Decision No. 1/82
Com 1/80

Before the Broadcasting Tribunal

IN the matter of the Broadcasting Act 1976 and in the matter of a complaint by Edward Charles John Bourke Haliburton.

WARRANT HOLDER: Radio Pacific Ltd: (1XP).

Hearing: 1 December 1981.

DECISION

The Complaint:

FOLLOWING his participation in a public debate about illegal drugs Mr Haliburton was invited to appear on Radio Pacific on 27 September 1979. He was taken to the station by Mr P. A. D. Williams who had suggested him for use on a programme. Mr Williams believed him to be Lord Haliburton of Dirleton. He introduced him to the host of the programme Lindsey Dawson as Lord Haliburton. Mr Haliburton asked to be called Ned. He gave a message to the receptionist to be passed on to Miss Dawson to that effect.

She had already spoken to him on the telephone to establish his background and what he might say on the programme. He had told her that he had a valid title claim but he did not use the title in New Zealand, preferring to be called Ned Haliburton. Presumably as a result of information supplied by Mr Williams or gathered during discussions with him, she asked him whether he had been a naval intelligence officer. Mr Haliburton said that he told her that he had entered the Royal Navy through Dartmouth as a cadet, was subsequently trained for intelligence as a midshipman but did not become operative, being invalided out of the navy at the age of 19. He made it clear that his work on British counter-intelligence in the late 1950's had nothing to do with his career in the navy.

The programme was apparently originally to be conducted by Mr G. W. J. Dryden who had already interviewed him and another person who took part in the public debate earlier, as a preview to that debate. However, when it came to the date of the programme Mr Dryden was not available and the programme was hosted by Lindsey Dawson. During the programme Miss Dawson addressed Mr Haliburton as Ned.

His first complaint is that about half way through the programme, immediately after a commercial break, she told listeners that he was really Lord Haliburton but preferred to be called Ned.

He considered the programme successful. During the programme he made statements alleging that the British Government, the medical establishment and, to some extent the media, were involved in the spread of drug addiction. Mr Haliburton has a view on the topic which has led to his making submissions to Parliament which developed the theme that drug addiction is promoted by the British security service and by the Soviet KGB. He believes that the drug problem was manufactured in New Zealand with the arrival of a handful of British immigrants versed in drug administration and techniques of infiltration who found employment in the Health Department, the Justice Department and the medical profession. In his view "a junky doctor" movement began, centred on Wellington.

After the broadcast there was some lighthearted conversation in the foyer during which Mr Haliburton says he was invited to return in a couple of weeks to do a further programme. When he returned to his home at Orewa he was called by a station reporter who said that the British High Commission had just released a statement saying that he was a bogus lord, was never in the navy and had a criminal conviction. He assumed that report to be correct as to statements made by the High Commission but gave a strong rebuttal to it. Nevertheless several news bulletins were broadcast to which he took exception. They provoked the second part of the complaint.

One news bulletin read as follows:

"Finally we've been checking some of the claims made by Lord Ned Haliburton this morning on Radio Pacific. Apparently Lord Haliburton doesn't like to be addressed by his title. According to the British High Commission in Wellington, that's no wonder.

"He doesn't appear in any of the usual reference books on peerages . . . Who's Who, Whittaker's or Debretts haven't heard of him . . . that is Debretts in fact have . . . he appears in their lists of bogus peers. Neither does Lord Haliburton appear on the Royal Navy's list of retired officers. The High Commission did however know of our Lord Haliburton, in fact they've frequently heard of him."

(There are some minor differences between the script and a transcript supplied by Mr Haliburton which was made from a recording. The differences arise from the news reader's poor diction. They are not material to the complaint.)

Another news item on 27 September concluded:

"Furthermore Lord Haliburton's bona fides appeared to be questionable themselves. He maintains he doesn't like to use his title in this country. Understandable, says the British High Commission, since the only one of several public lists of peerages and such like that mentions him is Debretts on their list of bogus peers.

