Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following publication: Kama Sutra, published by Howard Productions Pty. Ltd.

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

Judge W. M. Willis (chairman),

Mesdames H. B. Dick, L. P. Nikera, and

Messrs J. V. B. McLinden, and I. W. Malcolm.

Hearing: 2 December 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. Leloir for the Comptroller of Customs. Written submission by Waverley Publishing Co. Ltd.

Decision

A sample copy of Kama Sutra was imported commercially by parcel post and seized at Auckland in September 1980. As the importer has disputed forfeiture the Customs Department has referred the publication to the Tribunal for classification prior to the commencement of condemnation proceedings pursuant to the Customs Act 1966.

Mr Leloir has contended that the publication is a cheap, abridged version of the original classic version translated by Sir Richard Burton. He states that many of the pictures do not appear to relate to the text and appear to be designed merely to assist the commercial exploitation of the text by means which are indecent.

The Waverley Publishing Co. made a short written submission in which they suggest that an age restriction would be appropriate.

Kama Sutra is a paperback publication, based on the original classic translated by Sir Richard Burton. Samples of the writings have been selected, to depict various techniques of achieving sexual pleasure, used in conjunction with a series of photographs, to give an impression that the publication is an accurate precis of the original classic. In fact this has not been achieved.

In 1976, in Decision No. 863, the Tribunal ruled on a similar edition, that although the Kama Sutra itself is not indecent, the particular edition under consideration was indecent. In view of the nature of the publication, there is a distinct lack of honesty of purpose.

Accordingly, we consider that the present edition should be similarly classified, and rule that this particular publication of the Kama Sutra is indecent.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following publications: Nana by Emile Zola, published by Potz Press, Australia; and Casanova, published by Howard Productions Ltd., Australia.

Hearing: 2 December 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. Leloir for the Comptroller of Customs. No submission by the importer, Waverley Publishing Co. Ltd.

Decision

Sample copies of Nana and Casanova were imported commercially by parcel post and seized at Auckland in September 1980. As the importer has disputed forfeiture the Customs Department has referred the publications to the Tribunal for classifications prior to the commencement of condemnation proceedings pursuant to the Customs Act 1966.

Mr Leloir has contended that both publications, i.e. Nana and Casanova, are cheap editions of the original classics. He states that in each book the pictures are mostly of a sexual nature, mainly related to the text. He submits that the two publications are indecent.

Casanova is a paperback, based on the original classic which was translated by Arthur Machen, and published in six volumes. Samples of the writings have been selected, to depict sexual activities, used in conjunction with a series of photographs, to give an impression that the paperback is an accurate precis of the original classic. In fact there appears to be little relationship between the text and the photographs, even though the photographer has dressed his models in period costume.

Nana is a similar publication. A paperback, based on the novel by Emile Zola, Nana is a series of selections from the original novel, to which photographs have been added. The photographs are mostly of a sexual nature, attempting to give the impression that the publication is accurately based on the original classic. In view of the nature of the publications, there is a distinct lack of honesty of purpose.

Accordingly, though both the original classics are not indecent, we classify these editions of Nana and Casanova as indecent.

Hearing: 2 December 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. Leloir for the Comptroller of Customs. No submission by the importer, Waverley Publishing Co., Ltd.

Decision

A sample copy of The Perfumed Garden was imported commercially and seized at Auckland in September 1980. As the importer has disputed forfeiture the Customs Department has referred the publication to the Tribunal for classification, prior to the commencement of condemnation proceedings pursuant to the Customs Act 1966.

Mr Leloir has contended that the publication is a cheap version of the original classic, with the bulk of the photographs showing various positions of sexual intercourse, with little reference to the text. He submits that the publication is indecent.

The Perfumed Garden is a paperback publication, supposedly based on the original classic. Selections of the writings from the original translation have been included in the publication, and used in conjunction with a series of photographs which emphasise various positions for sexual intercourse, to give an impression that the paperback edition is an accurate precis of the original classic. In fact there appears to be little relationship between the text and the photographs. In view of the nature of the publication, there is a distinct lack of honesty of purpose.

Accordingly, though the original classic is not indecent, we classify this edition of The Perfumed Garden as indecent.

Hearing: 5 February 1981.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. Leloir for the Comptroller of Customs. No submissions by the importer Gordon and Gotch (N.Z.) Ltd.

