No. 894

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by ARTHUR CHARLES TYERS for a decision in respect of the publication The Eternal Triangle to be published by the appellant.

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

Messrs L. M. Greig (Chairman), D. M. Wylie, Mrs L. Edmond, Miss W. M. Rolleston, and Mrs H. B. Dick.

Hearing: 16 March 1978.

Appearances: Mr A. C. Tyers on own behalf.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

This publication comes before the Tribunal in manuscript form for consideration before publication. It comprises a series of sketches in somewhat crude form of the female nude. It is apparently produced as a type of comic strip publication in which the intention is to make jokes about the vaginal area.

The whole publication is ugly and degrading in its treatment of the female form, and is both indecent and insulting to women. There is no redeeming feature and as a picture story book likely to be read by children cannot be classified for any specified age group.

The Tribunal therefore declares this book to be indecent.

No. 895

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the publication Weekend Sex published by Scandinavian Picture.

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

Messrs L. M. Greig (Chairman), D. M. Wylie, Mrs L. Edmond, Miss W. M. Rolleston, and Mrs H. B. Dick.

Hearing: 16 March 1978.

Appearances: Mr P. Leloir for Comptroller of Customs. Miss P. Bartlett. Written submissions from both parties were considered.

DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL

This magazine is a Danish publication comprising a text in Danish, and a series of explicit photographs of sexual activity. It is of a type which has seldom been before the Tribunal and can, we think, be described as hardcore pornography.

It comes before the Tribunal as the importer has disputed forfeiture by the Customs Department. The importer is Miss Bartlett but she is only technically the importer, since the magazine was sent to her unsolicited as an alleged example of sex education material used by Danish authorities in schools.

Miss Bartlett in lengthy submissions to us explained how the book had been sent to her. At that time she had not seen the magazine. After perusing it at the hearing at the invitation of the Tribunal she stated that it was the most obscene book she had ever seen. However, she still sought a "specialist restriction classification" to permit it to be used by the national executive of the Society for Promotion of Community Standards (Inc.). In essence, she wished to retain the magazine for the purposes of the Society and in particular to show it to persons concerned with the education and welfare of children, "so they will be informed as to what depth of depravity sex education can descend, as has happened in Denmark, if there is no parental right of choice or control in the matter."

The magazine is plainly indecent and in itself has no redeeming feature. We do not accept that there is any literary or artistic merit or any medical, legal, political, social or scientific importance whatsoever in this magazine. Its publication in New Zealand would be injurious to the public good, and it is in no way a magazine which has any value in the fields of art, literature, science or learning.

The purposes for which Miss Bartlett seeks a restriction classification do not cause us to change our classification as the laws and attitudes relating to censorship and sex education in New Zealand are quite different to those of the country of the magazine's origin.

The Tribunal declares this magazine to be indecent.

Dated at Wellington this 5th day of May 1978.

LAURENCE M. GREIG, Chairman.

No. 896

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by PLAYBOY PUBLICATIONS INCORPORATED for a decision in respect to the following publications: Oui Volume 6, Nos. 6 and 7 (June and July 1977), published by the above-named applicant:

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

Messrs L. M. Greig (Chairman), D. M. Wylie, Miss W. M. Rolleston, and Mrs H. B. Dick.

Hearing: 8 November 1977.

Appearances: Mr R. A. Heron for Playboy Publications Incorporated. Mr P. E. Leloir for Comptroller of Customs.

DECISION

In their submissions, the Customs Department argued that the dominant effect of these two issues of Oui was similar to that identified by the Tribunal as the principal reason for classifying volume 4, No. 10 as indecent (Decision 854). The Tribunal shares this view and for the same reasons that volume 4, No. 10 was considered unacceptable for adult reading, finds these two issues unacceptable also.

The submission made on behalf of the distributor by Mr Heron did not claim that there had been any great change in the overall content of Oui since the decision made in April 1976. The claim made that new standards have developed, while relevant if a longer time period is taken into account, can hardly apply to a period substantially less than 2 years since the previous decision.

The Tribunal classifies these two magazines as indecent.

Dated this 5th day of May 1978.