"Another of Lord Haliburton's claims, that he's a former Royal Naval officer also isn't shown on any retired officers list that the service has. As for the secret service, well, they're pretty secret, they don't release names of their agents, past, present or even fictitious."

A later bulletin broadcast probably at 7 a.m. on 29 September 1979 includes this report:

"There have been 2 official reactions to claims made yesterday by Lord Ned Haliburton . . . who claims he was a British secret agent . . . that the New Zealand narcotics trade was started by the British secret service.

"New Zealand's National Drugs Intelligence Bureau Director Paul Fitzharris says the claims are a load of rubbish.

"And the British High Commission say the only knowledge it has of Lord Haliburton is in Debretts book of peers . . . where he's on the list of bogus peers.

Another claim by Lord Haliburton that he's a retired naval officer was also checked . . . and he's not listed there either."

He objected to a number of news bulletins which carried these and similar statements.

It appears that after the programme the station decided, in view of the nature of the allegations made about the British Government and the assertions about the Secret Service and its involvement in the drug trade, that Mr Haliburton's credentials were to be checked.

The third part of the complaint is that there was a reference to a press statement by the British High Commission when there was no such press statement.

That aspect was subsequently sorted out by a letter from the First Secretary, British High Commission in Wellington to the complainant which reads:

"In reply to your undated letter, I can assure you that we have released no statement, or made any allegations, about you. We did, however, respond as helpfully as we could, to queries by Radio Pacific on 27 September.

The station telephoned us and asked if we could tell them whether there was a British Peer named Lord Ned Haliburton. We consulted our reference books, including Burke's Peerage, and replied that there was not as far as we could tell.

We were also asked if we could tell them whether "Lord Ned Haliburton" has been an officer in the British Navy. We said that without reference to London we could not say conclusively, but we consulted the most recent copy that we have (1977) of "The Navy List of Retired Officers", together with the "Emergency List" and replied that the name did not appear in it.

That, briefly, was the extent of the questions and answers."

The station had also telephoned the College of Heralds in London and the Admiralty.

Committee of Private Broadcasters

On 7 January 1980 Mr Haliburton's complaint was lodged with the Committee of Private Broadcasters. On 14 March a statement of facts was received from him. On 18 June 1980 the Committee declined to uphold the complaint.

Hearing

At first Mr Haliburton wanted the Committee of Private Broadcasters to reconsider the matter. On 15 September 1980 he wrote to the Broadcasting Tribunal lodging a form of complaint but declining to sign the statutory declaration required. In October 1980 he said he would sign the declaration and returned the form. It was not at that stage noticed that he had not actually signed where required for the declaration, although a constable had purported to take the declaration. The Tribunal invited him to meet it when it was sitting in Auckland in December 1980 in order that it could give preliminary consideration to the complaint, and in particular, to consider the nature and extent of the hearing which should be provided for the complaint. The Tribunal has a discretion as to whether or not to determine a complaint and, if it does, whether to deal with it on the papers submitted or to convene a formal hearing at which the parties can appear.

Mr Haliburton declined to meet the Tribunal. He was then requested to complete the complaint form by signing the declaration. He declined to do so until 5 August 1981 when he signed it on the basis that he was to be given an oral hearing. He was informed that the declaration had to be signed without qualification and it was only after he had taken the advice of his Member of Parliament to whom the procedure had been explained, that he lodged a complaint in proper form on 10 November 1981. A hearing was given on 1 December 1981.

The Tribunal notes that it is not usual to deal with complaints at such a long period after the hearing but made an exception in this case.

The Tribunal decided to have an oral hearing. At the hearing Mr Haliburton called evidence from Mr P. A. D. Williams, Mrs B. C. Faithfull and Dr R. A. Lochore. He also gave evidence himself. For the warrant holder M. D. Jack made submissions.

