Exchange Rates

IN terms of section 25 (2) of the Reserve Bank of New Zealand Act 1964, the Reserve Bank today released outer limits for rates of exchange to be used in transactions involving the conversion of New Zealand currency into foreign currencies and foreign currencies into New Zealand currency when delivery of the foreign currency dealt in will be effected by telegraphic transfer. The following range of rates, for the main currencies used by New Zealand traders in settling foreign exchange transactions, will remain in force until replaced by a new schedule issued by the Reserve Bank. These rates do not apply to transactions for settlement after the expiration of two business days (forward transactions) or to transactions in which instruments are purchased which do not entitle the buyer to foreign currency balances in the foreign centre until the instruments have been delivered at the foreign centre. In the latter case interest at foreign centre rates may be deducted from the telegraphic transfer rate to compensate the purchaser for his loss during the transit period.

The "normal" refers to the present site of the instruments. Standard period for normals is 1941-1970. No normals are available for stations with only short records.

*Indicates that the sunshine recorder is not located at the station but is in the near vicinity.

A rain day is a day with rainfall equal to or greater than 0.1 mm.

Where the extremes of temperature and rainfall have occurred more than once during the month, the date of the first occurrence is given.

WEATHER NOTES FOR JUNE 1979

General—Pressures were exceptionally high over most of New Zealand during June. In southern parts of the North Island, and the north of the South Island they were more than 10 millibars above normal. Winds were predominantly north-east in the north, and north-west in the south of the country. Conditions were mainly dry and warm throughout most of New Zealand during the month.

Mild temperatures produced good grass growth in most districts, but heavy rain at the end of the month and the lack of sun and wind, caused some pastures in the North Island to be too wet for stock leading to extensive pugging. Elsewhere winter feed was reported to be good, and stock in good condition.

On the 2nd of June a tornado passed through Kaitaia during the morning. Some houses had roofs blown off, and there was extensive damage to sheds, barns, and trees in the area.

Rainfall—The only areas with monthly rainfall totals above normal were in Northland, Auckland, and parts of Bay of Plenty, Poverty Bay, Nelson, and Marlborough. In Northland more than double the normal June rainfall was recorded, and in Auckland more than 70 percent above. On the 12th heavy rain in Northland closed many roads in the area through landslips and flooding. At Kaitaia the heaviest rain fell between 3 p.m. and midnight, 73 mm being recorded in this period, and 90 mm in the 24 hours up to 9 a.m. on the 13th. Many stations throughout the Northland region had 24 hour falls of between 50 and 100 mm.

Heavy rain commenced again on the 30th in Northland and Auckland and reached its peak on the 1st of July leading subsequently to some serious local flooding.

The driest areas were in the central districts and parts of Canterbury and Otago. Some stations in the south had only 10 to 25 percent of their normal months rainfall. At Methven only 2 mm was recorded during the month, and Christchurch Airport had their lowest June total (5 mm) since the station began in 1944.

Temperatures—During June temperatures were above normal throughout the whole of New Zealand. Most districts were warmer by at least 1°C, and in Northland, Auckland, Bay of Plenty, Taranaki, and Otago by more than 1½°C. The only cold spell during the month was from the 4th to 10th when maximum temperatures were slightly below average. On the 18th and 19th temperatures were very warm along the east coast of the South Island, maximum temperatures being above normal by 5°C to 8°C.

Sunshine—The only districts with above normal sunshine hours for the month were in Taranaki, Nelson, Canterbury, and parts of Southland. The greatest departures below normal were in Northland and Auckland. In Auckland City only 72 hours sunshine were recorded, and this is the lowest total for June since records began in 1930. Christchurch had in excess of 20 hours more than usual for June.

WEATHER SEQUENCE

The depression that was moving towards the North Island at the end of May crossed the Northland region on the 1st and 2nd. The cold front ahead of the depression brought heavy rain to most districts in the northern half of the North Island as it moved south-east. Parts of Northland, Auckland, and Bay of Plenty had 24 hour falls in excess of 50 mm up to 9 a.m. on the 2nd. Moderate falls were reported throughout other districts in the North Island. Temperatures were warmer than usual at the beginning of the month.

On the 3rd a ridge of high pressure extended on to New Zealand from an anticyclone in the Tasman Sea. By the morning of the 5th the anticyclone was centred over New Zealand and persisted until the afternoon of the 11th. A weak cold front moved across the South Island on the 8th, but only light rain was reported in some areas west of the main ranges. The majority of the country experienced fine weather and warmer temperatures until the 11th. A cold front associated with a depression moving to the south of the country moved on to the West Coast late on the 11th. As the front crossed the country heavy rain was reported in Fiordland, Westland, Buller, and parts of Wellington, Taranaki, Bay of Plenty, Auckland, and Northland. Some stations in Northland and Auckland reported falls of between 50 and 100 mm in 24 hours. Only light falls were recorded east of the main ranges in the South Island, and central North Island districts.