Industries Development Commission—Notice No. 1978/4, General Textile Industry Reference, Amended Programme for Public Hearings

1. The Commission advised in the Schedule to its notice No. 1978/2, published in the New Zealand Gazette, No. 15, of 9 March 1978, the commencement dates, order, and content of public hearings to be held in connection with the General Textile Industry Reference.

2. The Commission has agreed to a request by the New Zealand Manufacturers' Federation for deferment of the public hearing (sector hearing No. 5) into woven fabrics and articles (excluding apparel) because of the Federation's participation in an inquiry and public hearing being held by the Australian Industries Assistance Commission.

3. In consequence, the Commission has found it necessary to alter the dates for certain hearings subsequent to sector No. 5. This will not only accommodate the request of the New Zealand Manufacturers' Federation, but will also enable the parties to the hearings to meet promptly the various closing dates for submissions so that the Commission is able to gain full benefit from the views put forward therein and to provide adequate time for the exchange of submissions between parties.

4. The amended commencement dates and order of the public hearings (sector hearings) are set out in the Schedule to this notice. The closing dates for submissions to any of the sector hearings remains at 1 month prior to the commencement of the hearing to which the submission relates.

Dated at Wellington this 11th day of May 1978.

J. B. O'SHAUGHNESSY, Acting Secretary, Industries Development Commission.

P.O. Box 27-046, Wellington.

The "normal" refers to the present site of the instruments. Standard period for normals is 1941-1970. No normals are available for stations with only short records.

*Indicates that the sunshine recorder is not located at the station but is in the near vicinity.

A rain day is a day with rainfall equal to or greater than 0.1 mm.

Where the extremes of temperature and rainfall have occurred more than once during the month, the date of the first occurrence is given.

NOTES ON THE WEATHER FOR MARCH 1978

General—March was the third consecutive month with pressures above normal over the whole of New Zealand. Winds were predominantly westerly over the whole country, stronger over the South Island than to the north of New Zealand. The month was sunny, warm, and dry in most areas apart from the West Coast and parts of Southland. Rain at the beginning and towards the end of the month brought some relief to areas that had been experiencing drought conditions since the beginning of the year. Throughout the country, overall hydro storage had risen to about 48 percent of capacity by the end of the month. Lake levels in Canterbury and Otago rose markedly during the last week. Most farmers reported some grass growth during the month, but many were feeding hay to keep stock in condition. Lack of substantial rainfall during the month could have a serious effect on the growth of winter feed in many areas.

Rainfall—The only areas with above normal rainfall were the West Coast and parts of Southland and inland Otago. Some areas of Northland had less than 10 percent of their normal month's rain, and many districts of both the North and South Islands had only 25 to 50 percent of their normal rainfall.

On the 3rd a severe thunderstorm in the Bay of Plenty brought heavy rain to the Tauranga area. Nearly 41 mm was recorded in 30 minutes during the evening, and in the 24-hour period up to 9 a.m. on the 4th 133 mm was recorded.

A state of emergency was declared in the Haast area when rivers swollen by flood waters broke their banks on the 27th. Many families were evacuated and trampers were trapped in huts. The area was isolated by land slips and surface flooding on roads into the area. People were stranded in huts on the Milford Track, unable to leave the area because bridges had been washed away or damaged. More than 370 mm was recorded at McPherson Camp (Haast) in 24 hours during the 26/27th, the heaviest falls occurring between 7 p.m. on the 26th and 2 p.m. on the 27th. A total 477 mm fell in 48 hours from the 26th to 28th. At Milford Sound the heaviest falls were recorded between 4 p.m. on the 26th and 9 a.m. on the 27th, a total of more than 395 mm in this period. A 2-hour fall of 90 mm was measured during the period of heaviest rain. A further 138 mm fell between 8 p.m. on the 27th and 6 a.m. on the 28th.

Temperatures—Temperatures were above normal over the whole of New Zealand with the exception of some districts on the West Coast. Most areas had temperatures of nearly 1°C above normal, in Wairarapa they were above by nearly 2°C, and in Canterbury by more than 2½°C in some areas. The coldest days were the 19th and 25th. This was the third consecutive month with temperatures appreciably above normal.