In the circumstances, and because Mr Haliburton clearly felt severely aggrieved at the treatment he had received from the station, we allowed him to be legally represented at the hearing. As it transpired however, Mr Haliburton largely conducted his own case and Mr Banbrook largely confined himself to assisting in the presentation of that case and making opening and closing submissions.

When Mr Haliburton had been asked earlier to summarise his complaint he did so in a single sentence—

"That Gordon William John Dryden without previous declaration to the Broadcasting Tribunal and as far as we know without the Tribunal's permission, has operated Radio Pacific as a covert pro-communist broadcasting agency dealing in disinformation and black propaganda with the object of discrediting certain persons and institutions and shaping public opinion in directions favoured by the Soviet Union and in so far as he has done this it is in breach of his broadcasting warrant."

At the hearing Mr Haliburton agreed that his complaint was as follows:

1. That contrary to his specific request he had been described as Lord Haliburton.
2. That inaccurate reports and statements allegedly made by the British High Commission had been broadcast.
3. That he had been said to be posing as a naval officer.
4. That there is in fact no list of bogus peers.

It is clear that the Tribunal had jurisdiction to deal with those specific complaints as they were in substance the complaints he had made to the Committee of Private Broadcasters. The Tribunal had no jurisdiction to consider the wider statements made and the Tribunal excluded evidence of general complaints about the station from Mrs Faithfull, the subsequent conduct of the station towards Mr Haliburton as a complainant who had lodged a large number of complaints against the station to the Committee of Private Broadcasters, and of claims that he had been banned from the station.

1. Broadcast description as Lord Haliburton

To the Tribunal, Mr Haliburton's agreement that he did not consider Lindsey Dawson's use of his name was intended to be malicious. She had winked at the same time as she told the audience that he was really Lord Haliburton. He had passed her a note to "drop the title". It is fair to say that he did not pursue this aspect of his complaint as one which was important to him. After hearing the evidence the Tribunal does not uphold this part of the complaint.

The Tribunal is satisfied from the evidence of Mr Haliburton and the witnesses he called, that he does nothing to discourage the impression that he is in fact Lord Haliburton. He signs letters, cheques and all except very personal correspondence "Haliburton". His chequebook is printed "Lord and Lady Haliburton". While he tells people not to call him Lord Haliburton and asks that they call him Ned Haliburton, he does not say he is not entitled to be known as Lord Haliburton. When asked, he told us that he was Lord Haliburton. His wife takes a more positive attitude. She describes herself as Lady Haliburton. He says that she is generally known as Lady Grace Haliburton which sometimes leads people to believe that she has the right to a title herself, which he says is not correct. Any right she has to be called Lady Haliburton arose from his rights.

He admits that he enjoys being known as Lord Haliburton which contrasts with his letter of complaint in which he categorised Miss Dawson's revelation of his title "as a harmless piece of snobism, not part of a set up especially when she said a little later that this was the first time they had had in the studio 'a Lord!'" It is therefore not accurate to say that he has never referred to himself as Lord Haliburton. His conduct gives every impression that he is Lord Haliburton and is entitled to be so called.

While broadcasters should respect any arrangements entered into, we are not satisfied Lindsey Dawson entered into any arrangement with her guest not to reveal that he was a peer of the realm, although she obviously agreed to (and did in fact) call him Ned Haliburton.

2. Inaccurate reports and statements

The second complaint relates to the news bulletins. Mr Haliburton was concerned that news bulletins had referred to a press statement from the British High Commission. We do not consider it material whether there was a press statement or merely a statement to the "press" on enquiry. The substance of the statement is what is important. We do not uphold the earlier complaint regarding the use of the term "statement".

Mr Haliburton raised no complaint about the content of the bulletins in so far as they reported what he had said on the programme, allegations that the narcotics trade in New Zealand was started by the British Secret Service as a result of a deliberate decision in the early 1960's because they feared the Soviet or other secret services could do the same.