By the 13th another anticyclone had moved on to the country bringing further fine weather but cooler temperatures. On the 15th pressures were low to the north of New Zealand, and a weak cold front was moving towards the South Island. Light rain was reported in Fiordland as the cold front crossed the country, and light to moderate rain in the northern half of the North Island as a depression to the north of the country moved to the east. The anticyclone that had been lying over the country from the 13th had moved east, and this was replaced by another on the 17th. This anticyclone covered New Zealand until the morning of the 19th, when a trough of low pressure moved on to the South Island. Heavy rain was recorded in parts of Fiordland and Westland, with light to moderate rain in areas west of the main ranges in both the North and South Islands. On the east coast of the South Island temperatures were considerably above normal on the 18th and 19th.

An anticyclone had become established over the whole of New Zealand on the 20th and began to move eastwards on the 22nd. Pressures were low in the north Tasman Sea as a depression formed off the Australian coast. Late on the 22nd a cold front moved on to the South Island and this brought heavy rain to Fiordland and Westland. Some stations recorded falls of more than 100 mm in the 24 hours up to 9 a.m. on the 23rd. Light to moderate rain was reported in Southland, Buller, Wellington, Taranaki, Manawatu, and Bay of Plenty. By the 23rd the cold front associated with the depression in the Tasman Sea had moved on to Northland and 24 hour falls of more than 50 mm were reported in some parts of the district. As the front moved southwards most of the North Island and parts of Nelson and Marlborough had moderate rain.

On the 26th the depression and cold front had moved away from the country, and an anticyclone became centered over New Zealand. Pressures were low to the north and south of the country. Most districts had fine weather until the 29th. Some isolated showers were reported in northern and eastern districts of the North Island. By the morning of the 30th a complex depression in the Tasman Sea had moved eastwards towards New Zealand, and a cold front associated with this depression moved northwards across the country. This complex system moved slowly across the North Island bringing heavy rain to parts of Buller, Nelson, Marlborough, Wellington, and Wairarapa. Exceptionally heavy rain began to fall during the evening of the 30th in Auckland and Northland as the depression became almost stationary. Temperatures were higher than normal throughout the North Island at the end of the month.

The principal purpose for which the new Bank is to be incorporated will be to acquire the whole of the assets and undertaking of the existing Bank relating to its business in New Zealand, and to carry on in New Zealand and elsewhere the business of banking in all its branches and departments.

As the New Zealand Companies Act 1955, in section 458, provides that no company having for its object the carrying on in New Zealand of the business of banking shall be registered under that Act, the formation of the proposed new banking company can be made possible only by special legislation, and legislation is also the only means by which the transfer of the undertaking of the existing Bank to the new Bank can be effected efficiently and instantaneously, and without interference with the conduct and continuity of the business of banking.

The Bill is divided into two parts. The first part contains the provisions enabling the existing Bank to form and incorporate the new Bank under the Companies Act 1955.

The second part is designed to transfer the undertaking of the existing Bank relating to its New Zealand business to the new Bank, followed by provisions for the transfer of the New Zealand assets of certain other subsidiaries.

On the appointed day all the assets liabilities and obligations of Australia and New Zealand Banking Group Ltd., will be assets liabilities and obligations of the new Bank. Customers of the existing Bank will have the same relationship with the new Bank as they had with the existing Bank.

DIRECTIONS FOR EDUCATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

A REPORT PREPARED BY THE ADVISORY COUNCIL ON EDUCATIONAL PLANNING

141 p. 1975. $2.50
This report marks the culmination of the activities of the Educational Development Conference. The Advisory Council has recommended the directions it considers New Zealand education should go in the next 5 or 10 years.

Five principal areas are identified as requiring attention.

Education is seen as a lifelong activity, and emphasis is therefore placed on the "foundations"—early childhood education, the school curriculum and special provisions for special needs, and parent education.

Special attention is given also to the relationship between the school and the community, the need for close mutual support and co-operation, including understanding and respect for minority cultures.

A key to the quality of education is the people involved in it. Teacher education, the availability of advisory and ancillary staff, as well as resources for materials and research, have a chapter devoted to them.

Since education is seen as a lifelong activity, this is considered at some length. Facets such as accessibility, transfer of credits, and the role of existing institutions are discussed, together with ways in which continuing education could be provided for the whole community.

In discussing the administration and organisation of education the principle followed is the maximum devolution of authority and responsibility to the agencies and the community, at for instance, school committee and district level.

ECONOMICS OF THE NEW ZEALAND MAORIBy Raymond Firth*

519 p. 1972.

The Maori people are honourably known far outside the confines of their New Zealand home. This book contains an account of the social and economic organisation of the Maori people before the organisation was transformed by contact with Western civilisation. It is a major scientific contribution to economic anthropology and has now become a standard work.

THE EFFECTS OF RACE AND SOCIO-ECONOMIC STATUS ON JUVENILE OFFENDING STATISTICS

31 p. 1975.

This report examines the extent to which the difference in European and non-European offending rates reflects variations in the socio-economic distributions of the two populations. The results indicate that, while a substantial proportion of the difference in offending rates for the two racial groups can be attributed to socio-economic factors, the larger part of this difference cannot be accounted for in this way. Both the theoretical and the practical implications of this finding are discussed. (Research Unit, Joint Committee on Young Offenders.)
