No. 837

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Seven Seas Publishing Pty. Ltd. for a decision in respect of the following books: Sexual Fantasy by Ricardo Barros, published by Luxor Press Ltd., London; The Submissive by R. J. B. Krauss, published by Luxor Press Ltd., London; Way of a Virgin by L. C. Brovan, published by Luxor Press Ltd., London.

No appearance by either applicant or distributors, but written submissions were made by the applicant.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

Sexual Fantasy, The Submissive, Way of a Virgin

AS Mr Downey said, in the only submissions made to us, these 3 paperback books can be considered together, although they are each slightly different in tone and quite different in subject matter.

The first of these describes and explains in psychoanalytic fashion various common and not so common fantasies or dreams on sexual subjects. The second is a short historical survey of woman's alleged sexual subservience to man. The third is a collection of translations from folktales on sexual subjects.

Each of these books is serious in intent displaying an honest purpose without any special appeal to prurience or any likely corrupting effect.

The Tribunal classifies each of these books as not indecent.

No. 838

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of a reference by the Magistrate's Court, Auckland, for a decision in respect of the publication. N.Z. Truss/Sunday Spews published by the Auckland University Students' Association.

Mr K. A. Palmer appeared on behalf of publishers and made submissions.

Mr J. O. Upton appeared on behalf of the Police and made submissions.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THIS publication, which was the capping magazine of the Auckland University Students' Association, published in May 1974, comes before us by way of reference from the Magistrate's Court, Auckland, under s. 12 (1) of the Act. Submissions were made to the Tribunal on behalf of the Police and the association. The Police case was based on a complaint made at the time the magazine was sold in the streets, and centred on five particular "advertisements". For the association, submissions were made by Mr K. A. Palmer, Senior Lecturer in Law, who has acted for the Association for some years as censor of both its weekly magazine Craccum and the annual capping magazine. Some deletions had been made, and Mr Palmer claimed that he had based his passing of the magazine on his familiarity as a teacher of Criminal Law "with current standards accepted by the Tribunal" and also "with the current standards of obscenity applied by the Courts throughout New Zealand and overseas".

We were informed that 30,000 copies were printed, of which some 15,000 were sold and the remainder recycled. It is no longer obtainable.

The magazine is a take-off in satiric vein of two well-known weekly papers, emanating from the same stable. The style, make-up, and subjects covered bear a close resemblance to these papers, which may be considered fair targets for satiric attack on their standards of journalism and the types of advertising technique employed.

By section 11 (i) (a) the Tribunal is required to take into account in determining indecency of "the dominant effect of the book or sound recording as a whole". The advertisements to which particular attention was drawn form a very small part of the whole, and would not necessarily attract the attention of every reader. On their own they are insufficient to require us to find the magazine obscene.

The Police case went on to argue that the magazine as a whole was indecent because it was widely sold at low cost to an unrestricted market. Given the nature of the magazine and the methods of distribution employed it is clear that any intention to sell only to adults would be extremely difficult to carry out, and it must be considered as having been generally available.

One other matter we must take into account is the honesty of purpose of the producers of the magazine. It seems clear that a serious effort was made to avoid offending against the provisions of the Act, and the general effect of the whole publication may be seen as a quite serious satire on a certain type of popular journalism. It is very different in tone—again, taken as a whole—from certain capping magazines with which the Tribunal has dealt in earlier years (see, for example, Decision No. 374 in 1971) on which an age restriction was placed. The imposition of an age restriction for publications of this kind is only a theoretical exercise as by the time they came before the Tribunal their distribution has long ceased.

What the Tribunal has to weigh up is whether, taking into account all the various matters referred to in s. 11 (i) of the Act, the publication deals with matters of sex in a manner injurious to the public good. On balance we believe that it does not fall into this category and we accordingly classify N.Z. Truss/Sunday Spews as not indecent.