It is appropriate here to consider Mr Haliburton's actual status and background. His claim to a peerage arises, he told us, from the fact that his great uncle (his grandfather's brother) had a title but died without issue. He says that he could prove his entitlement but that the expense would be too much for him to pay. He referred to one person having to pay as much as 35,000 pounds sterling to establish a claim to a Scots title.

The standard reference works show the peerage he referred to, that of Baron Haliburton of Windsor in the Province of Nova Scotia and the Dominion of Canada, as extinct since 21 April 1907 when the original and only Baron Haliburton died. That is the entry in Burke's Peerage 1911. There are similar entries in other reference books. The title also appears as extinct in "The New Extinct Peerages 1884-1971".

Some of the statements made by Mr Haliburton appear to connect him with another title, Lorn Haliburton of Dirleton. That title is listed as forfeited in 1600 when its holder was created an Earl which later title is still borne by a British family. The former title of Lord Haliburton of Dirleton is recorded as returned to the Crown at that time and is listed in Burke's "Dormant, Abeyant, Forfeited and Extinct Peerages" as forfeited.

Mr Haliburton has not made any formal claim to these titles and yet considers himself entitled to (although he does not choose to) call himself Lord Haliburton. It is clear however that as far as the reference works are concerned, the peerages do not fall into the category of those which could be described as dormant or abeyant as both are listed as either forfeited or extinct.

If a person who has not established a claim to be called a lord chooses not to deny that he is a lord, and accepts references made to him as a lord and signs cheques and letters as if he were a peer, it would not be inaccurate to describe his use of those titles as counterfeit or a sham. It is analogous to a person using an academic title to which he believed he had a claim but which had not been conferred by a university.

Dr R. A. Lochore, a retired New Zealand diplomat, introduced Mr and Mrs Haliburton at a luncheon as "Lord Haliburton who prefers to be known in New Zealand as Ned Haliburton and his wife Lady Haliburton". He had checked this introduction with Mr Haliburton first.

Mr Haliburton's wife describes herself as Lady Haliburton. They use a chequebook printed "Lord and Lady Haliburton", he signs letters "Haliburton" and in asking not to be called Lord Haliburton implies he is entitled to be called that. All that suggests that he has a legally established peerage. That is plainly not the case and he agrees that he has taken no steps to establish it. (It appears that this claim would need to be established because he says he is not a direct descendant of the last Baron Haliburton.)

Mr Haliburton denied there was any list of bogus peers in the reference works. But he did not claim he was listed as the person entitled to the title. For a person so interested in his right to a title it seems strange that he did not acknowledge that it would be listed as extinct or dormant. It is clear that the reporter could well have been told by the British High Commission that Haliburton was "listed" among the extinct peerages. In the circumstances and having regard to his comment we do not consider that the word bogus was the best word to use or that it conveyed the exact nuance. However, in the circumstances the impression it conveyed (that he was in fact holding himself out as a peer and that he had no established claim to that peerage) was not an inaccurate one. Heinemann's New Zealand dictionary defines bogus as counterfeit or sham.

We do not know the strength of any claim Mr Haliburton might have. We do know he has not established any right to a peerage. He is therefore not recognised in any official or formal way. He agreed that he was, in the classic sense, a pretender. We do not consider that Mr Haliburton can avoid the imputation that his title is bogus when he has not pursued the role of a claimant and he continues to allow himself to be known as Lord Haliburton without any official recognition.

We do not find the report to be inaccurate although it was loosely worded and might have been made more specific by first hand reference to freely available texts.

We do not consider Mr Haliburton was unfairly or unjustly treated. This part of the complaint is not upheld.

3. Posing as a Naval Officer

With regard to the allegation about his contact with British Naval Intelligence, Mr Haliburton agrees that it is possible that he conveyed the impression that he was a naval officer by his reference to Dartmouth. Certainly his witness Mr Williams told us he believed Mr Haliburton had held a commission. Mr Williams said Mr Haliburton had told him he had been a cadet who had not completed at Dartmouth because his back was broken. Mr Haliburton agrees that, on occasions, he has referred to the fact that he was a midshipman; and this was a formal step in the process to a commissioned officer. He also said that he was sent to Oxford to train as an intelligence officer, but this was not completed for health reasons.

