Decision of the Films Censorship Board of Review

PURSUANT to section 82 of the Cinematograph Films Act 1976, Columbia Warner Distributors applied for a review of the feature film Angel of Vengeance. The review was held in Wellington on 30 October 1981.

The film opens with a sodomy-rape at gunpoint of the central character who is mute. She returns to her flat only to confront a burglar, who rapes her in a long drawn-out sequence which ends with the girl managing to kill her attacker. The girl subsequently dismembers the body of the intruder, storing the pieces in her refrigerator, she later disposes of the pieces of the corpse around New York's city.

The 2 rapes unhinge the girl mentally, and she pursues a bizarre course of revenge, using the burglar's revolver. She undergoes a character transformation from being a shy, introverted clothing worker by day, to being a sexual predator by night, setting herself up as a target on the streets in order to lure and kill as many men as possible. The last scene of the film shows a mass slaying at the girl's office party depicted in slow motion which concludes with the girl being knifed to death.

The majority of the Board felt that the film was injurious to the public good. In the majority's view the film had little to recommend it. Its dominant theme was one of violence and it would appeal to few members of the public. The majority found the film offensive and unrealistic.

The minority of the Board did not consider that the film would be injurious to the public good. Although violence was the theme of the film it was felt that overall it had a degree of thematic coherence and integrity. Most of the violence was unexplicit. One member was of the opinion that the film attempted, albeit clumsily, to explore the various manifestations of women's oppression, most obviously the physical aspect, together with the deeply destructive effect such oppression could have. The minority recommended an R18 classification accompanied by a warning note.

In terms of section 28 of the Cinematograph Films Act, Angel of Vengeance was refused approval for exhibition. Mr Menzies, Mrs Walker, Dr Priestley dissenting.

J. M. PRIESTLEY, Chairman.

The entire Board noted with some concern the number of films recently referred to it by distributors which explicitly linked sex and violence. Although some of these films have been approved, some with cuts; the overall artistic appeal of such films is minimal. Given the wide number of commercially viable films which are available for distribution overseas, many of which are not brought to New Zealand, it is, in the opinion of the Board, a pity that distributors wish to bring to this country border-line films of such limited merit and appeal.

J. M. PRIESTLEY, Chairman.

Exchange Rates

In terms of section 25 (2) of the Reserve Bank of New Zealand Act 1964, the Reserve Bank today released outer limits for rates of exchange to be used in transactions involving the conversion of New Zealand currency into foreign currencies and foreign currencies into New Zealand currency when delivery of the foreign currency dealt in will be effected by telegraphic transfer. The following range of rates, for the main currencies used by New Zealand traders in settling foreign exchange transactions, will remain in force until replaced by a new Schedule issued by the Reserve Bank. These rates do not apply to transactions for settlement after the expiration of 2 business days (forward transactions) or to transactions in which instruments are purchased which do not entitle the buyer to foreign currency balances in the foreign centre until the instruments have been delivered at the foreign centre. In the latter case interest at foreign centre rates may be deducted from the telegraphic transfer rate to compensate the purchaser for his loss during the transit period.

THE MAORI AS HE WAS

By Elsdon Best

295 p. 1974 reprint.

$6.50 plus 70c p & p

Fifty years of public demand since this book was first published resulted in the need for reprints in 1934 and 1952. The text has been reproduced unchanged but the originals of some of the figures could not be traced and these have been replaced with similar illustrations. There have been many advances in our knowledge of Maori life since this book first appeared. The work of numerous ethnologists, and more recently archaeologists, has critically examined many of the earlier concepts, confirming some, disproving others, and altering others to varying degrees. No one has yet produced a synthesis of the results of all this scholarship and there is still nothing as comprehensive as this book of Best's to give a general account of the Maori. This book was first published when Best was 68 and thus represents the accumulated knowledge of a lifetime. It has now become a classic introduction to Maori life. Its continued availability should help the reader to obtain a basic background to old time Maori life which can be extended by further reading.

THE MAORI CANOE

The material presented on canoes, their materials, types, methods of construction, and associated artifacts make interesting reading for the layman as well as for scholars of the Maori. SHADOW OF THE LAND

By Ian Wards

422 p. 1968. plus 70c p. & p. $9
 The title for this book was provided by Nopera Panakarero, a Kaitiā chief of much influence, who, in May 1840, believed that only the "shadow of the land" had gone to Queen Victoria whilst the substance remained with the Maoris. Less than a year later he revised this opinion convinced that only the "shadow" would be the Maori portion.

The author examines the British acquisition of New Zealand, the Maoris, trust in the Treaty of Waitangi, and their confidence that its terms would be honoured and explains it was only by accident that the Maoris were guaranteed the possession of their lands and ancient privileges.

It is under these circumstances that the book considers the use of military force in New Zealand, analyses the arguments surrounding the provision of troops and concludes that, beyond any reasonable doubt that there was never an attempt to govern by "moral suasion".

New Zealand followed the normal nineteenth century British pattern of territorial acquisition.

The book is an essential introduction to the Maori wars of a later date.

FOREST LORE OF THE MAORI*By Elsdon Best*

DOMINION MUSEUM BULLETIN No. 14

421 p. 1977. $17.95 plus $1.25 p & p

Printed without textual alteration, the work provides an important basis for any study of old-time Maori economics and perhaps more important of his attitude to what was a major part of his environment. It will be more of general interest today than when first written, since it stresses so fully the uses made by the Maori people of their natural resources, and supplies basic materials for further studies in ethnobotany and ethnozoology. The reverence which the old time Maori showed towards natural resources mirrors the modern concern for ecological principles.
