Decision No. 3

Decision of the Broadcasting Tribunal

IN the matter of the Broadcasting Act 1976, and in the matter of an application by Independent Broadcasting Company Limited to amend the sound-radio warrant for Radio Waikato (1XW)

BEFORE THE BROADCASTING TRIBUNAL

Members: B. H. Slane (Chairman), Lionel R. Sceats, and Janet C. Somerville.

Hearing at Hamilton on the 27th day of June 1977.

Counsel: I. L. McKay for the applicant; J. B. Stevenson for Independent Publishers Limited and Independent News Limited to support; B. L. Darby for Broadcasting Corporation of New Zealand to oppose; C. M. Nicholson for Radio Hauraki Limited to oppose; P. L. Mortlock for Radio Avon Limited to oppose; R. L. Congreve for Radio i Limited to oppose.

DECISION

Independent Broadcasting Company Limited applied to the Tribunal on 12 May 1977 to amend its sound-radio warrant to delete condition (d) of the warrant by deleting "30%" and substituting "45%". The effect of the amendment would be that the condition would then read—

"The total shareholding by a news company as defined by the News Media Ownership Act 1965, whether as beneficial owner or otherwise and whether by one or more such news companies in Independent Broadcasting Company Limited shall not exceed 45% of the authorised capital of the company."

As a result of certain matters raised during the hearing, the applicant's counsel agreed that the condition should be further amended in any event to delete "authorised" and substitute "issued" before the words "capital" in the condition.

The application was advertised and the Tribunal directed that a notice of the application be delivered by the company to every shareholder. One shareholder made submissions in writing, prior to the hearing, which were made available to counsel at the hearing. The shareholder opposed the granting of the application.

The application was supported by Independent Publishers Limited and Independent News Limited and was opposed by the Broadcasting Corporation and the warrant holders for three private radio stations, Radio Hauraki, Radio i, and Radio Avon.

The applicant set out the shareholding in the company as follows:

R. B. Waddington	38,500
Harding's Holdings Ltd.	2,700
		41,200	(20.6%)
E. E. Butcher	14,000
M. I. Butcher	2,200
G. E. Butcher	2,800
		19,000	(9.5%)
M. Lazarus	2,000
Aviation Enterprises	8,000
		10,000	(5.0%)
Independent Publishers Ltd.	60,000		(30.0%)
Balance held by the public	69,800		(34.9%)
		Capital 200,000	(100.0%)

It was uncontested that Harding's Holdings Limited is controlled by Mr R. B. Waddington, and Aviation Enterprises Limited by Mr Lazarus. The four major shareholding groups (called "Waddington", "Butcher", "Lazarus", and "I.P.L.") have been shareholders since the incorporation of the company.

Messrs Butcher and Lazarus intimated late in 1976 that their groups wished to sell their shares. They offered the shares for sale to Independent Publishers Limited which agreed to purchase them, subject to approval being obtained to the necessary amendment to the warrant. The acquisition of these shares would have brought the holding of Independent Publishers Limited up to 89,000 shares or 44.5% of the total.

Application for the necessary amendment was made to the Minister of Broadcasting on 20 October 1976, pursuant to s. 79 of the Broadcasting Act 1973 which was then in force. The Minister accepted the submissions made to it that Independent Publishers Limited would provide strong management advice and experience and their increased shareholding would provide long term stability, but considered that approval of the proposal could be seen as preempting the establishment of the Broadcasting Tribunal and accordingly agreed that Independent Publishers Limited might take up the shareholding of Independent Broadcasting Limited of up to 45% of the capital subject to certain conditions including that voting rights were not to be exercised in respect of a shareholding in excess of 30%. The company would be required to dispose of its shareholding in excess of 30% if the Tribunal did not approve of the increased shareholding. Messrs Lazarus and Butcher retained the voting rights.

The Minister of Broadcasting informed the Tribunal of these facts. The Minister did not inform the Tribunal of any Government policy which could affect the decision of the Tribunal.

The applicant did not rely in any way on the Minister's temporary approval, pending this application, as a ground for the grant of the amendment requested. At the hearing it was made clear to all parties that the Tribunal was dealing with this application on the basis on which it has been lodged, namely, that the amendment of the warrant itself had not been approved by the Minister under the previous legislation and therefore an application to this Tribunal was necessary for the warrant to be amended.

