Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs in respect of the following publication: Hollywood Rated X, published by Hollywood Publications, Washington, D.C., U.S.A.

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

His Honour Judge Willis (chairman),
Mesdames L. Edmond, H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera, and
Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Hearing: 22 July 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. LeLoir for Comptroller of Customs. Written submission by Murray J. Swann.

Decision

Hollywood Rated X is a single copy of a private importation seized at Christchurch in April 1980. As Mr Swann has disputed forfeiture, the Customs Department has referred the publication to the Tribunal for classification prior to the commencement of condemnation proceedings pursuant to the Customs Act 1966.

Book type and length: Hollywood Rated X is a soft covered publication some 65 pages long. The publication measures 21 cm × 27.5 cm. There is little text and the main part of the publication is given over to a display of black and white photographs.

The primary purpose of the publication seems to be to publish photographs of naked male American personalities. The publication's inside cover advertises a cash reward for nude photos of famous people.

Mr Lelior for the Comptroller of Customs contended that the publication was primarily concerned with displaying nude or near nude males with considerable emphasis on the genital area. He stated that the magazine was designed to arouse prurient interest, that there was no literary or other merit in the publication, and that there was considerable doubt as to the honesty of purpose of the publisher.

Mr Swann made a short written submission which went little further than merely to state his view that his magazine was not indecent and that his rights as a New Zealand citizen had been abused in that his mail had been opened and the publication had been seized.

The Tribunal accepts Mr Lelior's submissions. The Tribunal rules that the publication deals with sex in a manner that is injurious to the public good for a combination of the following reasons.

Neither the object of, nor the content in, the publication is of any social or artistic merit. There are numerous photographs depicting males in a patently offensive manner so as to draw the reader's attention to the prurient and lewd aspects of sex. In the circumstance the Tribunal has grave doubts as to the sincerity of purpose of the publisher.

For the above reasons the Tribunal classifies Hollywood Rated X as indecent.

Dated at Wellington this 11th day of November 1980.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following publications: Pillow Talk, Vols. 3, 4, 5, and 7, published by Carla Publishing Inc., 208 East 43rd Street, New York, U.S.A.

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

Judge W. M. Willis (chairman),
Mesdames L. Edmond, H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera, and
Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Hearing: 22 July 1980.

Decision: 15 December 1980.

Appearances: Mr LeLoir for Comptroller of Customs.
M. D. O'Brien for importers, Gordon and Gotch (N.Z.) Ltd.

Decision

These magazines have been submitted by the importers for classification. The magazines sub-titled The Monthly Journal of Sexual Fulfilment, contain articles about a great variety of aspects of sex, and a substantial section of letters from readers, some followed by advice on sexual problems. Topics dealt with in the articles include divorce and re-adjustment, sport and sex, guilt, sex and the law, the language of prostitution, sexual fantasies, sex and the church, and methods of contraception. The advice given is sensible and reassuring, obviously of a kind to help people who have real doubts and anxieties about sex. The letters without advice are indulgent at times, but these too are likely to be found helpful and informative for the ignorant or frightened reader.

On behalf of the Comptroller it was submitted that Pillow Talk was more restrained in presentation than the magazines Sexology and Forum which were classified as being indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18 years of age in decisions 886 and 913. It was further submitted that their availability would not be injurious to the public good. Similar submissions were made on behalf of the importer. The Tribunal gathers the impression from the submissions made, that each would prefer a restriction order rather than having the magazines declared not indecent. In view of the restrictions placed on Sexology and Forum the Tribunal considers that a similar restriction should be placed on these issues of Pillow Talk. They are, therefore, classified as indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18 years.

Judge W. M. Willis (chairman),
Mesdames L. Edmond, H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera, and
Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Hearing: 22 July 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. LeLoir for Comptroller of Customs. Written submissions by Mr J. M. Smyth.