Sunshine—Most areas of New Zealand had more sunshine than normal, apart from some areas in Auckland, Bay of Plenty, Nelson, and the West Coast which were slightly below. At Oamaru the total for the month was more than 60 hours above normal and many districts in Canterbury and parts of Hawke's Bay were above by more than 50 hours. The total sunshine for the first 3 months of this year, of 746 hours recorded at Kelburn (Wellington), is the highest since records began in 1907.

WEATHER SEQUENCE
MARCH 1978

The depression and associated cold front that had been moving towards New Zealand from the Tasman Sea at the end of February, crossed onto the South Island late on the 1st. Heavy rain was recorded in Westland and parts of Fiordland, and lighter falls in areas west of the main ranges in both islands. On the 3rd unusually heavy rain was recorded in the Bay of Plenty area in the late evening, as this cold front crossed the North Island. Temperatures were very warm on the east coast of the country. Early on the 4th the front had moved east away from New Zealand, and a ridge of high pressure extended onto the country from an anticyclone centred near Tasmania. A small depression of tropical origin, that had been moving south-east towards the North Island, continued to move in this direction and by the 5th was lying to the east of the country.

By the 6th the ridge of high pressure had weakened, and a trough of low pressure had moved onto the South Island bringing isolated showers to many areas. Temperatures were cooler than normal over most of New Zealand especially on the West Coast and in Southland. The anticyclone had moved into the north Tasman Sea, and a westerly airflow covered the country until the 8th. A weak trough of low pressure crossed the country on the 9th, the only areas having substantial falls of rain being Fiordland and parts of Westland. Elsewhere conditions were showery.

On the 10th an anticyclone had become established over New Zealand which brought fine weather to most of the country, apart from the Fiordland and Southland areas which reported isolated rain, as small disturbances in a westerly airflow crossed the South Island. The anticyclone became stationary over the country until the 17th when it started to move slowly eastwards. The only areas that had any significant falls of rain during this period were Fiordland and Southland. Temperatures were above normal during this period, the warmest days being the 12th to the 16th.

A cold front associated with a depression passing to the south of New Zealand, moved onto the South Island late on the 17th. During the passage of this front heavy rain was recorded in the West Coast, with moderate falls throughout most of the South Island and the southern half of the North Island. These falls had little effect on the drought conditions in the North Island and parts of the South Island. Temperatures became considerably cooler on the 19th.

Early on the 20th a ridge of high pressure extended onto the country from the Tasman Sea, and by the 21st an anticyclone had moved onto New Zealand bringing fine weather. This situation persisted until the morning of the 23rd when the anticyclone weakened and moved east. Pressures became low in the Tasman Sea and also to the south of the country. Later on the 23rd another low pressure area had developed to the west of Fiordland and a cold front joining this centre and the one in the north Tasman Sea moved onto New Zealand. Heavy rain was reported on the West Coast, with isolated rain over most of the South Island and showers in some parts of the North Island. On the 24th most of the North Island recorded some rain, and also parts of the South Island.

On the 25th an anticyclone had moved onto the country from the Tasman Sea bringing fine, dry weather, but by the 26th had begun to move east away from New Zealand. A complex situation developed in the Tasman Sea on the 26th as small wave depressions formed on two cold fronts. This whole system moved onto the South Island, with the main low centre moving south of the country. Exceptionally heavy rain was recorded on the West Coast, which caused major flooding and disruption to transport and communication services. Nearly 400 mm was recorded in the 24-hour period up to 9 a.m. on the 27th at Milford Sound, and many areas in Westland had in excess of 150 mm during the same period. Up to 9 a.m. on the 28th more than 200 mm was recorded in 24 hours at some stations on the West Coast. There were some moderate rainfalls reported in some areas of the North Island during this period.

By the morning of the 29th an anticyclone had moved east from the Tasman Sea and onto New Zealand. Fine weather persisted over most of the country with only a few isolated showers being reported. Temperatures were cooler than normal over the whole of the country on the 29th. The anticyclone began to move eastwards away from New Zealand on the 31st, and a wave depression formed on a cold front lying in the mid-Tasman Sea. The cold front moved east towards the South Island, and late on the 31st was lying across Fiordland and Southland, bringing rain to these areas.
