Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by Waverley Publishing Company for a decision in respect of the following publication: The Debauched Hospodar and Memoirs of a Young Rakehell by Guillaume Apollinaire and published by Holloway House Publishing Co. of Los Angeles:

Date of Hearing: 30 July 1975, at Wellington.

No appearance of the applicant but written submissions were received.

Mr P. E. Leloir and Mr K. G. Murray appeared on behalf of the Comptroller of Customs.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

This is an English translation of two works by Guillaume Apollinaire originally published in French in 1907 as Les onze mille verges and Les exploits d'un jeune Don Juan. This edition which was first published in 1967, and has quite a substantial introduction on Apollinaire's life and work, and presumably the same translation as that dealt with in decision No. 15 of 24 February 1965. That decision classified the book as “indecent unless circulation is restricted to persons professionally engaged in the study of abnormal psychology”.

Considering this again, after more than ten years, the Tribunal is now inclined to the view that this was an unduly restrictive classification which probably took insufficient account of the importance of Apollinaire as a French writer of the early 20th century. He is best known as a poet with a very wide and deep influence on the surrealist movement, in both art and literature, a movement of which he was, if not exactly the founder, a major progenitor, and his influence has extended steadily since his death in 1918. Critics have taken the view that the two works (which are very different) were both parodies, in the one case of the works of the Marquis de Sade, and the other of a symbolist novel dealing with a boy's first sexual experiences. High-spirited and exaggerated for effect, they are unlikely to have a depraving effect. They should certainly be available to students of literature, of art, and of the pre-World War I Parisian artistic society of which Apollinaire was a prominent member—this list could indeed be extended, and we consider these ends are best served by imposing a general age classification. We accordingly find the book indecent in the hands of persons under the age of eighteen years.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by MacMillan Publications Ltd. for a decision in respect of the following publication Snatches & Lays by Sebastian Hogbotel and Simon Ffukes, and published by Sun Books Pty Ltd. of Melbourne, Australia:

Date of Hearing: 16 October 1975, at Wellington.

No appearance of the applicant.

Mr P. E. Leloir and Mr K. G. Murray appeared on behalf of the Comptroller of Customs.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

This is a collection of songs, verses, and limericks, edited and published in Australia. Many of the items are well known in one form or another, as students' or football songs, which have had an oral currency for many decades.

The essence of all such verses is that it should be spoken or sung as the editors note "rowdily, rhythmically and con merito gusto". There is no question of any literary or other merit or importance in this collection.

Many of the items are indecent and there is no redeeming feature in the collection as a whole which would render it acceptable.

The Tribunal classifies this book as indecent.

MAURICE M. GREIG, Chairman.

DIRECTIONS FOR EDUCATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

A REPORT PREPARED BY THE ADVISORY COUNCIL ON EDUCATIONAL PLANNING

This report marks the culmination of the activities of the Educational Development Conference. The Advisory Council has recommended the directions it considers New Zealand education should go in the next 5 or 10 years.

Five principal areas are identified as requiring attention. Education is seen as a lifelong activity, and emphasis is therefore placed on the "foundations"—early childhood education, the school curriculum and special provision for special needs, and parent education.

Special attention is given also to the relationships between the school and the community, the need for close mutual support and co-operation, including understanding and respect for minority cultures.

A key to the quality of education is the people involved in it. Teacher education, the availability of advisory and ancillary staff, as well as resources for materials and research, have a chapter devoted to them.

Since education is seen as a lifelong activity, this is considered at some length. Facets such as accessibility, transfer of credits, and the role of existing institutions are discussed, together with ways in which continuing education could be provided for the whole community.

In discussing the administration and organisation of education, the principle followed is the maximum devolution of authority and responsibility to the agencies and the community, at for instance, school committee and district level.

GROWING TAMARILLOS

Agriculture Bulletin No. 307

Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries

The tamarillo or tree tomato is a native of the Andean region of Peru. The first known record of the tamarillo in New Zealand is in the 1891-92 catalogue of D. Hay and Sons, Auckland.

The commercial production of tamarillos in this country began in a small way more than 50 years ago, but it was not until the supply of tropical fruits such as bananas, pineapples, and citrus from overseas was restricted during World War II that any appreciable quantities were produced for marketing.

In New Zealand this fruit used to be called the tree tomato. The tree tomato officially had its name changed to "Tamarillo" in January 1967 to provide a more appealing and exotic name, especially for export promotion.

This handy little booklet supplies information on how to grow and care for tamarillo plants.