Decision

These are four cartoon comics seized from Mr Smyth at Auckland in January 1980. As he has applied for waiver of forfeiture of the comics, the Customs Department has referred them to the Tribunal for classification.

Book type and length: These publications follow a typical cartoon comic type presentation. They are 18 cm × 26 cm in size and are soft covered and are each approximately 48 pages long. The publishers describe themselves as "publishers of the finest in underground humour and satire, serving a distinguished reading public since 1969".

The comics depict the adventures and life style of three hippies, and their cat. The comics present what is really an anthology of separate comic strips which portray a satirical and often humorous view of the place of the hippie in the American "establishment" society.

Mr LeLoir submitted that the publications fell within what are known as "adult" comics. They were offensive in that they acknowledged an acceptance of drug taking as a normal way of life, that there were episodes of violence and that in many cases the language was crude and offensive.

Further, he submitted that the comics were picture story books and were covered by section 11 (3) of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and as such these publications were similar to others considered by the Tribunal under that section, (decisions 767-786 of 14 December 1973) and classified as indecent.

Mr Smyth explained that he had purchased the comics in a bookshop in Australia for a friend of his who collected underground comics. He stated that after the publications had been seized he investigated numerous other comics on sale in New Zealand bookshops. He submitted that having regard to the publications which were not classified as indecent, these publications should receive no restriction. His concluding remarks were:

If these comics and the frivolous adventures of their amusingly bizarre characters are to be considered indecent in New Zealand when other comics involving people staggering around with their entrails half ripped out, or their heads severed from their bodies aren't, books involving people voiding their bowels or urinating on each other for fun aren't, magazines featuring close ups of female genitalia and comic strips which have nudity as their only facet of interest aren't, then I think the whole thing is rather silly, and I have no idea what the law is trying to protect me and the other citizens of this country from.

In considering the classification of these comics, the Tribunal accepts the submission by Mr LeLoir that it must have regard to the provisions of section 11 (3) of the Indecent Publications Act which states:

When the Tribunal decides that any picture-story book likely to be read by children is indecent in the hands of children under a specified age, that picture-story books shall be deemed to be indecent in the hands of all persons.

It can be seen from the wording in the above provisions, that before section 11 (3) becomes operative, the Tribunal must be satisfied that the picture story in question is "... likely to be read by children ...". We are unable to reach that conclusion in this case. We think that the content and humour of the publications would be difficult for young readers to comprehend, and we also think that the presentation of the publications would be unattractive to children and accordingly for both reasons, that they would be unlikely to read the publications.

In passing we note that although the provisions of section 11 (3) were set out by the Tribunal in decisions 767-786 of 14 December 1973 (those decisions concerned similar publications and Mr LeLoir in the course of his helpful submissions drew our attention to them), the Tribunal did not specifically discuss the issue of whether any of the publications therein were likely to be read by children, and so the publications in those decisions were considered only on the basis that they were likely to be read by children. As already stated, with the greatest respect to the Tribunal's earlier decisions, the material under consideration in this case is, in our view, unlikely to be read by children.

However, our view is that even if the provisions of section 11 (3) are applied to the present publications, we would not be prepared to declare them indecent.

The provisions of section 11 (3) set out above make it clear that comics are subject to more stringent control than other types of printed matter in that once the material is deemed by the Tribunal to be indecent in the hands of a child, the Tribunal is allowed no discretion to impose even an age restriction classification. In effect therefore, when it comes to picture books likely to be read by children, the standards of the adult community give way to a consideration of the effect the publication may have on a child. Mr Smyth's submission that it was unlikely his friend, who was to receive the comics, would be corrupted by their influence, would therefore be of little significance in determining whether the comics are indecent documents in view of the provisions (assuming they applied) of section 11 (3) of the Indecent Publications Act.