Decision

This publication is one of a shipment of 500 which was seized at Auckland by the Customs Department in October 1980. After the importer disputed forfeiture of the publication, the Customs Department referred the publication to the Tribunal for classification prior to the commencement of condemnation proceedings pursuant to the Customs Act 1966.

Desire is a paperback novel, 448 pages long. It is the story of a young successful entrepreneur who fulfils his ambition by opening what becomes New York's hottest discotheque, where the rich and famous soon congregate to dance the night away. The book deals with a behind the scenes account of the operation of the discotheque, which seems to bear some resemblance to the phenomenal Studio 54 which operated so successfully in New York in the late 1970s.

A twist to the story is added when it appears that the entrepreneur's father-in-law, who has invested a large amount of cash in the venture, has an ulterior motive in making the investment. The father-in-law is in reality a white collar racketeer, and he has seen the opportunity to use the discotheque as a clearing house for the sale and disposal of narcotics. After some time the son-in-law apprises himself of the situation, but in the end result is forcibly bought out of the nightclub by his father-in-law, and departs to England to try his hand at a night club venture there.

Mr Leloir in his short submission complained of the descriptions of sex, violence, and drug taking used in the book. We think he accepted that the novel had honesty of purpose, but submitted that there were some episodes that were on or over the borderline of tolerance.

We have read this book with care. Our assessment of the novel is that the plot and the characters and their interactions to one another have been thought out and developed carefully. We are not prepared to accept that the book has been written as a vehicle for the satisfaction of any interest that could be classified as indecent.

Certainly criticism could be directed at particular episodes in the book, but in view of our assessment of the book as a whole, we are not prepared to accept that the descriptions go beyond the borderline of tolerance and so we find ourselves unable to accept Mr Leloir's submission that there should be an age restriction in respect of this publication, and we declare the book to be not indecent.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for a decision in respect of the following publication: China Nights, by Ralph Shaw, published by Zebra Books, New York, U.S.A.

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

Judge W. M. Willis (chairman),
Mrs H. B. Dick,
Messrs J. V. B. McLinden and I. W. Malcolm.

Hearing: 2 December 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. Leloir for Comptroller of Customs. No appearance or submissions on behalf of the importer Magman International Pty. Ltd.

Decision

China Nights was imported commercially and seized at Auckland in June 1980. As the importer has disputed forfeiture the Customs Department has referred the publication to the Tribunal for classification, with the recommendation that the book should not be freely available without restriction.

The publication is a paperback novel, 288 pages in length, and according to the imprint, was first published in 1973 under the title Sweet and Sour, and reissued as a paperback in 1974.

The novel has a ring of truth about it, based on the period prior to and during the Japanese attack on China in the 1930's, and in particular describing the city of Shanghai. The author gives a clear and seemingly authentic word-picture of those traumatic times, for he is portrayed as a western reporter or newsman closely associated with the war which eventually ravaged Shanghai, at a time when Europeans and Americans were tolerated by the Japanese, for this was prior to the attack on Pearl Harbour in 1941. The episodes of violence and explicit sexual description in the novel, and there are plenty of these, possibly illustrate and describe in detail life in China in the thirties. Looked at from a distance of nearly 50 years the material in the novel could be classified as crude and indecent, but taken in its context China Nights describes incidents and episodes which have indeed taken place. The story has an authenticity and a feeling of credibility about it.

For these reasons the Tribunal would not be prepared to declare the novel indecent, nor to place any restriction on its availability to the public.

We declare China Nights to be not indecent.

Hearing: 2 December 1980.

Decision: 4 March 1981.

Appearances: No appearance for importer, Mr D. L. Bevin. Mr P. E. Leloir for Comptroller of Customs.

Decision

All these publications were imported privately by parcel post and seized at Auckland in July 1980. The importer has disputed forfeiture so that the books have been referred to the Tribunal for classification prior to the commencement of condemnation proceedings pursuant to the Customs Act 1966. There was no appearance of the importer, Mr D. L. Bevin of Auckland, but the Customs Department made very short submissions.