The application for a radio warrant for Radio Waikato was granted by the Broadcasting Authority, under the Broadcasting Authority Act 1968, on 12 May 1970. The warrant provided for the establishment of two relay stations at Puriri and Hangatiki. Subsequently the warrant was amended to delete the provision for relay stations.

The authority imposed a condition that the total shareholding by a news company as defined by the News Media Ownership Act 1965, whether as beneficial owner or otherwise and whether by one or more such news companies in the applicant should not exceed 35% of the authorised capital of the company without the written consent of the authority. As a result of an appeal to the Administrative Division of the Supreme Court by the New Zealand Broadcasting Corporation, the figure of 35% was amended to 30% by the full Court. (It is accepted that the reference was intended to be issued capital.)

It is to be noted that the application by Independent Broadcasting Co. Ltd., in this case is not for the consent of this Tribunal for transfer of shares but for an amendment to the Warrant.

However, since it appeared clear that the application was intended to enable the I.N.L. group to acquire these shares and there was no suggestion that the permission was required in order to transfer shares to other companies outside the I.N.L. group, the parties before us dealt with the application on the basis that the amendment of the warrant was to enable a transfer of shares to I.P.L. not to some other news enterprise.

The application was referred to the Post Office which indicated that, as no technical matters were concerned, it had no objection. If the application were granted by the Tribunal, the necessary certificate would therefore be obtained from the Director-General of the Post Office.

In his submissions in support of the application, Mr McKay referred to the decision of the Broadcasting Authority in relation to an application in which two Auckland newspaper companies were to hold 50% of the shares in an applicant company. In declining that application, the Broadcasting Authority had said that large shareholdings by newspaper companies were undesirable in the public interest.

Mr McKay said that the Authority then had no recent experience of private broadcasting stations and took a cautious approach. It was a general indication of the view at that time. At the Radio Waikato hearing before the Authority Professor Ryan's evidence indicated that 45% of the issued capital would give effective control of a company. Mr McKay submitted that that would be a good thing in this case.

The Broadcasting Authority in its decision said this:

"As to the question of control which would be exercised by Independent Publishers Limited, it is to be observed that section 21 (h) of the Act contains only one of the matters required to be considered by the Authority. It would seem also that the compelling argument produced by Professor Ryan is subject to qualifications mentioned by Professor Penrose elsewhere in the same thesis, and which have been referred to previously. The degree of effectiveness of any dominance capable of being exercised by a resolute group must depend, as Professor Penrose stated, on the indifference of the remainder, and the proposed capital structure is such that there may not be indifference on the part of the other shareholders, particularly in the case of Messrs Waddington, Butcher, and Lazarus who between them hold 50,000 shares in the company, and could themselves comprise the elements of a resolute group. In the circumstances, the Authority has come to the conclusion that the proposals contemplated by the applicant are such that the establishment of a monopoly in the ownership or control of news media has not been proved particularly as the Corporation itself operates the only service at present disseminating news through the medium of radio."

In the judgment of the full Court, Wild C. J. on an appeal by the New Zealand Broadcasting Corporation against the decision of the Authority (unreported, 29 July 1970, p. 15) said:

"It is of course true that 'there may not be indifference', but it is equally true that there may be indifference."

What is quite clear is that controlling 30% of the shareholding is a unified newspaper group, which, if a substantial group of the remaining shareholders do not stand together, might well exercise control of the applicant and which, with the support of the managing director, could undoubtedly exercise that control. If that situation resulted, the company which now controls most of the newspapers published in the region could also control the proposed broadcasting station which aims to make local news one of its principal features."

Mr Paterson the chairman of the applicant, Independent Broadcasting Co. Ltd., (IBC), acknowledged that in practice a 45% holding in the company would give the holder of such shares effective control of the company.

He said that it was intended that the vacancies caused by the resignation of Messrs Butcher and Lazarus would be made up by the appointment of two other persons by the remaining directors and it was not intended that employees or directors of companies in the Independent Newspaper Group form the majority of the board.

Under cross-examination Mr Paterson argued that control of the company was with the directors. However he admitted that the appointment of the new directors by the existing directors would have to be confirmed by the annual meeting at which one company would have 45% of the voting power.