The Tribunal also notes that the provisions of section 11 (3) do not apply when the cartoon or comic strip is published in the context of a paper or magazine, because normally such publications could not be construed as picture story books. The Tribunal wishes to stress the importance of the context in which the cartoon or comic strip is found because of Mr Smyth's submission that in the course of his investigations he was led to believe that the Tribunal had passed, albeit on a restricted basis, cartoons such as Oh Wicked Wanda in Penthouse magazine, and Little Anny Fanny in Playboy magazine. Because the publications Penthouse and Playboy cannot be described as picture story books the provisions of section 11 (3) do not apply to them. If they could be, or if a collection of the Wicked Wanda or Anny Fanny cartoons were published in their own right, there is little doubt the Tribunal would declare the cartoons indecent.

Conversely, if the Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers cartoons had appeared in a context other than that of a picture story book, the provisions of section 11 (3) would not then need to have been considered.

Having made those general observations, the Tribunal now wishes to turn to consider the three aspects of these comics, which Mr LeLoir submitted could be detrimental to young readers, and therefore justified the Tribunal in classifying the publications as indecent.

Acceptance of drug taking as a normal way of life: The use of narcotics (mainly marijuana) by the primary characters in the cartoons is a predominant feature of each of the publications. This aspect of the publications led Mr LeLoir to submit that "throughout they all give an acceptance of drug taking as a normal way of life . . .". Although he did not explicitly say so, we take it that Mr LeLoir was submitting the publications were injurious to the public good because of the possibility of corruption of readers and/or the possibility of unlawful narcotics use being promoted or encouraged.

The possibility of corruption, or of effects injurious to the community could exist in the content of many works of fiction, because in all works of entertainment there is always the risk that some person will be harmfully influenced by what he has read or seen. One could not reasonably suggest that every work that could have harmful influences should be suppressed, else little would escape the censor's pen. The practical safeguard lies in assessing whether there is a real likelihood of corruption or injury to the community by persons being exposed to the material.

In this case we are satisfied that the likelihood of corruption is minimal, having regard to the fictional nature of the material and the fact that the author's aim appears to be to merely entertain the reader with humour and satire arising from the adventures of his characters.

Before we leave this aspect of the case we should deal with Mr LeLoir's submission that the present publications are similar to others considered by the Tribunal and classified as indecent in decisions 767-786 of 14 December 1973. The Tribunal has had the advantage of examining some of the publications concerned in that decision, and while they might be termed inferior in standard to the present publications, they are not entirely dissimilar. This may be seen by examining the following material extract from that decision.

Dopin Dan, Mothers Oats, Tales of Amorkins and Merton of the Movement are concerned mainly with sub-cultures, some of them associated with drugs. Sexual context is minimal and lacks the blatancy of other comics in this set. Indeed there is little which could be considered harmful to the more mature reader. However, the crudity of language along with one or two frames depicting or suggesting sexual activity and some frames depicting the administration of drug dosages could have detrimental effects on the young.

The Tribunal in that case held that the publications fell squarely within the provision of section 11 (3) and so they had to be declared indecent.

While cartoons and satirical material cannot be given carte blanche, we are not prepared to go as far, in relation to the present material as the Tribunal did in its earlier decision, in its reference to the effect of the use of narcotics by the characters in the cartoons.

It may well be that where a non-fiction magazine or book has as its dominant purpose the encouragement of unlawful narcotics use and is seriously capable of being injurious to the public good, the Tribunal will classify the material as indecent (see e.g. decision No. 951, 30 May 1980 and the other decisions cited therein).

Although satire and cartoon material is just as capable of promoting a viewpoint as is ordinary text, whether it does so is a question of fact. Further, insofar as genuine fiction and satire is concerned, leeway in the choice of subject-matter must be given to those who seek to entertain or amuse us, lest we decide too readily that a publication is merely a vehicle for the presentation of indecent material injurious to the public good.

For all the above reasons we reject Mr LeLoir's first submission.

Violence: We do not propose to deal at length with this submission. Although we accept that some of the cartoons feature incidents of violence, the publications as a whole are mild, so far as other comics are concerned, in their treatment of violence. We therefore are unable to accept Mr LeLoir's second submission.

