No. 845

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Acting Comptroller of Customs for decisions in respect of the following publications: Penthouse International Magazine, Vol. 5, No. 11 and 12, Vol. 6, No. 1, 2, 3, and 4, published by Penthouse International Ltd. of New York.

Date of Hearing: 2 April 1975 at Wellington.

Mr M. G. Howley appeared on behalf of the Acting Comptroller of Customs and made submissions. Mr R. A. Heron appeared on behalf of the distributors and made submissions.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

THE functions of the Tribunal set out in section 10 of the Act are to determine the character and classify any book submitted to it. Each issue of a magazine is treated as a separate book.

In the past a number of issues of Penthouse have been submitted to the Tribunal for individual consideration. Pursuant to section 15A as enacted by section 5 of the Indecent Publications Amendment Act 1972 a restriction order was made in respect of Penthouse (Decision No. 830, New Zealand Gazette, 24 October 1974). That order remains in force for 2 years from 18 October 1974 and states that issues of Penthouse during that period are to be treated as indecent in the hands of persons under 18 years of age.

The Comptroller of Customs has now submitted to these six further issues of Penthouse.

These are submitted in ordinary form for decision as to whether they are indecent or not or for a decision as to their classification. The form of the application and the advertisement of the application do not amount to an application under section 15A (4) for a revocation or variation of the terms of the restriction order. Mr Howley for the Comptroller, in his submissions at the hearing, asked us to vary the restriction order "to provide an 'unconditionally indecent' classification".

Mr. Heron submitted that there being no formal application under section 15A (4) the Tribunal was not empowered to deal with any of the issues before it. Indeed, as we understood him, he submitted that while a restriction order remained in force the Tribunal has no authority to deal with any issue of that serial publication except by way of an application under section 15A (4).

We reject Mr Heron's submission although we agree that we are not empowered, in the present state of this application, to revoke or vary the restriction order already made.

The purpose of the restriction order is to provide an additional authority to the Tribunal, for the purpose of giving a basis, for up to 2 years, for future dealings with a serial publication, for the guidance of those concerned and to avoid the necessity of frequent applications to the Tribunal for individual classifications. It does not, in our view, take away or cut down the functions of the Tribunal under section 10 of the Act to determine and classify any individual issues. If this were not so a classification less than indecent would be a charter to the publisher to do as he liked subject only to variation of the restriction order.

The words in brackets in section 15A (3) namely "(other than an issue whose character has been determined by the Tribunal or the Supreme Court)" clearly imply that a separate and individual classification can be made in respect of an issue of a periodical subject to a restriction order.

The Tribunal has authority, then, to consider the issues now before it for individual determination and classification under section 10.

The six issues are all of the American edition of Penthouse, which generally has a more substantial literary content than the English edition. The only American edition included in decision 830 was classified as indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18 years. As in that decision, the Tribunal has carefully considered each issue as a whole, weighing the balance between the serious and that which dealt with sexual matters in frank, and occasionally objectionable manner. In decision 830 we noted a continuing tendency towards concentration on the sexual content of the magazine, which indeed led us to declare some of the issues considered at the time to be indecent. These, however, were all English editions, and we do not consider that the present issues represent a deterioration in the general balance of the American edition.

The Tribunal finds each issue to be indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18 years.

L. M. GREIG, Chairman.

10 June 1975.
