GROWING TAMARILLOS

Agriculture Bulletin No. 307

Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries

The tamarillo or tree tomato is a native of the Andean region of Peru. The first known record of the tamarillo in New Zealand is in the 1891-92 catalogue of D. Hay and Sons, Auckland.

The commercial production of tamarillos in this country began in a small way more than 50 years ago, but it was not until the supply of tropical fruits such as bananas, pineapples, and citrus from overseas was restricted during World War II that any appreciable quantities were produced for marketing.

In New Zealand this fruit used to be called the tree tomato. The tree tomato officially had its name changed to "Tamarillo" in January 1967 to provide a more appealing and exotic name, especially for export promotion.

This handy little booklet supplies information on how to grow and care for tamarillo plants.

KILN SCHEDULES FOR NEW ZEALAND TIMBERS

By J. A. KININMONTH and D. H. WILLIAMS
New Zealand Forest Service Information Series No. 69
This 16-page booklet outlines the selection of suitable kiln schedules. The interrelationships of the variables involved in drying timber are set out, along with the requirements to be taken into consideration, such as grade, thickness, width, and end use of a particular species. Both low- and high-temperature drying are discussed and also special kiln treatments such as preliminary steaming, intermediate high-humidity treatment, equalising, and final conditioning.

The kiln schedules are presented in tabular form giving wet and dry bulb temperatures and final conditioning times for various species and moisture contents. Comments are attached to these schedules regarding characteristic features of the kilning of the species and the expected range of drying times.
16 pages. 1974. Price 50c.

MACHINE STRESS GRADING

(An alternative to visual grading of timber for strength)
By I. D. WHITESIDE
This book outlines the need for commercial machine stress grading in New Zealand.
Stress grading studies carried out by the writer in 1967 on radiata pine from Kaingaroa Forest showed that machine stress grading gave better grade recoveries over visual grading hence raised the value of a considerable proportion of the sawn output in framing sizes.

The writer firmly believes that the introduction of machine grading will help overcome the present lack of stress grades in New Zealand. This lack of availability is thought to have been a major cause of timber not being much more widely used as a structural material in competition with concrete and steel.

An informative book for builders, building inspectors, and specifiers to prepare them for the introduction of machine stress graded timber.

THE MAORI AS HE WAS

By ELSDON BEST
Fifty years of public demand since this book was first published resulted in the need for reprints in 1934 and 1952.
The text has been reproduced unchanged but the originals of some of the figures could not be traced and these have been replaced with similar illustrations.

There have been many advances in our knowledge of Maori life since this book first appeared. The work of numerous ethnologists, and more recently archaeologists, has critically examined many of the earlier concepts, confirming some, disproving others, and altering others to varying degrees. No one has yet produced a synthesis of the results of all this scholarship and there is still nothing as comprehensive as this book of Best's to give a general account of the Maori.

This book was first published when Best was 68 and thus represents the accumulated knowledge of a lifetime. It has now become a classic introduction to Maori life. Its continued availability should help the reader to obtain a basic background to old-time Maori life which can be extended by further reading.

This bulletin is No. 5 in the Dominion Museum Series.