Crude and offensive language: In two of the publications, namely The Collected Adventures of the Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers and Further Adventures of those Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers, four letter words are occasionally used. Mr LeLoir's submission on this point has caused the Tribunal some concern, because crude language is not normally a feature of a cartoon publication. However, the Tribunal, after giving careful consideration to the use of the language, is not satisfied from the sporadic references in the publications, that the effect will be injurious to the public good, even having regard to the provisions of section 11 (3). In coming to this conclusion the Tribunal has assessed the material with its collective experience and its view of current standards in the community.

For all the above reasons we are unable to agree with Mr LeLoir's third submission. We have discussed the above issues having regard to the provisions of section 11 (3). Even if those provisions did apply, we are of the view that each of the publications herein for the views already expressed are not indecent. That decision is afortiori in the light of our finding that the provisions of section 11 (3) do not apply to the publications.

For all the above reasons we classify each of the publications herein as not indecent.

Dated at Wellington this 18th day of December 1980.

Judge W. M. WILLIS, Chairman.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

In the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs in respect of the following publication: Lady Chatterley's Second Lover published by Monar Books Incorporated, New York, U.S.A.

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

Judge W. M. Willis (chairman),
Mesdames L. Edmond, H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera, and
Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Hearing: 22 July 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. Leloir for the Comptroller of Customs. Written submissions by D. W. Shirley on behalf of Shop 6.

Decision

This publication was a sample copy imported and seized at Auckland earlier this year.

As the importer has disputed the forfeiture the Customs Department has referred the publication to this Tribunal for classification prior to the commencement of condemnation proceedings pursuant to the Customs Act 1966.

Lady Chatterley's Second Lover is a paper back book 221 pages long, written by Ted Mark. The publication is really a collection of 18 short stories, one of which is used as the title for the publication.

Mr Leloir on behalf of the Comptroller of Customs submitted that the major purpose of the book was to arouse prurient interest since the base for nearly all the stories was sex and in many cases sexual episodes were explicit with crude and offensive language. He submitted further that there was insufficient non-sexual matter to redeem the book and that similar publications were classified as indecent by the Tribunal in decision No. 934, on 21 December 1979.

On the other hand, Mr Shirley stated in his written submission that although the stories were about sex, it was sex which was treated in an adult rather than merely a prurient manner. He submitted that the stories had real character and were not just a succession of sexual escapades in order to promote indecency for the sake of indecency.

The Tribunal has paid careful attention to the submissions made by both the Comptroller for Customs and by Mr Shirley. We agree with Mr Leloir that the main base for nearly all the stories is sex. However, the degree of sexual content and explicitness varies considerably from story to story. Stories such as The Three Bears, Lady Chatterley's Second Lover, and Sharpest Blade in the West have no literary merit and could not justify Mr Shirley's submission that "the characters themselves are real people who do and say real things and are not merely puppets on which to hang sex for the sake of sex". If a significant number of the stories had been of the nature of the three mentioned above, we would have had no hesitation in accepting Mr Leloir's submissions.

However, quite a number of the stories, for example The Girl in the Freudian Slip, In a Man's Apartment, and If I'm Elected, The Executive Position, Innocent Bystander and The Wisest Man in the World contain little or no material which could arouse a prurient interest. We are inclined to accept Mr Shirley's submission that in the majority of stories sex is treated in an adult rather than a prurient manner.

However, as we have already stated, we express concern at the sexual content of a number of the stories. They have no merit and deal with sex in a purely salacious way. In terms of the provisions of section 11 of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, we find that while the dominant effect of the publication as a whole is not to deal with sex in a manner that is injurious to the adult public good, nevertheless there is little artistic merit in the book and there are some stories that deal with matters of sex in a manner likely to corrupt young readers, and therefore we think it desirable that an age restriction should be placed upon the book.