Mr Haliburton also said he was working as a journalist in the 1960's contributing to the Daily Sketch and the Sunday Times, as a front for work for British counter-intelligence. He did not deny statements by witnesses that he had seen his own security file and claimed that it was this file that possibly led to information being given by the High Commission about him.

Mr Haliburton says that probably he did not deny he was a naval officer. He says however that he never claimed on the programme that he had been a naval officer.

(The allegation put to him by telephone that he had a conviction arose from events which he said occurred when he was investigating malpractice by doctors in relation to drugs in the south of England. He spent 5 months in jail on a charge of assault. He had been sentenced to 6 months imprisonment as a result of evidence which he said was falsely given by doctors in order to frame him. After 5 months in prison, he said, he obtained a new trial on the grounds of perjury and was acquitted.)

Although he gives his profession as journalism he is not employed as a journalist. He came to New Zealand in 1975 and, he says, in ill health—admitted on compassionate grounds. He has had an invalidity benefit but, he told the Tribunal, the New Zealand Government had now awarded him National Superannuation although he had not reached the eligible age.

It was his appreciation of what the New Zealand Government had done for him that has led him to take up the drugs issue.

Mr Haliburton sometimes states facts in a manner which gives a misleading impression. This occurred when he wrote to newspapers saying that he was researching an inquiry for the Broadcasting Tribunal into media dissemination of false and provocative information (when in fact he was simply a complainant) inviting people to write to him about the Russian desinformatsiya fabricating false information in New Zealand.

He used expressions to us such as "when I came out of the navy" which give an impression of service with the navy. That, and his association with Dartmouth he accepts can lead to the impression that he had been a naval officer. He told us that his wife (being a county councillor) preferred to be called Councillor Haliburton. But his witness Dr Lochore told us she preferred to be called Lady Haliburton.

Given the sort of allegations he made on the air, we consider it reasonable that the station should be entitled to refer to any doubt about his qualifications. Mr Haliburton is the author of any embarrassment over his naval or intelligence connections. The complaint in this respect is not upheld.

We regret that the station did not go about its research in a methodical and clear way as they could have established his status at the public library and could also have researched his drug activities which apparently they took no steps to do. We consider it may have been more important to consider his authority to speak on those topics, rather than to investigate the peerage.

No list of bogus peers

This has already been referred to in considering part 2 of the complaint.

Mr Haliburton accepts that the knowledge that he is a lord is likely to make his statements more newsworthy. We have noted a tendency to misstate what other people have said or done. He is also quick to attack the integrity and motivation of others whilst making sweeping attacks on other people and institutions.

Mr Haliburton claims that the statements made by the station were defamatory but that he had no resources to pursue those in a court of law. The Committee of Private Broadcasters considered it had no grounds to deal with defamation. It does have the power to do so to the extent that the statements made breach the Radio Rules and Standards or the provisions of the Act. However, the Committee found that in their opinion such breaches had not occurred.

The Tribunal considers that, although the word bogus was an emotive one and its use borderline, it cannot uphold the complaint in the light of the actual situation as revealed by Mr Haliburton and his witnesses at the hearing.

Although there is no list headed "bogus", there are lists of extinct dormant forfeited and abeyant peerages. The listing of this title there, as extinct or forfeit combined with his "use" of the title puts the term "list of bogus peers" in the area of popular interpretation which, in this case, was just acceptable.

This part of the complaint is not upheld.

General

Mr Haliburton attributes to the news reports the failure of television to pursue a possible interview with him, the New Zealand Herald's failure to accept his letters which they had been accepting before and Radio New Zealand's ceasing to use him as their Hibiscus Coast correspondent.

Yet he admits that the newspapers in the United Kingdom would not take his copy—he suggests because of a campaign against him. He cannot accept the possibility that his material is being rejected on merit.

