable part of the South Island on the 8th.

Westerly conditions set in again on the 9th and 10th as a deep depression passed to the south, while another trough crossed New Zealand. Rain was reported again mainly west of the ranges and also in Southland. There were some considerable falls in Bay of Plenty. Conditions remained very similar on the 11th. However, on the 12th a south-westerly change occurred, with some rain in most districts. From the 13th to the 16th an anticyclone was moving across the North Island while pressures were low to the south-west. Considerable rain was reported at times on the West Coast and in the Alps, but elsewhere the weather was mainly settled.

The period from the 17th to the 26th was particularly unsettled over the North Island with considerable cyclonic activity there. On the 17th a trough associated with a depression to the south crossed the South Island and moved on to the North Island. Rain still affected most of the West Coast, Nelson, and the North Island mainly west of the ranges. On the following day, as a depression formed on the front and crossed the North Island, the rain became concentrated there. As another depression formed over the north Tasman Sea on the 19th rain persisted in the north. On the following day, as this depression moved down the west coast of the North Island, rain spread over most of the country, with some considerable falls in Wairarapa and Marlborough. Conditions remained somewhat similar but with lighter rain as the depression moved through Cook Strait on the 21st, and a third depression developed over the north Tasman Sea. This depression crossed the North Island rather slowly on the 22nd and 23rd with further rain. Heavy falls were reported in Central Hawke's Bay with flooding. Light rain persisted in the east of the North Island as the depression moved away to the Chatham Islands on the 24th. On the following day a shallow depression crossed Northland with some rain there, while a cold front affected most of the South Island. This cold front continued its progress on the 26th, with rain confined mainly to eastern districts.

Westerly conditions set in once again on the 27th and 28th as a very deep depression passed close to Macquarie Island, while the associated trough of low pressure brought rain to most districts, except near the east coast. Particularly violent north-westerly gales buffeted Otago. A depression formed on the trough near Northland and during the last 3 days scattered rain was still reported as pressures rose slowly with the advance of an anticyclone over the Tasman Sea.