Finally, we must note that we have had the opportunity of examining the publications referred to in decision No. 934, of 21 December 1979. The publications therein were four novels, all declared indecent by the Tribunal. However, none of the publications concerned short stories, and the Tribunal, with respect to Mr Leloir's argument, found them of little assistance in the approach adopted in the present case, namely a consideration of the balance of merit in the short stories in the publication.

For all the above reasons we declare the publication Lady Chatterley's Second Lover to be indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18.

Decision: 15 December 1980.

Appearances: Mr LeLoir for Comptroller of Customs. No appearance on behalf of importer, Waverley Publishing Co. Ltd.

Decision

These publications were imported as samples and were seized at Auckland. Forfeiture has been disputed by the importer, Waverley Publishing Co. Ltd. On behalf of the Comptroller, it was submitted that both publications should be classified as indecent. They are reputed to be educational material on sexual matters and they are similar in format. There is text ranging in scope from ancient rules on marriage to sexual crimes and to various forms of deviate sex. The text is interspersed with pictures, many of which do not appear to relate to the text. They appear contrived. Because of the approval given to relationships other than normal, it is doubtful whether there is an honesty of purpose in the publications. Neither has any literary merit, nor are they saved by any other criterion. In the Tribunal's view they are both injurious to the public good. It is noted that in decision No. 945, two similar publications were classified indecent as are these.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following publication: Generation of Blood published by Manor Books Inc., New York, U.S.A.

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

Judge W. M. Willis (chairman),
Mesdames L. Edmond, H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera, and
Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Hearing: 20 August 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. Leloir for the Comptroller of Customs. Written submissions by D. W. Shirley on behalf of the importer, Shop Six.

Decision

Generation of Blood is a sample copy of a book imported commercially and seized at Auckland in June of this year. As the importer has disputed forfeiture the Customs Department has referred the publication to the Tribunal for classification prior to the commencement of condemnation proceedings pursuant to the Customs Act 1966.

The publication is a paper back novel, 188 pages long and appears to have been written (from the date of the author's copyright) in 1961.

The novel itself is split into two parts, Book I and Book II. Book I describes the enslavement and transportation of a Massai warrior called Karindu from his home in Africa to a cotton plantation in Georgia in the United States. Book I ends at page 130 with Karindu being killed.

Book II deals with subsequent developments at the plantation, which comes under the rule of a rather unpleasant character called Curtis. The book comes to a rather disjointed and abrupt ending with the destruction of the plantation by soldiers of the Union army.

Mr Leloir submitted that even although the novel was a story of slaves and slavery in the southern states of America at the time of the Civil War, the main theme of the author was to put together as much sex and violence as possible and to weave a story around the various episodes.

While Mr Shirley accepted that this another "slave" novel (implying as a matter of course, we think, a certain amount of sex and violence in its theme from the nature of the subject), he submitted that it was in the genre of many others which have not been declared unconditionally indecent. Mr Shirley asked the Tribunal to impose an age restriction of 18 on the publication, not because of its sexual content but because of its violence.

This novel is no work of art, and we feel that it could be well described as pulp fiction, exploiting, as have many others, a sorrowful and sordid aspect of American history.

However, we are unable to agree with Mr Leloir's submission that the novel is a mere vehicle for the explicit description of sexual and/or violent episodes. While there are descriptions of sexual acts in the book, they are not so frequent and explicit as to indicate the author merely wrote the book to provide padding for the detailed description of a number of sexual episodes. For these reasons we would not be prepared to declare the book indecent on the grounds of its sexual content.

The Tribunal has also considered the episodes of violence in the book. We must note once again that the book is an historical novel and is set in a violent and bloody time in American history. The novel, although fiction, reflects incidents that could well have taken place. We do not think there is in this novel, because of its historical setting, a risk of the episodes of violence being injurious to the community. As well, we are by no means certain that the descriptions of violence are unacceptable in themselves.