Bearing in mind the spread among members of the public of the remaining shares and that only the Waddington shares comprised a "resolute" group, the newspaper company would be in a position to control the appointment of directors.

The Tribunal has concluded that it is undesirable that this newspaper company should have a significant increase in the shareholding of IBC, the operator of the only private radio station in the area.

The maintenance of competition ultimately involves independence from major degree of common ownership and thus control. The Tribunal considers that in the Waikato area it is in the interests of the listeners that the existing competitive situation be maintained. The private station competes for a radio audience with Radio New Zealand stations. In terms of a local news service it has to compete with the New Zealand Herald, which publishes a Waikato section, two free weekly newspapers, and weekly papers in four district towns. Other newspapers in the area, including the daily afternoon newspaper, the Waikato Times, are owned or controlled by the Independent News Ltd., group of which IPL is a part.

The Tribunal considers it possible that the element of competition would be seriously diminished by the increased shareholding, particularly if difficulty arose in maintaining advertising revenue in either the newspaper or the radio station. There would be compelling pressure brought to bear for some accommodation to be made on advertising rates or in using identical sources of news. It is not accepted that the only difference desirable in news dissemination is a difference of presentation.

Three other private radio stations have strongly opposed the application and do not wish to see the newspaper industry's involvement in radio increased. While the Tribunal has no fixed opinion about the involvement of newspapers in any other situation, it is satisfied that in the position as it exists in Hamilton with effectively only one local afternoon daily newspaper, it is undesirable that the proprietors of that newspaper should have a controlling interest in the shareholding of the only private radio station.

The Tribunal has carefully considered the submissions made for the applicant:

1. Private Radio has a need for continuity of efficient and effective management. Substantial losses were made by Radio Waikato in earlier years and firm managerial control was required for the company to survive and become viable. It is prudent to guard against possible problems which could arise if the management were changed, by having a large public company with a proven record as a substantial shareholder.

Evidence was given of the assistance which Radio Waikato had received from the newspaper company when it suffered serious losses in the first two years of its existence. The fact that this help was forthcoming was, as the objectors pointed out, an argument that works against the application. Even with the 30% interest it proved to be in the interests of the newspaper company and practicable to support the radio station's return to profitability.

Evidence was given of the interest of at least one other private sound-radio warrant holder in acquiring shares. Such a company could have specialised managerial experience. The managerial expertise available from IPL did not appear to be specialised but rather of a general kind. The managerial control of the directors, emphasised by Mr Paterson as independent of IPL, would be available irrespective of the extent of IPL's shareholding.

2. In future there will be closer association between radio and newspaper companies and this will become more likely as news-gathering techniques and equipment become more sophisticated and expensive. There are possible future advantages in a close association with the INL group with its qualified engineering staff and financial resources.

In this respect the evidence was vague and appears not to refer to the immediate future. On the contrary, the evidence of Mr Mason, the managing director of Radio i, indicated that the benefits of association between a radio station and a newspaper company at this stage were more supposition than reality. If such a situation did arise there was no proof that the association would be economically more compelling to the two parties because of 15% higher shareholding by one in the other.

3. It is unrealistic for the company to expect significant help from the newspaper group while the group's shareholding is restricted to 30% of the capital and it can be outvoted by the next three largest shareholders.

The Tribunal is not satisfied that the basis on which it should consider matters of shareholding is that there must be a single major public company with a 45% shareholding in existence in case a radio station strikes economic difficulties. Moreover IPC knew very well, when it undertook its minority shareholding, that there were three other major groups and a large number of small private shareholders. It knew that it could be outvoted by the three largest shareholders. It accepted that position. It is unlikely that it had insufficient commercial understanding to appreciate that the identity of the individual groups of shareholders could change.

4. At present there is a real possibility that some other party might obtain a majority interest and take control of the company.

Neither Mr Paterson, the chairman of the applicant company, nor Mr Wickham, a director of IBC, IPL, and INL, named the persons who were a threat to the company. But accepting that there is a possibility of some party obtaining a majority interest it is open to IPL to find a suitable buyer for the available shares other than a news media company.

5. The company is also exposed to the risk of corporate raiders acquiring shares, giving the company a temporary boost by methods which are not conducive to long-term stability, and then selling its shares. Interest had been shown by persons whom the directors considered fell into that category. The company could be purchased comparatively cheaply.