Each book is a paperback and as the titles would seem to suggest they are of a pornographic nature. Mr Leloir for the Comptroller submitted that in most cases the episodes were concerned with crude sex in all its aspects and were couched in lewd language. Many described in explicit detail sexual practices which were illegal in this country. It was submitted that all were devoid of literary or special merit which could offset the crude appeal to prurience. It was further submitted that they were grossly indecent and pornographic. The Tribunal does not think it necessary to go any further than to say that it accepts without hesitation the submissions made by Mr LeLoir. It is noted that in many, if not all the paperbacks in question, there are advertisements for other titles which would indicate that there are other books of a similar content. There is an attempt in some to suggest that these works are intended to be of a serious nature. If one word were to be chosen to describe them it could be "disgusting".

The Tribunal considers that the books can have an appeal only to the most prurient minded. There is, as submitted by the Comptroller, no literary or artistic merit in any of them and the majority of the public would find them grossly offensive. Indeed, the Tribunal would go so far as to say that this particular publishing house gives all appearances of dealing solely with works of the nature of those which have been considered, and would also go further to suggest that any publication from this particular house should be viewed with great suspicion. Each book is classified as indecent.

Decision of the Indecent Publications Tribunal

IN the matter of the Indecent Publications Act 1963, and in the matter of an application by the Comptroller of Customs for decisions in respect of the following publications:

1. Kinky Kats, No. 2; and
 2. Kinky Kats, No. 5;
- published by Ben's Books Ltd.

BEFORE THE INDECENT PUBLICATIONS TRIBUNAL

Judge W. M. Willis (chairman),
Mrs H. B. Dick, and
Mr J. V. B. McLinden.

Hearing: 4 November 1980.

Appearances: Mr P. E. F. M. Leloir for Comptroller of Customs. No appearance or submissions on behalf of the importer Mr G. L. Moir.

Decision

Kinky Kats editions Nos. 2 and 5, were seized by customs officials in June 1980. As the importer, Mr G. L. Moir, has disputed forfeiture, the Customs Department has referred the publications to the Tribunal for classification prior to the commencement of condemnation proceedings pursuant to the Customs Act 1966.

The books are soft covered publications measuring 12 cm by 17.5 cm in respect of edition No. 2, and 11 cm by 16.5 cm in respect of edition No. 5. Edition No. 2 contains approximately 200 pages and edition No. 5 contains approximately 150 pages. There is no significant text in either of the publications, which are concerned with the cheap, and in our view, tasteless, presentation of black and white photographs of females in various settings.

Mr Leloir submitted that the publications concerned females mostly in contrived and provocative poses with an underlying theme of bondage and violence. As well he further stated:

"It is noted that in some of the photographs, to offset the crude appeal to the salacious, the genital areas have been painted out by representations of underwear."

In considering our classification of these publications we must note at the outset that there are no photographs of full frontal nudity nor of exposed female genitalia. However we turn now to examine each publication.

Edition No. 2:

Many of the photographs in this publication concern two or more women in artificial settings and costumes designed, we think, to depict sadistic and deviant aspects of sex.

There is no artistic merit in the book, nor, as already stated, is there text of any significance.

Notwithstanding that there are no direct exposures of female genitalia, the Tribunal, after the careful consideration of the provisions of section 11, and the judgments of their Honours in Waverley Publishing Co. v. Customs [1980] 1, N.Z.L.R. 631, is of the opinion that this publication is injurious to the public good because of its significant pictorial representation of violence in sex, and photographs carrying overtones of female sexual deviation, to be indecent.

Edition No. 5:

This publication is primarily devoted to photographs of single models, as opposed to the group photographs in the other edition. There is heavy emphasis on photography of the genital area, and almost all the photographs show the model in a "contrived" position. However, as stated before, the genital area in almost every case is covered by clothing, or by having the area obscured by "touching" the photographic negative. There is no significant text, and there is no material of a non sexual nature.

Notwithstanding the absence of exposed genitalia, the Tribunal feels after very careful consideration, the Kinky Kats Edition No. 5 is injurious to the public good because of the patently offensive and contrived positions of the models. The repetitious portrayal of the female pelvic area in such positions, combined with the absence of any other redeeming factor in the publication, leaves the Tribunal in no doubt that the publisher intended to highlight sex in a lewd manner, and one which we find unacceptable.

For all the above reasons we declare Kinky Kats editions Nos. 2 and 5 to be indecent.