We are not bound to accept, nor do we accept in this case, an importer's request that a certain level of classification be placed upon a publication. The classification, if any, is a matter for the Tribunal itself to determine.

For all these reasons we declare Generation of Blood to be not indecent.

Hearing: 4 November 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. LeLoir for the Comptroller of Customs. No appearance by importer Mr G. Fry.

Decision

This is a single copy, privately imported and seized by Customs in Wellington last May. It has been referred to the Tribunal for classification by the Department.

This publication produced on thick glossy paper, contains 64 pages all depicting nude males. The photographs are posed in such a manner as to give maximum emphasis on penis displays. All the models are dark skinned, and the magazine in its foreword submits that the public has long needed a publication such as this; advertising what is available through the columns, and what is happening in the black gay world. Whether black, white, yellow or brown; it is still promoting homosexuality in pictures only.

The magazine has no articles, no text, other than a short descriptive paragraph about the model used. The photographs are not natural in pose and cannot be considered as "serious artistic studies of the male human figure" be it black or white. The presentation viewed as a whole, appears to have been submitted expressly for those persons leaning towards homosexuality.

Throughout the publication reference is made to other publications of the same content from the same publishing house. The costs are quite high in comparison with many similar magazines. The Tribunal considers that while there is little if any offensive text, the posed photographs certainly come into the category of "injurious to the public good" as set out in section 11, subsection (e) and (f) of the Indecent Publications Act.

The Tribunal classifies the book indecent.

Hearing: 4 November 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. LeLoir for the Comptroller of Customs. No appearance by importer Mr A. Louis.

Decision

In submitting this magazine, which is a single copy, privately imported, seized by the Wellington Customs in May this year, the Comptroller seeks classification by the Tribunal prior to the commencement of condemnation proceedings.

The publication consists of 46 pages of pictures, text, and advertisements. Some pictures are in colour, but in the main the magazine is presented in black and white photographs on good glossy paper.

The photographs throughout are entirely of naked, or near naked males, with considerable emphasis on displays of the penis. The stories and the pages of text entitled Fantasies are predominately homosexual, with frank and descriptive language (at times bordering on the offensive), characterising every episode.

The magazine contains no serious articles, or even light weight literary articles; to balance the sexual impact it presents. The magazine is produced obviously for homosexual readers and those they hope to recruit. Because of its presentation and makeup, and the frank advertisements oriented to homosexual practises the Tribunal is of the opinion that there is serious doubt as to the honesty of purpose of the publisher. In fact one is led to believe that the magazine is only produced to promote homosexuality. In his submission the Comptroller of Customs reminds us that such is a crime in this country. The Tribunal views the promotion of such practises per medium of magazines such as this, as certainly falling into section 11, subsection (e) and (f) of the Indecent Publications Act.

As the Tribunal feels that this magazine Playguy Volume 2, No. 24 has no literary merit and is injurious to the public good it therefore has no hesitation in classifying it as indecent.

Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Hearing: 4 November 1980.

Decision: 15 December 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. LeLoir for Comptroller of Customs. No appearance of importer, Marketing Services (1974) Ltd.

Decision

These three publications are the December 1979, January and February 1980 issues of Players. They are submitted under section 14 (1) of the Act for a decision as to their classification.

The Tribunal last examined earlier issues of this magazine in August 1978 when in decision No. 897 it classified the three issues as indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18 years. A 2-year restriction order was made in similar terms and that order expired on 25 August 1980.

For the Comptroller, Mr LeLoir drew the attention of the Tribunal to what he said was a noticeable change in the content of the photographs over the last 2 years. The three issues previously considered contained more sexual pictorial content as well as some highlighting of the female genitalia but the present issues certainly have less sexual pictorial content and there is little emphasis on genitalia. It was suggested that these issues lean more heavily to the serious non-sexual side. It was suggested that it was doubtful whether the issues were indecent in any way. In the Tribunal's view, despite the change since 1978 this magazine is still a magazine for the adult reader rather than for the younger person.