It must be accepted that there is a risk of takeover bids but the company has been exposed to this risk which was implicit in the basis on which the warrant was applied for. It was open to the directors of IPL, at the time, to assess the position and if necessary to make adequate provision to prevent the control of the company falling into other hands. One would expect that IPL would be in a position to organise opposition to a takeover which is not an unusual feature of commercial life and one in which the directors of the INL group would have some knowledge and expertise.

6. An increased participation of the INL group which publishes the Hamilton afternoon daily newspaper, Waikato Times, would not create a monopoly of ownership or control of news media. The New Zealand Herald and Radio New Zealand, from two commercial stations at Hamilton and Tokoroa, and two television channels, including one with a special section for Waikato advertisers, all compete. Also non-commercial stations, IYW Hamilton, and IYA Auckland and IYC Auckland, could be received in the area.

The Act requires the Tribunal to have regard to the desirability of avoiding monopolies in the ownership or control of news media (section 80 (i)).

The Tribunal does not consider the increased shareholding of the INL group would create a monopoly or control of news media.

However, a monopoly in a particular instance may develop in stages. At one stage the Tribunal might recognise that in dealing with an application such as the present one it must make a decision with the objective of avoiding a tendency towards monopoly.

We do not find it necessary to state whether or not, in this particular case, the stage has been reached where the Tribunal ought to prevent a monopoly developing by assuring the independence of the Radio Waikato station from the newspaper group because, quite apart from the provisions of section 80 (i), we have found it is desirable in the public interest to avoid in the Waikato area the possibility of control of the local private radio station by IPL.

7. Editorial independence in the presentation of news can be preserved while obtaining the advantages of association with a large organisation. A wider gathering and presentation of news would be possible with some avoidance of unnecessary duplication and expense but competition would continue as to which medium would be first with the news on a particular matter.

It is possible to establish editorial independence in the presentation of news within segments of a large organisation. However, editorial independence is also dependent on economic and financial policy exercised by the directors. A decision to make either the newspaper company or the radio station more profitable by cutting editorial budgets may leave editors little independence in deciding the extent and variety of news which they will be free to present.

At present there appears to be no doubt that the radio station is completely independent editorially from the newspaper company. It is however naive to expect the Tribunal to regard competition in matters of news to be confined to deciding which medium would be the first with the news on a particular matter. This battle would seldom be won by the newspaper company as was conceded by Mr Paterson under cross-examination by counsel for Radio Avon.

The evidence does not convince the Tribunal that the association of a radio station and a newspaper company will result in significant avoidance of unnecessary duplication and expense.

The two media are significantly different. The presentation of news is quite different and although as between other competing media some of the sources of news may be similar, in the local area which is most significant it is essential that competition should be maintained for the benefit of listeners in the Waikato area.

As INL policy was expounded to us editors are given complete editorial freedom after appointment. There is of course the question of the appointment of the editor. An editor has to be selected in the first place. It seems desirable to us that the editors of the radio station and the newspaper be selected by different people and without regard to the benefits for a large newspaper group as a whole.

8. Radio New Zealand would benefit from having strong private enterprise competition in Hamilton. It would ensure high standards of broadcasting in the Waikato area.

Competition for Radio New Zealand should not be in any way limited, restricted or fragmented. The Tribunal does not consider the increase in the shareholding of Radio Waikato by IPL would have any effect on the performance of Radio New Zealand in Hamilton.

It was submitted in opposition to the application that section 81 (4) restricts amendments to warrants to those "which in the Tribunal's opinion are necessary in the public interest." The Tribunal does not accept that interpretation of the section. The phrase quoted clearly refers to the addition of new terms and conditions.

The situation with Radio Waikato is an unusual one. The full court specifically reduced the 35% limit fixed by the former Broadcasting Authority to 30%.

Convincing reasons for increasing the shareholding of IPL have not, in the view of the Tribunal, emerged from the hearing. Such a change would not be in the public interest.

The application is therefore declined but the warrant condition is amended to refer to issued capital. It will therefore read:

"The total shareholding by a news company, as defined by the News Media Ownership Act 1965, whether as beneficial owner or otherwise and whether by one or more such news companies in Independent Broadcasting Company Limited shall not exceed 30% of the issued capital of the company."

Dated the 6th day of October 1977.