He conveyed the impression to us that he had been called in by the editor of Radio New Zealand News in Auckland to be told that he would no longer be their correspondent because he must be, like Caesar's wife, above suspicion. Yet, on questioning, it became clear that he saw that edition as a result of a serious disagreement with the chief reporter (or news editor) over the use of Mr Haliburton's views on drugs by Radio New Zealand. He was then invited to see the editor. It seems likely that the decision not to continue to use him arose from that dispute rather than because of Radio Pacific news reports.

While Mr Haliburton fosters the belief that he is entitled to be called Lord Haliburton but has no established claim to that form of address, it would not be surprising if news editors and senior journalists treat his strong views with some caution.

We do not absolve Radio Pacific from all responsibility in relation to this complaint. It is clear that if they were going to use him in this programme they knew enough about his views to do the checks on his authority before the programme took place. When they subsequently did check some aspects of his background the resulting news items were poorly written and the subediting sloppy.

Decision

The complaint is not upheld.

Co-opted Members

Messrs Ell and Boyd-Bell were co-opted as persons whose qualifications or experience were likely, in the opinion of the Tribunal, to be of assistance to the Tribunal in dealing with the complaint. They took part in the hearing and the deliberations of the Tribunal but the decision is that of the permanent members.

Exchange Rates

IN terms of section 25 (2) of the Reserve Bank of New Zealand Act 1964, the Reserve Bank today released outer limits for rates of exchange to be used in transactions involving the conversion of New Zealand currency into foreign currencies and foreign currencies into New Zealand currency when delivery of the foreign currency dealt in will be effected by telegraphic transfer. The following range of rates, for the main currencies used by New Zealand traders in settling foreign exchange transactions, will remain in force until replaced by a new Schedule issued by the Reserve Bank. These rates do not apply to transactions for settlement after the expiration of 2 business days (forward transactions) or to transactions in which instruments are purchased which do not entitle the buyer to foreign currency balances in the foreign centre until the instruments have been delivered at the foreign centre. In the latter case interest at foreign centre rates may be deducted from the telegraphic transfer rate to compensate the purchaser for his loss during the transit period.

V. C. FAIRFAX, Director.

AUDITORS' REPORT TO THE MEMBERS

We have obtained all the information and explanations that we have required. In our opinion proper books of accounts have been kept by the bank so far as appears from our examination of those books.

In our opinion, according to the best of our information and the explanations given to us and as shown by the books the financial statements on pages 3—6 are properly drawn up using the historical cost method so as to give a true and fair view of the state of the bank's affairs as at 30 September 1981 and the results of its business and changes in financial position for the year ended on that date.

According to such information and explanations the financial statements give the information required by the Companies Act 1955 in the manner so required.

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

YEAR ENDED 30 SEPTEMBER 1981

1. Statement of Accounting Policies

The general accounting principles for the measurement and reporting of profits and losses under the historical cost method have been adopted in the preparation of these financial statements.

The following particular accounting policies which materially affect the measurement of profit and of financial position have been applied and are unchanged from last year.

Valuation of Assets

New Zealand public securities are valued at cost adjusted annually for the proportion of discount or premium on purchase so as to allow redemption value by maturity date.

Sale of Public Securities

Profit or losses realised on sale of public securities are reflected in the statement of profit in equal annual instalments over the unexpired period to maturity or 5 years, whichever is the shorter.

Taxation

Deferred taxation has been adopted to account for timing differences primarily in respect of public security interest income accrued but not paid.

GENERAL PUBLICATIONSGOVERNMENT ACCOUNTING IN NEW ZEALAND

By David A. Preston

108 p. 1980. $9.75 plus 70c p & p

This book will be of particular interest to those whose daily occupations bring them into contact with the Government financial system; notably Government officials, journalists, members of Parliament, accountants in business, and the general commercial community, as well as academics and students. The text has, however, also been written with the general reader in mind.