In the Tribunal's view, this magazine should again be classified as indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18 years and that there should be a further 2-year restriction order placed upon it.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following publications: Dirty Jenny's Diary by Jenny Noland and The Orgy Society by Gloria Jovian, each published by Orien Press, Adelaide, South Australia.

Hearing: 4 November 1980.

Decision: 3 December 1980.

Appearances: Mr L. E. LeLoir for Comptroller of Customs. No appearance for importer, J. G. A. Lynch.

Decision

These two books were seized following examination of a parcel packet. The addressee, Mr Lynch, has disputed forfeiture so that the books came before the Tribunal for classification.

Dirty Jenny's Diary is allegedly a true account of the sexual activities of the author during the course of the 12 months following her marriage. It is entirely lacking in artistic or literary merit, it is prurient in the extreme and is clearly calculated (despite its claim to be a true story), to appeal to the lewd aspects of sex.

The Orgy Society is a novel concerning the sexual activities of a man with various women. It also entirely lacks literary or artistic merit, is prurient in the extreme, and once again concentrates on the lewd aspects of sex.

Submissions were made on behalf of the Comptroller of Customs that the books were lightweight, with no literary or other merit to offset the concentration on the prurient and lewd aspects of sex. It was submitted that they lacked honesty of purpose and their likelihood of corruption, far outweighed any possible benefit. The Tribunal agrees with the submissions made by the Comptroller and classifies each of these books as indecent.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following publications: Mayfair Vol. 15, Nos. 6, 7, and 8, published by Fisk Publishing Co. Ltd., London, England.

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

Judge W. M. Willis (Chairman),

Mrs H. B. Dick, and

Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Hearing: 4 November 1980.

Decision: 3 December 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. LeLoir for Comptroller of Customs. Mr M. D. O'Brien for importer, Gordon and Gotch (N.Z.) Ltd.

Decision

These three issues of Mayfair are submitted pursuant to section 14 (1) of the Act for a decision as to their classification. The magazine has been considered by the Tribunal on three previous occasions in decisions No. 574-5 (1972), No. 798 (1974), and No. 908 (1978). In the two earlier editions the magazine was classified as indecent but in 1978 it was classified as indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18 years. A 2-year restriction order was made and it is because this order expires on 30 November that the magazine has been submitted once more for classification.

In his submissions Mr LeLoir submitted that the magazine does not seem to have changed in the last 2 years but points out that the sexual material, although amounting from half to two-thirds of the magazine, is generally more restrained pictorially and so far as the text is concerned, than other magazines of a similar type, for example Penthouse. There is not the same emphasis on the female genitalia in the photographs although the non-sexual material is lightweight when compared with those in Penthouse. For those reasons Mr LeLoir suggested an age restriction was desirable but that a further 2-year restriction order should be made.

For the publishers, Mr O'Brien agreed that the standard of the magazine had not changed in the past 2 years and he mentioned that the editorial staff and basic philosophy have remained similar. He suggested however, that the standard of decency commonly accepted by the community in relation to sexual matters at least, has been the subject of subtle liberalisation. The publishers, he said, made no pretence of offering other than a sexually orientated magazine which was in the nature of light entertainment. There is a substantial content of non-sexual material including some articles of an informative nature and there are other articles which are said to be well read. There is a substantial volume of advertising for consumer products. The submission was made that the general tone of the magazine was neither obnoxious or patently offensive and it suggested that it might more be properly described as restrained. The pictures did not contain the same posed attitudes which are found in other magazines although there is "an obvious abundance of nakedness".

As earlier editions of this magazine have been held to be indecent, and as a 2-year restriction order was placed on the magazine in 1978, the Tribunal has felt it prudent to look at the earlier books which have been submitted. I think it could be said quite fairly that the issues submitted certainly are different from the earlier ones, although, there is no significant difference between the issues considered in 1978. In the intervening period, of course, between 1972 and 1980 there has been a marked change in the public attitude to matters of this nature, and I have no doubt that these issues would have been considered indecent in 1972.

