GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF WORKS

THE Wheao hydro-electric scheme utilises water diverted from the Rangitaiki River by a canal supplemented by water diverted from the Upper Wheao River by means of a tunnel into the Flaxy Creek reservoir and hence by a canal and penstocks through the Flaxy power station with a head of 30 metres into the main canal. The combined flow is then passed through a generating station in the gorge of the Wheao River with a hydraulic head of 130 metres.

Involved in the scheme are works to:

- Dam the Rangitaiki River in Block XIII, Wheao S.D. and divert up to 21 cumecs into a 4800-metre canal terminating at Wheao Power Station.
- Dam the Wheao River in Block II, Heruiwi S.D. to form a lake and spillway. Divert up to 12 cumecs through a tunnel into a lake formed by damming Flaxy Creek.
- Dam Flaxy Creek in Block XIV, Wheao S.D. and divert up to 8 cumecs through a canal and penstock and utilise the 30-metre head in the Flaxy powerhouse with a 2000 kW generator discharging into the main canal.
- Discharge up to 24 cumecs from the canal into 2 penstocks and thence into the Wheao River in Block XIV, Wheao S.D. and utilise the 130-metre head in the Wheao powerhouse with 2 generators having a combined rated capacity of 22,000 kW.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

This note is not part of the bylaws, but is intended to indicate their general effect.

These bylaws, which come into force on 1 March 1982, regulate the conduct of persons within the Poor Knights Islands Marine Reserve, and the conduct of scientific study in the reserve.

Any person who wishes to undertake scientific study in the reserve must make a written application to the Secretary at least 1 month before the intended date of commencement of the study, and obtain the approval of the Committee to the conduct of the study.

Except for areas of the reserve that are closed for scientific study, the public has unrestricted access to and the right to dive in the reserve.

Vessels may be anchored in the reserve so long as damage is kept to the minimum practicable level, but no vessel may be anchored within a closed area or within 100 metres of a buoy marking a closed area.

There is a speed restriction of 5 knots imposed on all vessels operating within 200 metres of the shore, and a requirement that a watch be kept from all vessels for divers using the reserve.

Areas closed for scientific study must be clearly marked by yellow buoys.