GROWING, SHARING, LEARNING

120 p. 1977. $3.95 plus 45c p & p

J. G. JOHNSON, Chairman

The Report of the Committee on Health and Social Education which was set up in 1976 to:

- Identify the conditions under which healthy growth and development may be fostered in schools.
- To make recommendations on the studies and activities that should constitute school programmes, organisation, and relationships.

Department of Education.

LIVING LETTERS

STATE SERVICES COMMISSION

36 p. 1980 reprint. $1.75 plus 45c p & p

One of the aims in letter writing is to get ideas across to the reader clearly and briefly. But do letters always say what is meant? Even if they are clear to the writer, will the reader understand them easily? If you are still using the old clichés of "acknowledging receipt of", "according to our records", and "enclosed please find" it is almost certainly time to change your attitude to writing living letters.

MAORI RELIGION AND MYTHOLOGY PART 1

By Elsdon Best

NATIONAL MUSEUM BULLETIN No. 10

424 p. 1976. $18 plus $1.25 p & p

An account of the theory of the universe and its creation, study of the origin of man, religious beliefs, rites, magic and folklore of the Maori people of New Zealand. First published in 1924, reprinted without textual alterations and retaining the original bulletin numbers. (Government Printer.)

MAORI AGRICULTURE

By Elsdon Best

NATIONAL MUSEUM BULLETIN No. 9

315 p. 1976. $13.50 plus $1.25 p & p

The only comprehensive study of Maori agriculture available, this bulletin adds a further volume to the series of Elsdon Best's works which the Government Printer undertook to reprint preserving the original text and bulletin numbers. I recommend this book and the series as a whole; to collectors, archaeologists, and to those studying the prehistoric economy of the Maori people. (Government Printer.)

THE MAORI CANOE

By Elsdon Best

NATIONAL MUSEUM BULLETIN No. 7

451 p. 1976. $17.50 plus $1.25 p & p

A reprinted edition without textual alterations and retaining the old Dominion Museum number. Another example of Elsdon Best's dedicated effort to preserve Maori culture. The material presented on canoes, their materials, types, methods of construction, and associated artifacts make interesting reading for the layman as well as for scholars of the Maori. (Government Printer.)

THE MAORI AS HE WAS

By Elsdon Best

295 p. 1974 reprint. $6.50 plus 70c p & p

Fifty years of public demand since this book was first published resulted in the need for reprints in 1934 and 1952. The text has been reproduced unchanged but the originals of some of the figures could not be traced and these have been replaced with similar illustrations. There have been many advances in our knowledge of Maori life since this book first appeared. The work of numerous ethnologists, and more recently archaeologists, has critically examined many of the earlier concepts, confirming some, disproving others, and altering others to varying degrees. No one has yet produced a synthesis of the results of all this scholarship and there is still nothing as comprehensive as this book of Best's to give a general account of the Maori. This book was first published when Best was 68 and thus represents the accumulated knowledge of a lifetime. It has now become a classic introduction to Maori life. Its continued availability should help the reader to obtain a basic background to old time Maori life which can be extended by further reading.

MAORI

By Witi Ihimaera

45 p. 1975. $1.20 plus 35c p & p

A colourful booklet describing the coming of the Maori to New Zealand, his history, heritage, folklore, beliefs, and cultural unity.

Each chapter has a quotation from a Maori proverb, phrase, saying, or canoe chant and these concepts are presented in words and pictures.

Continues with the arrival of the pakeha and the pattern of events which followed, the Treaty of Waitangi and the Land Wars. Moves on to the Maori today, finishing with the theme, one country, two heritages in unity.

Well illustrated with 64 coloured photos, of interest to all New Zealanders and tourists. (Tourist and Publicity Department.)

MOA-HUNTER PERIOD OF MAORI CULTURE

ROGER DUFF—CANTERBURY MUSEUM BULLETIN No. 1

436 p. 3rd edition, 1977. $17.50 plus $1.25 p & p

This book deals with the most important site yet investigated and in its discussions it traverses most of the New Zealand archaeological field.