It has been suggested that magazines of this type are responsible for the lowering in community standards. While it may be true that the magazines play some part in this process, it would be too much to suggest that they are solely responsible.

As was decided by the Tribunal in 1978, this Tribunal is of the view that allowing adults to read Mayfair will not be injurious to the public good, so that the three issues are classified as indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18 years. In terms of section 15A (1) of the Act, a restriction order in similar terms is made for a period of 2 years.

Dated at Wellington this 3rd day of December 1980.

*Industries Development Commission Notice No. 1981/2—
Inquiry Concerning the New Zealand Tobacco Industry*

(1) In a letter of 15 December 1980, the Minister of Trade and Industry requested the Commission:

(a) To inquire into and report on the duty applicable to imports under Tariff items 24.01.005, 24.02.011, 24.02.019 and 24.02.031 of the New Zealand Customs Tariff, taking into account the reorganisation of the domestic tobacco industry; and

(b) To recommend the appropriate timetable for the gradual removal of import licensing on manufactured tobacco products, excluding cigars, between 1 July 1983 and 30 June 1985.

(2) When making its inquiry and report the Commission may take evidence on and otherwise have regard to any other matter or product it considers relevant to the inquiry under reference, or exclude from its consideration any matter or product it considers not relevant.

(3) The Commission was requested to report on the above inquiry by 1 April 1981 but this has been extended to 30 April 1981.

(4) This reference followed decisions made by the Government on the reorganisation of the tobacco industry. A summary of these decisions is set out in the Schedule to this notice. Due to the significant flow-on effects that Tariff levels on imported and manufactured tobacco products can have on the demand for local leaf, the Government considered it desirable that all industry parties be aware of the full connotations of the industry package before its implementation.

(5) The Commission has received from officials copies of the detailed information provided by parties during the course of the inquiry leading to the reorganisation of the tobacco industry and will be contacting the various parties to obtain any further details required.

(6) The Commission will appraise the information received and early in March 1981 distribute a draft report setting out its views on the Tariff levels and import licensing requirements considered desirable, and, in accordance with its terms of reference.

(7) The Commission will release its draft report publicly and invite submissions on the content of the report from any interested party. 20 copies of public submissions will be required and these may be amplified, if necessary, by an accompanying confidential submission. Submissions must reach the Commission's office not later than 31 March 1981.

(8) As soon as possible after 31 March 1981 the Commission will circulate copies of all public submissions to those parties who have lodged submissions.

(9) A public hearing on the content of the draft report and the subsequent submissions will commence in the Commission's Hearing Room, Eighth Floor, Cumberland House, Upper Willis Street, Wellington, on Tuesday, 7 April 1981, at 10.30 a.m. Should the hearing extend beyond the first day, the commencement time on subsequent days will be 10 a.m.

(10) All submissions will be required to be attested to under oath and those who have so attested may cross-examine other parties.

NOTE—

1. Tenderers should refer to the Customs Tariff and the Import Licensing Schedule for a definitive description of the goods included in the list above.
2. Tenderers should be conversant with the various statutes and regulations which importing enterprises are obliged to comply with, such as safety standards, duties and sales tax where relevant.
3. Tenderers are reminded to use a separate tender bid form for each licence unit bid for. Each bid should be sent in a separate envelope with the tender number marked outside.
4. For items marked with an asterisk tenderers are required to complete a spare parts and servicing pre-registration form and forward it in a separate envelope marked "spare parts and servicing pre-registration" to the Registrar.
5. For tender numbers 1981/84 to 87 inclusive it has now been decided to stipulate specific licence units for round one. This supersedes the advice given on page 3 (c) of the Guide and the provisional product list that there would be no stipulated licence unit size for these tender numbers.