A chance discovery in 1939 by a 13-year-old boy revealed the grave of a chief in the gravels of the Wairau boulder bank. The grave, goods, and bones of the ancient chief, prone in his gravel grave, with skull directed towards the setting sun, spoke with more authority regarding his race than the distorted memories of Maori tradition.

Although scholarly and technical, the book sustains throughout the drama of this archaeological discovery, and recreates from the evidence of bone and stone the life of our first Polynesians in the Moa-hunter period of Maori culture.

NATIONAL PARKS OF NEW ZEALAND

178 p. Revised third edition, 1974. $10.50 plus $1.25 p & p

The revision of this popular publication has included numerous new colour plates and additional information on some of our parks. Because of the popularity of this book it is expected this edition will be in great demand. In addition to the book being an ideal souvenir for the overseas visitor it makes an ideal gift and also a valuable asset to anyone's home library.

NETBALL Revised—A Guide Book for Teachers, Coaches and Players

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

58 p. 1978 $2 plus 45c p & p

Netball is a spectacular exciting game which is played and enjoyed in many countries both by the very young and the more experienced and mature international players.

To obtain the utmost enjoyment it is essential that each player becomes skilful in the techniques and tactics of the game and to know and understand the rules.

While the publication is specially designed to assist teachers, coaches and players in schools, people interested in netball at all levels should find the material contained in this booklet of great assistance.

ORIENTEERING

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

86 p. 1980 $6.75 plus 70c p. and p.

This book introduces navigation skills and techniques and gives rules for course setters. Fully illustrated with maps, diagrams and photographs.

GLASSHOUSE TOMATOES—Agriculture Bulletin 3370

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

86 p. 1978. $3.25 plus 45c p & p

The present text replaces earlier editions of the bulletin. Important factors to consider when establishing a tomato-growing glasshouse, are lighting, soil type, site, water supply, shelter, and proximity to a market. These as well as general cultural practices are dealt with in this bulletin.

THE GEOLOGY OF NEW ZEALAND

820 p. 1978. $92.50 plus $4.00 p & p

The definitive work on New Zealand geology, this superbly produced 820-page 2-volume set has been written by some 38 specialists, under the editorship of three of New Zealand's most eminent geologists. The Geology of New Zealand is illustrated with over 370 photographs in colour and monochrome, and with more than 200 maps and line diagrams. A comprehensive supplement is included, incorporating all available new information up to the time of printing, together with five indexes.

THE PA MAORI

By Elsdon Best

NATIONAL MUSEUM BULLETIN No. 6

459 p., illustrated. Reprinted 1975 $15 plus $1.25 p & p

The bulletin contains a wealth of information and descriptions of many Pa sites and structures. Although great advances in archaeology have modified some of the details listed by Best and some of the PAs included in the book no longer exist, the information contained in this bulletin is still an important contribution in this field and is not readily available elsewhere.

SHADOW OF THE LAND

By Ian Wards

422 p. 1968. $9 plus 70c p & p

The title for this book was provided by Nopera Panakarero, a Kaitia chief of much influence, who, in May 1840, believed that only the "shadow of the land" had gone to Queen Victoria whilst the substance remained with the Maoris. Less than a year later he revised this opinion convinced that only the "shadow" would be the Maori portion.

The author examines the British acquisition of New Zealand, the Maoris, trust in the Treaty of Waitangi, and their confidence that its terms would be honoured and explains it was only by accident that the Maoris were guaranteed the possession of their lands and ancient privileges.

It is under these circumstances that the book considers the use of military force in New Zealand, analyses the arguments surrounding the provision of troops and concludes that, beyond any reasonable doubt that there was never an attempt to govern by "moral suasion".

New Zealand followed the normal nineteenth century British pattern of territorial acquisition.

The book is an essential introduction to the Maori wars of a later date.
